ALMA MATER

Towering far above her neighbors,
Shop and mart and hall,
Stands the home of student-labors,
Noblest of them all!

At each meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee our Alma Mater,
Hail Pratt Institute!

In our hearts her precepts linger,
Her example gleams,
Showing with unerring finger
Guerdon of our Dreams.

At our meeting, for our greeting,
Bring her noble fruit,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

Round the world the chain extending
Each to the other binds,
All her honored name defending,
Hearts and hands and minds.

At our meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

Supervisor of the course of Industrial Chemical Engineering, member of the faculty since 1905, one time major of the Chemical Warfare Service, United States Army, godfather of all Pratt Institute chemical students and alumni, well-loved and respected teacher, raconteur of merit, fisherman of note, working example of the motto of the Institute "Help the other fellow." The combined classes of the Institute respectfully dedicate this Prattonia.

F O R E W O R D

SEEMINGLY each year the Prattonia Board has a bettered objective to overcome. This year it has been our steadfast intention to produce a Prattonia, not alone better, but the best.

A score of years ago a year book was introduced as the Pratt Institute Annual. In 1919 the book was given its present name "Prattonia." This year book of 1919 covered the Science and Technology School alone. In 1920 progress developed its expansion and the Fine and Applied Arts School was included. The growth was complete in 1921 when the entire student body shared the book alike, at which time every department of the Institute was considered.

To the student body of Pratt Institute do we submit this book. Its purpose being to preserve the memories so dear to us all.

The completion of such a year book has been a strenuous task, though one we are all proud to have shared. The Prattonia Board takes this opportunity to extend their sincere appreciation to those who have so loyally given their time and cooperation to make such a splendid annual. This is our bid for the best; may your criticism be not too severe, and in the future may it always be "Prattonia."

THE Prattonia Board wishes to express their sincere appreciation for the splendid cooperation given by many members of our student body, enabling us to incorporate and preserve memories so dear to all.

We are likewise gratefully indebted to our Faculty Advisors, Mr. Peterson, Miss Duntz, Mr. MacKenzie, Mr. Gordon, and Mr. Stevens for their professional assistance and advice.

The class representatives have by their cooperation made the task easier and to these are extended our appreciation for a task well done.

To those concerns who have handled the actual completion of the book, we offer our sincere gratitude.

SCHOOL OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

P R A T T O N I A

THE SCHOOL OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

THE special purpose of the School of Science and Technology is to afford a substantial higher technical education within the shortest period consistently possible, serving serious students to whom economy of time and money, either or both, is a material consideration. This intention is embodied in the School's day courses in engineering, whose extra-efficient two-year curricula, the product of many years' original evolution at Pratt Institute, parallel in general the technical content of the usual American four-year engineering college, but in a more intensive and practical form. While our plan requires but two years' attendance in the Institute, the minimum over-all period from high school graduation is at least three years, inclusive of certain employment that is required also. The advanced educational objective of our courses and their relatively short period in school necessitate intensified training methods, which in turn demand of the student ample capacity to assimilate rapidly presented instruction. This means that our student must possess general maturity, vocational purposefulness and other essential qualities that commonly develop sufficiently only after one or more years of post high school employment in related industrial or other regular occupation. Accordingly, this School prescribes such employment as a further qualification for pursuit of its admission, or, if preferred, may be fulfilled after the student completes his first year in Pratt Institute, when special placement service is available for the student's assistance in finding suitable employment.

The success of Pratt Institute's engineering courses appears most plainly in the careers of the several thousand graduates, a very high proportion of whom have made notably satisfactory progress in line with and importantly aided by this training. The School looks confidently to the Class of 1932 to sustain this good record, as its members go forth from the Institute this June, followed by the earnest good wishes and high anticipations of Faculty and Director.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING—1932

OF the many highways and byways that confront each individual it has certainly been a pleasure to have chosen one little trail together with a company like the Chemists of 1932. We believe that the spirit of brotherhood and companionship, that has come to us during these two years, is an important part of the life we are to live and enjoy.

At heart each one of us realizes, that, in an exceedingly brief time, we have acquired much to increase our understanding of the things which surround us and a realization of their worth. We honestly say that as the days at Pratt are ended, all of us can look back with pleasure from some elevation to the time we entered the Institute. Thus we can see just how we have traveled the rough spots and weathered the various problems and experiments.

We vividly remember "Doc" Allen, starting his last class of students, hoping they would retain the high records accomplished by all of his former classes. He will always be remembered for his emphasis on the removal of "a" from "insoluble."

In the line of sports, the chemists, although lacking in quantity, had the quality. Basketball, bowling and swimming found us near and baseball at the top of the Inter-Class League.

Our social activities were far from being an unimportant part of our school life. Who can forget the famed Wohler dances or those interesting lectures and meetings of the Wohler Society.

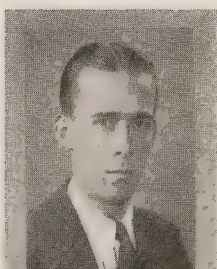

As we journey onward out into the fields of chemical industry, we can heartily say, that, if the members of the class could live on forever, there still would not be a lapse of time long enough to forget such faithful guides as Dr. Rogers, Dr. Allen, Dr. Jenness and Dr. Mantell.

The class wishes to thank all the faculty with whom they have come in contact, for their splendid cooperation. We feel that this keeps us fighting for success.

CLASS OFFICERS

ARTHUR C. HARPER, Jr., President
FRED GRANT, Vice-President

WILLIAM TEFFT, Secretary
ROBERT I. PETERS, Treasurer

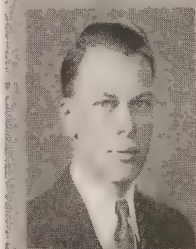

BANKS, MYRON G.

Banks

196 Clinton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Banks was born in Virginia, raised in Halifax, educated at Pratt and intends to go West after graduation. If success comes through the results of hard work, Banks will achieve success.

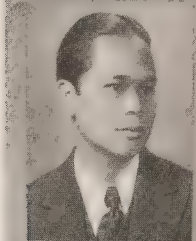

BLANCHARD, ROGER C.

Rod

27 Pond St., New Haven, Conn.

The quiet and cheerful member of the class. If effort is half of success, "Rod" will sure take a long journey on that good old ship, "Success".

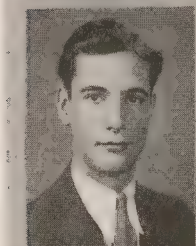

BOLIVAR, CUSTODIUS P.

CP

Pototan Islands, Philippine Islands

"CP" is the great little man of the class. A very conscientious worker. Jovial and well liked by all. However, we have not yet determined whether the "CP" stands for "Chemically Pure", "Carbon Pile", or "Constant Pressure".

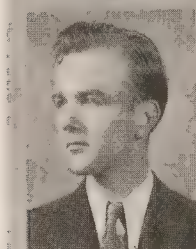

BOLSTER, HERMAN A.

Skish

East Peru, Maine.

The big potato man from "Squodunk", Maine. How this boy can play on his one string fiddle is nobody's business. "Skish" didn't have any time for school activities because his movie work kept him busy.

BOYLAN, HARRISON W.

Harry

116-35 Newburgh St., St. Albans, L. I., N. Y.

President Wohler Society, 1932; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Manager Class Swimming, 1932.

Does anyone need an analyst for Manganese compounds? "Harry" is the man for the job. His motto is "If you don't succeed try, try, again"; noted for his witticism.

CALLAN, J. ALLANCal*197 Fulton St., New Brunswick, N. J.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Bowling, 1932.

A quiet lad in school but a veritable tornado on the soccer field. Has a weakness for chemical theories. May all your theories come true, "Cal".

CARLSON, CARL G.Carl*1212 Director St., Seattle, Wash.

Prattonia Representative, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1931; Captain Class Soccer, 1932.

We wouldn't call him absentminded, but occasionally he locks up the wrong Chem drawers and leaves beakers on the hot plate over the weekend. By all means look up Carl when you travel west.

Class Soccer, 1932; Class Bowling, 1932; Class Basketball, 1932; Class Baseball, 1932.

Anyone who comes from Cornell to Pratt certainly knows his colleges. His captivating smile and his excellent knowledge of solubility products, plus his athletic ability, makes "Ky" one of our best liked classmates.

FAIRBANK, JOSHUA M.Jot*223 N. Main St., Naugatuck, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

A sage of the bowling alley. His versatile accomplishments also consist of a complete mastery of the Uke. For jests and jokes he has no equal.

FEUSS, THOMAS A.Tom*150 St. James Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The philosopher of the chemistry class. If any question arises concerning philosophy, science or religion, it is quickly settled by "Tom".

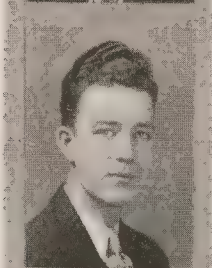

GLIDDEN, GORDON E.

Gord

10 Liberty St., Fort Edward, N. Y.

The big boy of the class with a big heart and glad smile. That happy-go-lucky spirit will carry him a long way. We will long remember him for his imitation of Andrew H. Brown.

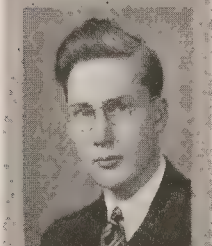

GRANT, FREDERICK C.

Freddie

104 N. Main St., Black River, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1931; Class Vice-President, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1932; Class Baseball, 1932; Editor-in-Chief Prattonia, 1932.

"Freddie", our executive, scholar and athlete. He has the knack of making everything he tries, turn out well. In the future, "Freddie", keep away from formaldehyde.

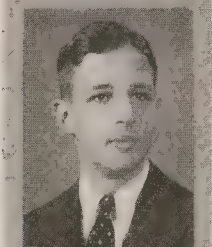

HAMMOND, HOWLAND B.

Pete

Box 304, Jamestown, R. I.

Class Soccer, 1931; Class Baseball Manager, 1932.

Pratt's gift from Rhode Island. "Pete" is another of our musicians. We hope some day that he will assemble that accordion, sax and harmonica to make a one man band.

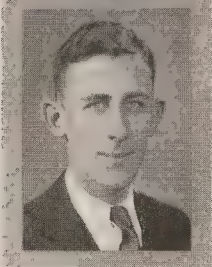

HARPER, ARTHUR C., Jr.

Bud

1268 Penn Ave., Wyomissing, Pa.

Class President, 1931-32; Vice-President Student Council, 1931; President Student Council, 1932; Varsity Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32; Circulation Manager Prattonia, 1932.

"Bud" is our genial class president, whom we predict will easily find his way in the world.

HAWTHORNE, HAROLD R.

Hal

14 Wellington St., St. Catherines, Ont., Can.

Class Swimming, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1932.

"Hal" has something all over the rest of us. We can never tell whether he is sleeping or listening when in class. It is an art we all have tried to acquire from him.

HOLIAN, WILLARDWill*95 Elmont Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

A quiet unassuming fellow from the brass city of Waterbury. His private life is somewhat of a mystery to us but we do know he has a weakness for chocolate frosted.

HUANG YAO-TSAIWang*Nan Wu College, Honan, Canton, China.

Due to ill health "Wang" was unable to graduate with the class of '31. Although the laundry man type "Wang" is by no means a "wash-out". Clever people these Chinese. Best wishes for your success from the Class of '32.

Manager Class Soccer, 1932.

Our big leather and hide man from Johnstown. When stories are wanted for any occasion ask "Irish". They flow as freely as does his information on leather tanning.

KABELKA, PETER J.Pete*19 Park Ave., Torrington, Conn.

Manager Class Bowling, 1932.

"Pete" is an able leader. We all know him for that determined chin and his executive ability he exhibited as foreman in the industrial laboratory.

LERNER, NATHAN M.Nat*684 Ralph Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Nat" started out to be a "boiler maker" but found later that Chemistry was more to his liking. We will remember him for the successful class dances he promoted.

MURPHY, EDWARD W.

Eddie

13 Washington Ave., Holyoke, Mass.

Manager Interclass Soccer, 1932.

The only trouble with "Eddie" is that you can never get mad at him. His sense of humor certainly has cheered up many dull moments.

NOWAKOWSKI, HENRY E.

Nowa

164 Eckford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If you have any questions about chemistry come around and let "Nowa" clear them up for you. We hope in the future he will buy a cane for that stroll of his.

PETERS, ROBERT I.

Bob

33 Stephens Court, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1931-32; Class Bowling, 1931-32; Class Treasurer, 1931-32; Secretary Athletic Council, 1931-32; Photographic Sales Manager, Prattonia, 1932.

"Bob" is the class banker. A true classmate with a fine personality. "When are you going to pay your class dues?"

SIMSER, LESLIE S.

Les

Box 43, Black River, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1931-32.

"Les" is possessed with a virtue that will always benefit him in his social life. We refer to nothing but his wit which seems to appeal to many of the fairer sex. He will long be remembered for his congenial smile.

SMITH, RUSSELL P.

Russ

156 Teaneck Rd., Ridgefield Park, N. J.

Class Swimming, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1932.

The man with an answer for everything. Noted for his captivating smile. He smokes O. P. C.'s if he can get them—if not, he smokes his own.

STACY, ALBERTAl*62 Chestnut St., Lawrence, Mass.

"Al" is the magician of the class. Give him a quarter and he will evaporate it with other than chemical methods. We hope he will be just as clever in the chemical industries.

STANYON, KENNETH J.Stan*34 S. Park Drive, Gloversville, N. Y.

Not a man in the class worked harder to get his work than did "Stan". We are all behind you and are sure you will add to the prestige of Pratt graduates at Gloversville.

STEARNS, MILO E.Steinmetz*623 Ludlow Rd., Westport, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1932; J. V. Basketball, 1931.

A welcome addition to the class basketball team. The name "Steinmetz" was due to his theories on physics.

STEUERWALD, VINCENTStuey*R. D., Ghent, N. Y.

"Stuey", the big silent man of the class. He may be "stout", and that old saying that they are the most cheerful sure holds true for him.

SULLIVAN, JOHN THOMASSully*81 Buckingham Ave., Milford, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1931-32; Manager Class Baseball, 1931-32; Treasurer Wohler Society, 1932.

"Sully" tries hard to live up to his namesake. A fellow we like and one who has taken an active interest in the class and its activities.

TAYLOR, HOWARD A.

Jeff

60 Burlington Ave., Bristol, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1931-32.

Here is one fellow in the chemistry class who takes work seriously and though he doesn't believe in slide rules, he gets there just the same. Here's hoping he is a big success at Electro-Chemistry.

TEFFT, WILLIAM F.

Bill

23 Petrie St., Little Falls, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1931-32; Manager Class Basketball, 1932.

"Bill" has been very successful as our class recorder. We all admire him for his pleasing personality and our wishes are that the best of luck go with him.

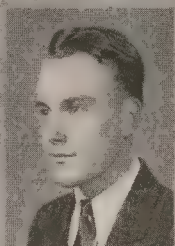

THORNE, GERARD D.

Red

Walden, N. Y.

"Red", one of the chaps who commutes every day from New Jersey and is never late. He accomplishes this inconceivable fact by using ice skates when the Hudson freezes.

YEAMENS, WILFRED H.

Freddie

55 E. Broad St., Plainville, Conn.

Secretary Wohler Society, 1931.

"Freddie" is a good business man. Remember him buying tickets for fifty cents and selling them for a dollar for a certain dance. We will always remember him for that big broad smile.

YOUNGHANZ, ALONZO R.

Al

1208 Steven St., Utica, N. Y.

"Al", the man of mystery, who has succeeded in keeping the class in the dark. Incidentally, we know he has a passion for paints outside of painted cheeks.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING—1933

IN the early part of September the students first saw the field of battle and the obstacles to be hurdled. Raw and inexperienced but determined and ready for whatever happened, the students came to the scene of the combat. A meeting field in conjunction with the second year men and referees (the faculty) first brought the class together. In a short time the individuals were molded into a compact body.

The Curriculum led by Chemistry was already on the field. With years of practice and experience behind them and many tricks and intricacies to aid them, they presented a formidable appearance.

The whistle blew and the battle was on. Curriculum gained steadily on lectures and problems, but the students kept fighting and coming back for more. Math threw some long problems but, by the use of midnight oil, the students were finally able to intercept them. The trainers, social activities and sports refreshed the students during time out so they went back into the game invigorated. Hints and advice from the referees encouraged them to further efforts, for the referees knew what competition they were to meet. The coaches, Deming, Timbie, and Marsh, helped greatly by aiding them to throw the opponents back. In spite of a few fumbles of beakers and test tubes that crashed to the earth, the students managed to keep even.

The first half soon comes to an end and the intermission known as vacation comes along. The students look as if they need sunshine and fresh air, but all are happy. They were well satisfied with their fight and the attitude of the referees (faculty) who were not only fair to us but even gave us sound and kind advice for which we are grateful.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING — 1932

WE are gathered about in groups waiting for the banquet committee to announce their readiness. The annual Electrical Alumni banquet is being held in the Pratt Alumni Association room on the 47th floor of the new Fraternity Club's building. Practically every class is represented from 1898 to 1950. There's Mr. Cook and Mr. Miller. Their retired life seems to be agreeing with them. Mr. Carr, along with the newer instructors, joined them and proceeded toward the class of 1932. Look at that class! They have the largest representation here. Let's hear what they have to say of their student days.

"Fellows, remember our first year at Pratt? How can we ever forget it? Organizing our class and choosing teams for class sports. We had bad breaks in some of our meets but we stuck to it and came through. The smoker gave us a good opportunity to meet our seniors and also to become better acquainted with our instructors. Didn't the work seem hazy at first in our new classes? It seemed like an age before we became accustomed to them but in only a few weeks we were used to the routine and all seemed at home. Our first exams were something to look forward to but they passed quickly and before we realized it our first year was over."

"Back again for our second and last year. It was quite a thrill to be seniors at the annual smoker this time. We sure came through in sports better than in our first year. And how about Electrical and Mechanical Technology, not forgetting analytics, and calculus. Did anyone ever use our schemes for the generation of power and wiring for those factories? Well, we were soon fighting the depression to find employment but finally won and are here again to celebrate."

Class of 1898. A gray-haired man passes in the dining room; Class of 1899_____

Class of 1932. Let's go, boys!

CLASS OFFICERS

WALTER R. NEUMANN, President NORMAN J. CHERRY, Secretary
RONALD L. BISHOP, Vice-President WILLIAM H. SHORTELL, Jr., Treas.

ACKER, LESTER S.

Ack

40 Miller St., Tarrytown, N. Y.

Class Bowling, 1931-32.

Carefree and smiling is "Ack," and this disposition has won him many friends. However, he has serious plans for the future. We are with you, "Ack."

ANDERSON, GUY R.

Andy

725 Fourth Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This "Guy" doesn't make much noise but he has lots of fun. "Andy's" favorite pastime is exasperating Mr. Burley by calling gears and leadscrews, "gadgets".

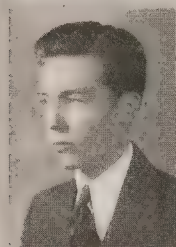

ANDERSON, JAMES J.

Jimmy

172 Lockwood Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y.

Varsity Basketball, 1931-32; Boxing, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1931-32.

"Jimmy" possesses the rare combination of seriousness and Irish humor. He seems to like New Rochelle when not playing football, but then, we can't blame him.

ARCARI, SEBASTIAN L.

Shon

95 Broad St., Plainville, Conn.

Varsity Baseball, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1932; Class Bowling, 1932.

"Shon's" favorite pastime is throwing verbal "brickbats" at "Jimmy" Anderson. He is liked by all and his genial smile will carry him a long way toward success.

ASBURY, WILLIAM F.

Press

E. Main St., Huntington, N. Y.

Class Bowling, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1931-32.

Always bubbling forth with ready laughter and gay spirits. We hate to see "Bill" leave; however, we predict a successful future for him.

BARSCHDORF, MILTON P.

Milt

171 N. Summer St., Adams, Mass.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Boxing, 1931-32.

The representative of the big "German Band." Spends his spare time at his drums or on the air via the radio. He is a brilliant scholar of whom we expect much.

BAUMZWEIGER, BENJAMIN

Benny

Calle E No. 8, Vedado, Havana, Cuba.

Program Committee A.I.E.E., 1932.

"Benny" is the boy who can truthfully say, "That's easy, here's the way to do it." Much can be said for him as a steady, conscientious worker.

BISHOP, RONALD L.

Ron

Digby, Nova Scotia, Canada.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Vice-President, 1932; Secretary A.I.E.E., 1932.

Our Vice-President hails from a town in the Northland. The climate had no effect on "Ron's" warm-hearted nature; always smiling and willing to help the slow thinkers.

BOOTH, CHARLES E.

Boots

1297 W. Broad St., Stratford, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1931-32.

One of these cautious fellows, never quite sure of a question unless it is checked and double checked. A very congenial fellow having all the earmarks of a competent engineer.

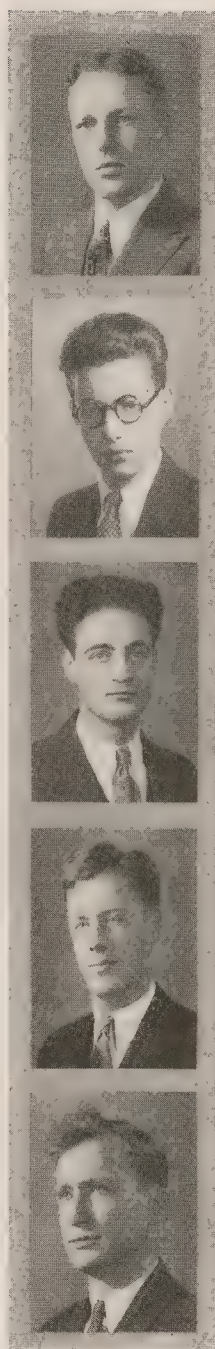

BROWN, FRED A.

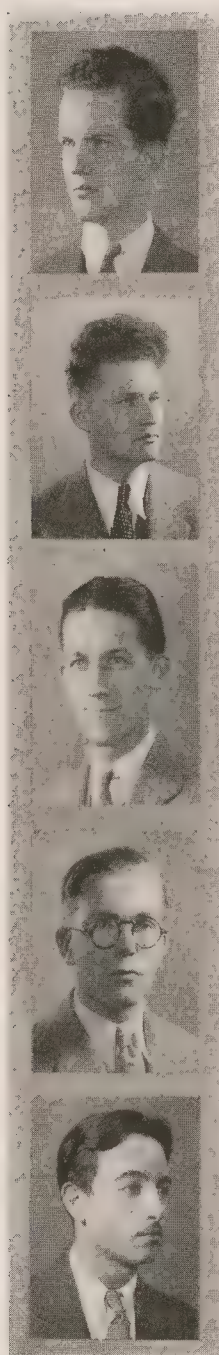

Freddie

Forestport, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1932; Athletic Council, 1932.

A second Daniel Boone when it comes to deer hunting. He is a plugger and is going to make good some day. Nothing flashy about the way he tackles things. By the way—ever hear "Freddie" tell stories?

BUSHNELL, HORACE C., Jr.

Bush

1215 East 28th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The class photographer whose specialty is riot pictures. Remember the day of the riot? "Bush" has a sunny disposition and is always smiling.

CALLOW, DAVID R.

Dave

1245 Laguna Ave., Burlingame, Cal.

Program Committee A.I.E.E., 1932.

One of Pratt's hardest workers, and is a wonderful example of what one could do to achieve an end. "Dave" has a very cheerful disposition and success awaits him.

CARLQUIST, CHESTER H.

Chet

9 Quentin St., Hamden, Conn.

The class crooner with all the latest song hits. "Chet" is a very energetic fellow and one who is always ready to help his fellow classmates.

CHERRY, NORMAN J.

Norm

216 St. James Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1932; Athletic Council, 1931.

The spiritous type who has a good sense of humor. He goes about his work with precision and exactness. "Norm" excels in class cheering.

CHIOFALO, JAMES

Jimmy

222 Johnson Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Questions galore; but when he knows something—"No, that is not right. Here's the way to do it." Nevertheless he is always ready to do his share of the work.

CRAWFORD, WILLIAM H.

Red

168 Linwood St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1931; Class Soccer, 1931-32.

"Bill" lives on the Lexington Ave. line and owns a "Chevie" four. Aside from these two faults, he is quite harmless. He's always ready for a laugh but nevertheless is really serious in his work.

CURTIS, BERNARD M.

Curt

Box 66, Stillwater, N. Y.

Very quiet, yet always present with a wise crack and always ready to help a fellow on a hard problem. We think he was wise in changing from Mechanical to Electrical.

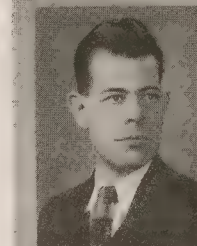

DAVIS, RALPH K.

Ralph

14 Spring St., Fort Plain, N. Y.

Ralph is precision plus. To him, accuracy like virtue is its own reward. The famous expression "Slow but Sure" exemplifies the man.

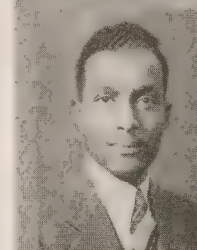

DERRICK, WILLIAM K.

Buster

41-65 Browne St., Flushing, L. I., N. Y.

Here is humorous "Bill", who can actually keep the class morale at a high level. Keep it up, "Bill," it is hard work and good humor that paves the road to success.

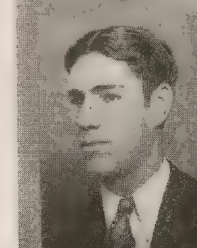

DI MANNO, FRANCIS P.

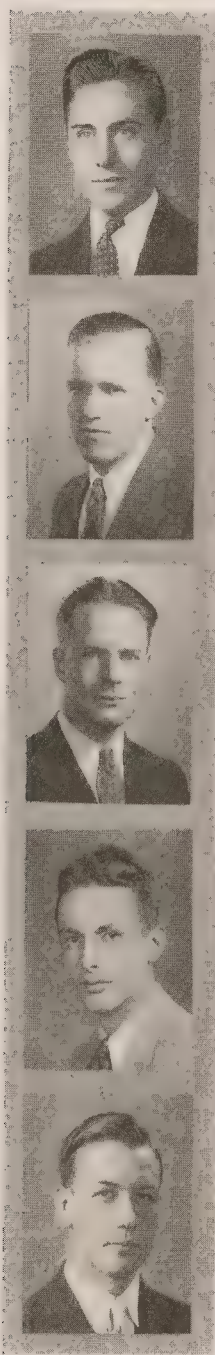

Frank

Box 107, Farmington, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1931-32.

"Frank" comes from an Insurance center and his ambition leans toward under-writing and Insurance inspection. Well, good luck, and don't take too many tips.

EMRICH, AUGUST

Augie

138 S. Main St., Monroe, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

An earnest man at work as long as nobody starts a conversation concerning females. There must be some reason for wearing a different tie every day.

ERICKSON, JOHN S.

Jack

17 Adams St., Port Washington, L. I., N. Y.

"Jack" can always be seen rushing from school to a girl waiting for him in a car. Oh, well, some fellows get all the breaks.

FITZPATRICK, DANIEL J.

Fitz

228 South St., Mechanicsville, N. Y.

Who doesn't know the expression "If I had a million dollars"? Ask "Fitz", he'll tell you. The boy who can actually make a stone face burst out laughing.

FLYNN, JAMES E.

Jim

78 Linden St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1931-32.

One of the few, having the combined characteristics of a Vic Hansen and a Bing Crosby. He's right there when it comes to class sports.

FREDERICKS, FRANKLIN W.

Fred

39 Westervelt Pl., Passaic, N. J.

"Fred" is one of the commuters who sleeps and studies on his way to and from school. Despite all the time spent in traveling, he gets his work done in good order.

FULLER, THEODORE

Ted

53 Meteor St., Forest Hills, L. I., N. Y.

"Ted" comes to us from the suburbs of the big city. He's an extremely clever gentleman and his powers of concentration are enormous.

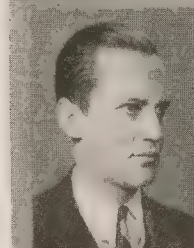

GARCIA, VICTOR M.

Vic

Avile's Tamo'n, Ovideo, Spain.

Under that serious countenance lies a wealth of humor. We expect him to carry our school's tradition to far off countries.

GLAZIK, ANTHONY J.

Otto

135 Berkely Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have noticed, since he has stopped wearing the necktie with the burlesque design, the percentage of his homework has increased. We predict that "Otto" will easily find his way in the world.

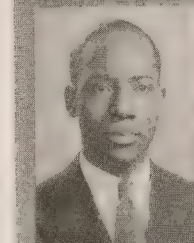

GREGORY, COLLIN A.

Greg

Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Boxing, 1931-32.

Our Soccer ace who won not only our soccer games but also the respect of all the members of our class. Good Luck, "Greg."

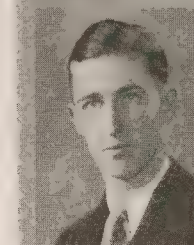

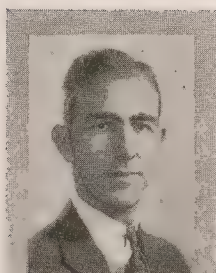

GROSS, WALTER H.

Walt

12 Windermere Ave., Rockville, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32. A gentleman, a student, an athlete, and a good pal. These are the qualities which make a man appreciate a fellow man.

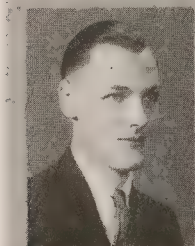

HANCOCK, OLAN W.

Handy

94-40 210th St., Bellaire, L. I., N. Y.

One of our few employed students who deserves everything he has obtained in his two years with us. A modest fellow who does his work quietly and thoroughly.

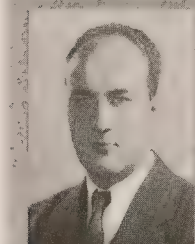

HEEB, CHARLES A.

Charley

73 Lexington St., Rhinebeck, N. Y.

Generous, pleasant mannered, and a good engineer. Four wheels, and an upstate attraction. We can assure you, "Charley" knows what a "Chevie" will do.

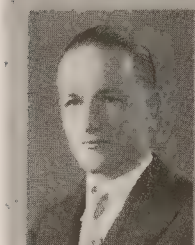

HOLZDERBER, JOHN

Johnny

37 Elm Pl., Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.

John should be an expert geometrician since his unique trademark "J.H.)))" requires considerable skill to construct. A likeable fellow with a big heart.

HORELICK, MICHAEL

Pud

R. D. 1, Easton Road, Westport, Conn.

"Pud" as he is known to us, is a quiet fellow, but silence is more eloquent than words. Anyway, we guess he knows his onions.

HUGHES, CHARLES W.

Bud

North Syracuse, N. Y.

Even though "the man didn't give us enough data," we can say a few words about "Bud." He is a crooner, but despite this handicap he knows his design. "Has anyone an extra girl?"

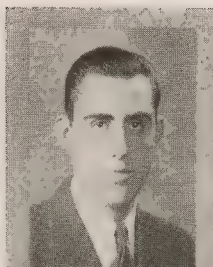

IVES, HAROLD F.

Doc

17 Whalley Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1932; Class Swimming, 1931-32.

Laconic, unassuming, keen minded, and ever ready to help. Another Connecticut representative, however we will cast a vote for him.

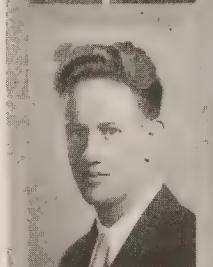

JAMES, GEORGE H.

George

7 Meikle St., Newport, R. I.

Though few know it, George is a real master of music as well as one of the few serious minded chaps of our class.

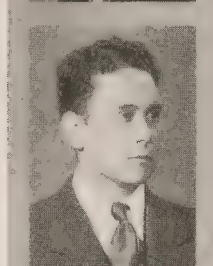

JANES, ANDREW N.

Andy

927 Poplar Ave., Riveredge, N. J.

Class Swimming, 1931-32.

We hear he can judge the time to a fraction of a second between Pratt and a certain section of Jersey. Oh, well, just another good man gone wrong.

JOHANSON, HERBERT C.

Herb

1362 East 17th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1932.

A new member of our class who soon made himself a real pal to all of us. Here is wishing you loads of luck, "Herb."

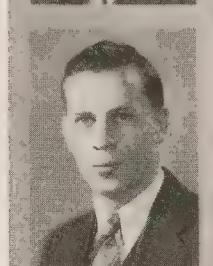

JUTRAS, NELSON E.

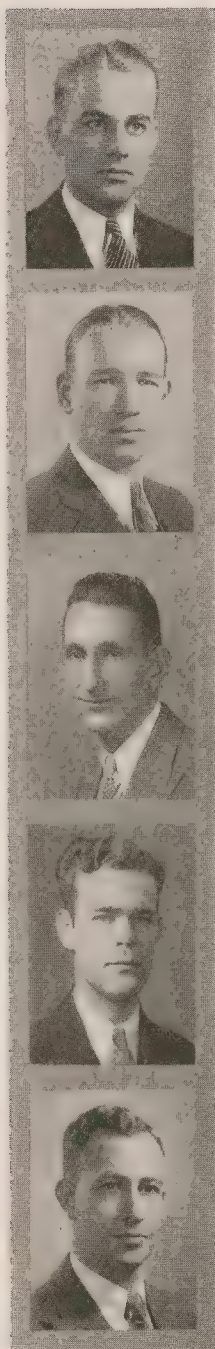

Spec

413 Lenox Rd., Schenectady, N. Y.

Class Swimming Manager, 1932.

"Spec" is from Schenectady and certainly knows how things should be done in juice lab. That occasional vacancy in his eye denotes deep thought of a fair someone back home.

LAURIDSEN, HENRY I.

Hank

647 Burnside Ave., East Hartford, Conn.

Varsity Baseball, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Manager Class Baseball, 1932.

A live wire of the class who gained his reputation through hard work and a broad smile. Famous for his sentry duty on Ryerson St.

LOUIS, WILLARD M.

Bud

2916 Hillegass Ave., Berkely, Calif.

Louis, an energetic Californian, an I. M. E. graduate of 1931, says "to become a successful engineer, just use common sense and have the diagrams and formulae on the wall."

MacGREGOR, JOHN

Mac

460 S. W. 3rd St., Miami, Fla.

"Mac's" heart is in Florida, but he finds lots to laugh at and many to laugh with at Pratt. His humor is a real cure for the blues.

MATTHEWS, ROBERT E.

Bob

1190 Norman St., Bridgeport, Conn.

Treasurer, A. I. E. E., 1931; Class Soccer, 1931.

"Bob" seems to go home often on week-ends. We wonder why? He is a good student and will go a long way in the world.

McCORD, HERBERT F.

Diagram

7 Boulevard, New Rochelle, N. Y.

A quiet serious lad, who likes to draw diagrams of everything. We predict big things in a big way from "Diagram."

McKEE, LLOYD

Mac

175 Cameron St., Moncton, N. B., Canada

Class Basketball, 1931-32.

"Mac" makes quite a bit of noise around school but we never hear a sound from him during the shop quiz periods. The reason is simple—he just can't talk in his sleep.

NeJAME, FRED S.

NeJame

134 Church St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

R. P. I. is a wonderful place, from Fred's description. However, we all think he will go just as far after leaving here. A quiet, conscientious fellow.

NELSON, HOWARD R.

Howdy

5112 20th Ave., Kenosha, Wis.

Chairman Program Committee, A.I.E.E., 1932; Vice-Chairman, A.I.E.E., 1932.

Seems to have that inexplicable something when it comes to Dietetics and Art. Outside of that one fault, "Howdy" is all right.

NELSON, ROBERT L.

Bob

Cumberland Center, Maine

Class Soccer, 1932; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Bowling, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

One of these strong silent men who gives no indication of his presence in the room. A good sport, liked by everyone, even if we do kid him along.

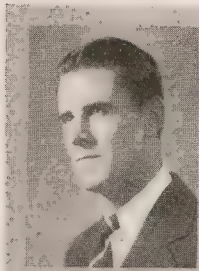

NEUBAUER, RUDOLPH A.

Rudy

65 Driscoll Ave., Rockville Centre, N. Y.

"Rudy" is the boy with the latest fashion in neckwear. He will be a big engineer in Rockville Centre someday. Lots of luck, "Rudy."

NEUMANN, WALTER R.

Walt

3208 3rd Ave., N. Great Falls, Montana

Class President, 1932; Class Vice-President, 1931; Editor Electrical Echo, 1932; Associate Editor Electrical Echo, 1931; Student Council, 1932; Class Soccer, 1931; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

Executive capacity, and the art of getting along with his fellow classmates, has won "Walt" leadership and many sincere friends.

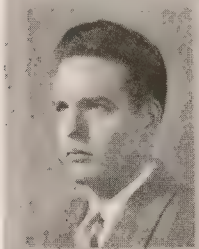

NEWTON, CHARLES E.

Newt

64 Maple Ave., Danbury, Conn.

"Newt" is on the train every Friday for Danbury. We wonder why? Of course there are any number of reasons for a fellow going home weekends, such as studying, working,

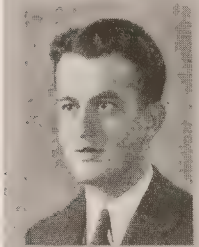

OSBORNE, EDWIN G.

Ed

104 Garden Rd., Larchmont, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1932; Class Baseball, 1932.

A modern version of Romeo, and reputed to be quite successful in this role. Nevertheless, he has been a worthy classmate, and what more can be said of a man.

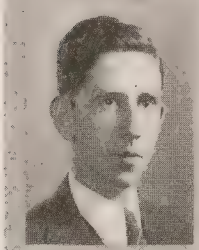

OUIMET, JOHN E.

Oui-Oui

509 Craig St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Class Bowling, 1932; Class Baseball, 1932.

We wonder why he "brightens up" when he hears of a Sunday excursion to Schenectady. Well, who wouldn't? He'll probably be a big man in the G. E.

OWENS, JOHN C.

Red

South River, Md.

"Red" is the abbreviated boy from the Maryland cow country, who came way up north for his education. A pal to all.

PAINTER, ARTHUR W.

Art

508 N. Railroad St., Palmyra, Pa.

Class Bowling, 1931-32.

"Listen fellows, did I ever tell you this one?" His jovial spirit chases the blues from all with whom he associates. A fine fellow, and a gentleman.

PENTE, LOUIS

Lou

196 Denver Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

"Lou" thinks there is no place like Bridgeport. He is a conscientious student and we all gamble on him coming through.

PORTER, KNOX D.

Chief

Tarboro, N. C.

Class Secretary, 1931; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

Knox is composed, conservative, reserved. A generous and sympathetic nature. Has a good line, but only uses it on rare occasions.

RABOW, ALEXANDER N.

Alex

714 DeKalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our class representative of personality, constituting knowledge and a broad span of practical experience. Another man who believes he can always increase his knowledge.

SHAW, CHARLES H.

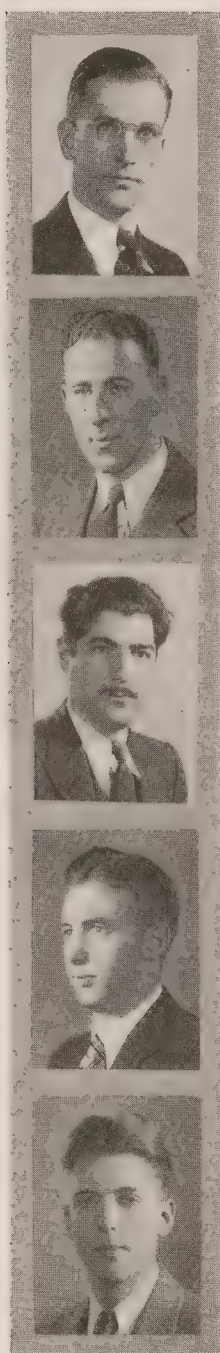

Howie

361 New Scotland Ave., Albany, N. Y.

Camera Club, 1931; Class Bowling, 1931.

A fellow that understands what he's doing and always does it well. He is cautious and conservative in everything he does, so he can't go wrong.

SHELLEY, WILLIAM L.

Bill

830 East 24th St., Paterson, N. J.

Manager Class Soccer, 1932.

A New Jersey boy who is determined to make good, even if he has to work for it. We all admire a man with ambition.

SHEPHERD, WILLIAM H.

Bill

Lake Ave., Greenwich, Conn.

Manager Class Bowling, 1931-32; Manager Inter-Class Bowling, 1932.

"Bill", better known as the "Baron", takes a fiendish delight in "fixing up" less fortunate classmates with dates. "Bill" is always ready to lend a hand.

SHERKEN, JACK I.

Jack

1317 East 14th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Burley and world traveled. Jack dropped anchor at Pratt for two years. Heave Ho! Where to? Jack is a rollicking good fellow.

SHORTELL, WILLIAM H., Jr.

Bill

30 Grinnell St., Greenfield, Mass.

Class President, 1931; Class Treasurer, 1932; Student Council, 1931; Associate Editor Prattonia, 1932; Business Manager Electrical Echo, 1932; Captain Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

With a gleeful smile he vigorously tackles and conquers what may come, may it be athletics or studies. Enthusiasm marks "Bill."

SHUTTS, RICHARD W.

Dick

Philmont, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1931-32.

We wonder what "Alex" and "Dick" are always conspiring over? We also wonder what he does at home since he does all the work in the Design class.

SKERRITT, FRANCIS J.

Franny

71 East Ave., West Haven, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32; Manager Class Basketball, 1931-32.

A humorous, ambitious and level-headed chap, which makes him an ideal manager. Is it right you like to go fishing in a canoe, "Franny"?

SMISEK, CHARLES W.

Charlie

Division Ave., East Islip, N. Y.

"Charlie's" another one of our quiet, but intelligent young men. When he says something, he usually knows what he's talking about.

STAKLINSKI, FRANK J.

Stak

371 Adams St., Buckland, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32. "I didn't get that answer, you must be wrong." However, we think we're right in saying, "bon voyage through life, 'Stak'."

STAUB, MILTON L.

Milt

75 Platt St., Ansonia, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1932.

A conscientious person with enough questions to stop Ripley. Connecticut will have another "find" when "Milt" starts to solve their engineering problems.

STEPHEN, DAVID L.

Dave

23 Beatrice St., Bridgeport, Conn.

Athletic Council, 1932; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931.

A class booster for athletics. "Dave" has all kinds of pluck when it comes to playing his part in sport. A fellow anyone can get along with.

SUTTON, WILLIAM H.

Bill

Cragsmoor, Ulster County, N. Y.

Chairman, A.I.E.E., 1932; Class Soccer, 1931-32. Philly's gift to Pratt. "Bill" spends his evenings out occasionally, but manages to get his work. We wonder where the A.I.E.E. would be without him.

THALER, MILTON

Milt

5015 Ave. N, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1932.

"Milt" had a bad break during his college life, but he came back. The color of his hair alone, shows that he'll make good in this old world.

THOMSON, JAMES L.

Scotty

64 Locust St., Greenwich, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Manager Class Swimming, 1931; Class Swimming, 1932.

Our railroad engineer who kept squad J in diagrams. A real fellow who always has a smile or a cheerful word when you are ready to give up.

VECKARELLI, CLARENCE A.

Veck

1258 Brooklawn Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

He sure does his work on time and is always glad to help a fellow when he needs it. Keep up the good work "Veck", and some day you'll be president of a company.

WAGONER, CLYDE A.

Wagg

1850 Hamburg St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1932; Class Basketball, 1931; Manager Class Baseball, 1931; Class Baseball, 1932.

Where were you when Mr. Cook was looking for you? Oh well, everyone has their weak points. We are sure his innocence will be everlasting and pave the way for a real future.

WALTERS, WILLIAM F.

Bill

21 Willis St., New Haven, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1932; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

Give "Bill" an A.C. hook-up and he's in his element. He takes a fiendish delight in sketching the well-known high tension line from Waterbury to Danbury on Descriptive Geometry books.

WARR, WALTER C.

Walt

146 Grove Ave., Woodbridge, N. J.

Class Bowling, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

"Walt" studies all week in anticipation of a week-end trip to Woodbridge. Here is a man who knows his motor hook-ups.

WASSON, C. STANLEY

Stan

Nineveh, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1932; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

Through his pleasing personality, "Stan" has won many friends. Let him hear a love song over the radio and he's "gone" for the evening. Well, Nineveh is a nice town.

WOHLBERG, LOUIS C.

Duke

228 Cornelia St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball, 1931.

This is the boy that the pipe carries around school. He is an honorary member of the 8:25 homework club at the Men's Club.

ZAWACKI, EDMUND F.

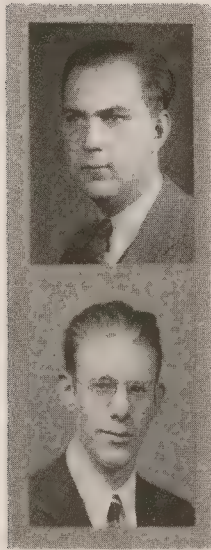

Baron

54 Greenwood St., Union City, Conn.

Glee Club Orchestra, 1931; Boxing, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1931-32.

You can always depend on the "Baron" to spring a wise-crack or to ask questions when we're not prepared. We hear he's getting a new pipe for graduation.

ZERNIKO, SAMUEL D.

Sam

Jerusalem Ave., Hempstead, L. I., N. Y.

"Sam's" Ford is recognized by all cops between Hempstead and Ryerson St. He'll soon be sailing along smoothly as all indications predict.

ZITTELL, AUGUST T.

Sparky

991 Woodrow Rd., Huguenot Park, S. I., N. Y.

The statistician, very efficient in his capacity, an amiable fellow with quite some technique at the piano. "Spark's" A. M. punctuality coincides with delayed ferryboats.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING—1933

IT came to pass, in the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-first year of the incarnation of our Lord, that in the vast domain of the good King, Rex Hoover, the depressed, there reigned an intellectual giant, known as Charles III of the House of Pratt, who issued the proclamation through the High Chancellor Cook that serfs would be admitted to his domain for a period of two years servitude. Upon being beckoned by the aforesaid giant they arrived in great masses on the flats of Brooklyn, the abiding place of the semi-conscious, beloved of Morpheus and the feudal territory of Charles. A mass of gigantic intellect they were (so self-esteeming) who came to browse 'neath the erudite wings of Mater Pratt out of the cold clammy clutches of the current depression.

Now, to ye noble hearts of the class of '33, a word of admonition. Shrink not from the fearsome dragon that belches forth flame and molten metals under the black magic of Merlin Nesbit and Friar Melvin who prod in the roaring cupola. Allow not thy liver to whiten at the maddening cadenza of the Anvil Choruses under the baton of Maestro Jones and the roarings of Lyons. Suppress a shudder as you are enveloped in shrouds of steam by Friars Lambe and Thompson, wired to unthinkable apparati by the good Sir Toole, or have ten-pound weights dropped on your unsuspecting toes by Senor Isenberg. Scream not in anguish as technical reports pursue you or projected points come whizzing by, 'tis good Senechals Lueth and MacKenzie. Those gentlemen close behind them balancing between them a huge Log in the general direction of your "Y" axis are none other than the genial Sirs Hertzler and Hostetter.

Come, forget the whip-cracks of Guy-Lussac, Wroblewski, Mayer, Joule, and Dalton. Cast aside Boyle, Steinmetz, Charles and the Great God Entropy. Let us wipe the blood of Inter-Molecular Space, Atomic Balance, and Thermal Equilibrium from our "slip-sticks".

But let suffice this harrowing retrospection of soul-searing memories. The field is ours,—won by dint of frenzied copying each morning—but won, nevertheless.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING — 1932

LET'S settle back and disregard that which is to come, until we've digested our accomplishments at Pratt Institute. They might serve as an inspirational vehicle to promote that self-confidence which will be essential upon our advent into industry and a full life.

Our entrance into the Institute in the fall of 1930 occasioned no unusual comment from either faculty or student body, but we had a lot "up our sleeves." Theoretically we were the "Cream of the Crop," chosen from an unusually large field of applicants. That opened our eyes to the current period of industrial inactivity, and accordingly introduced that requisite "Employability".

Soon we were told that our initial academic efforts brought forth grades considerably higher than average. That must have imbued in us a feeling of over-confidence, for soon we slumped into a "Depressed Area", wherein not only grades suffered, but likewise did our class spirit. A gentle reminder of this sad condition served as a stimulus for an improved scholastic standing, pep and activity.

And so our first year passed unto a summer of work, or leisure, and an anticipation of renewed activity and absorption in our second year. A number of us did not return, but were deferred to a later date, until such time as we might become more aged and "Employable".

What of athletes? Stacks of varsity timber; championship soccer, basketball and bowling teams. Our other units also displayed typical "Mechanical Superiority".

With considerable pride, we realized that for the first time in M. E. history, a class paper, the "Mech Review," was brought forth.

To our past and present faculty and departmental heads, we are indebted for their sincere attempts to make men and engineers of us.

So, make of the future, that which you have made of the past. And don't forget your old classmates.

CLASS OFFICERS

RALPH F. BOVIER, President

HENRY A. ROCKWELL, Vice-President

FRANK N. WILSON, Secretary

WALTER H. SIEGER, Treasurer

ABBOTT, WILLARD D.

Don

Valley Falls, N. Y.

"Don" said less and did more work than most of us, and that goes for the heart interest as well as the scholastic. Long live the Dietetics course—what say you, "Don"?

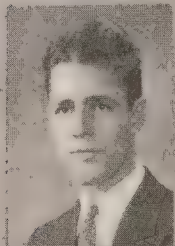

ARMAND, HORTON H.

Hort

13 Prairie Ave., Suffern, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Bowling, 1931-32.

Six feet of baseball ability in a pair of knickers,—that's "Hort." His big bat alone upheld Mechanical prestige in varsity baseball with a vengeance. Hats off, say we to you, "Hort."

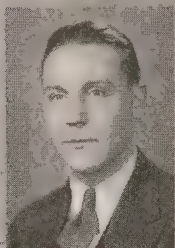

AVELLA, STEPHEN O.

Steve

34 Talcott St., New Britain, Conn.

Another scalp on the H. S. and A. belt—but why be a coal miner, Steve? Scranton is a long, long way from New Britain. We are sure these two years at Pratt have been very profitable to Steve, in more ways than one.

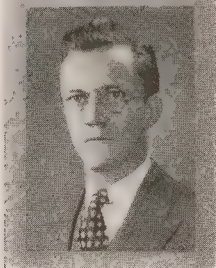

BAUERLE, ALBERT E.

Al

450 Classon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1931-32.

"Al" is a congenial chap who pursues his studies with care and diligence. By the way, how did you make out with the quiz? If we could only understand it better.

BECKEN, ARNOLD W. C.

Arnie

1520 Whitney Ave., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

One of our prominent class journalists, and reputedly one of our ranking scholastic classmates. He will undoubtedly be an ideal engineer for some organization.

BENNETT, HARRY G., Jr.

Harry

109-24 111th St., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

Have you ever noticed Harry's snappy signature? Harry is a commuter from way out in the hills of Long Island and has a weakness for nine o'clock classes.

BIRD, ARTHUR S.

Art

127 Prospect Pl., South Orange, N. J.

Class Swimming, 1931-32.

Our pal "Art" commutes by train from that land of mosquitoes, however the train is not always in "high." A "Bird" of a commuter. Here's wishing you the best in engineering.

BOVIER, RALPH F.

Ralph

Powell, Pa.

Class President, 1931-32; Student Council, 1931-32; Literary Editor Prattonia, 1932; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931.

Our class president, who makes a good level headed job of everything he does. And he has, as the above lineup might signify, accomplished a lot at Pratt Institute. Well done, Ralph.

BREEN, JOHN F.

Jack

30 Bright St., New Haven, Conn.

A real classmate, indeed. "Jack" is an earnest and hard worker. We certainly hope that you will become all "steamed up" soon, and get the gang to work.

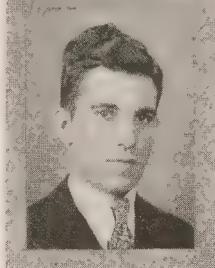

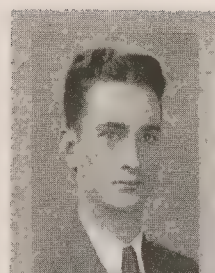

BRODT, HOWARD F.

Howie

1201 Stark St., Utica, N. Y.

Manager Class Swimming, 1931-32.

"Howie" is a "boiler-maker," but one who has seen him take data in classes would think he preferred selling "Rayon" garments. Small in stature but a giant in mental capacity.

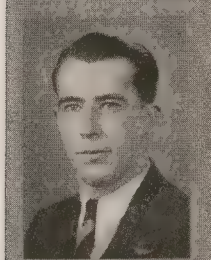

BROWN, ALVAN P.

Brownie

146-37 32nd Ave., Flushing, L. I., N. Y.

One of the faithful Ryerson Street sentinels. "Brownie" paid the S. & T. school a visit during class hours, but that faraway (Ryerson Street) look was generally in his eyes.

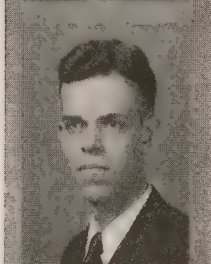

CARLSON, ALBERT R.

Al

Doris Ave., Northport, L. I., N. Y.

We can call you "Pal." "Al" is always willing to lend a helping hand to the other fellow. If a hobby foretells a man's future, we shall be looking for your accomplishments in the aviation news.

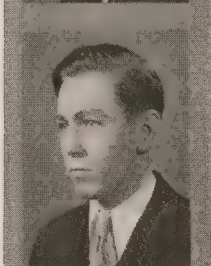

CARLSTROM, JESPER H.

Jesper

3782 West 134th St., Cleveland, Ohio

A diligent and earnest worker; just watch him in the design room. "Fellows, I believe in work and play. Is anyone going to the 'Boiler-makers Hop'?"

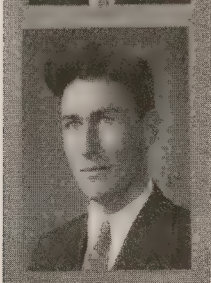

CARNEY, EDWARD J.

Ed

17 Kelsey St., Hartford, Conn.

Class Swimming, 1931-32.
"Ed" just wouldn't take things for granted; always wanted to know the cause as well as the effect. A wonderful chap to have for a friend.

CLEVELAND, LYMAN S.

Cleve

R. D. 2, Syracuse, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.
Here's that tall lad with the "howdy" grin and wholehearted laugh. An ideal class man. He dotes on athletics, engineering, and ducks behind his pals when a woman arrives on the scene.

COFFMAN, PAUL R.

Paul

N. Church St., Waynesboro, Pa.

Paul is a fine example of the man of fine ideals. He is a very serious-minded engineer who shall reap in the future in proportion to that which he has sown.

COLEMAN, JAMES V.

JV

294 Pulaski St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We'll all remember JV when Christmas rolls around from year to year—with reference to his greetings' cards. A mighty active mind under that bonnet of yours, James. May your great invention materialize some day.

COOK, ARTHUR W.

Art

Washingtonville, N. Y.

"Art" certainly represents the broad-minded machinery agent, and we all have great hopes that you will one day become a salesman. Here's for your success, classmate.

CURRERI, IGNATIUS ROBERT

Bob

1665-43rd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1931-32; Manager Class Basketball, 1932.

Smiling "Bob." His initials are I.R. and he turns on the juice when a quiz is in the offing. Class sports had a real supporter in "Bob"—as did Clinton Ave. also.

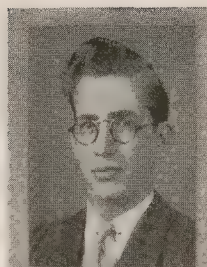

ELY, ALLAN B.

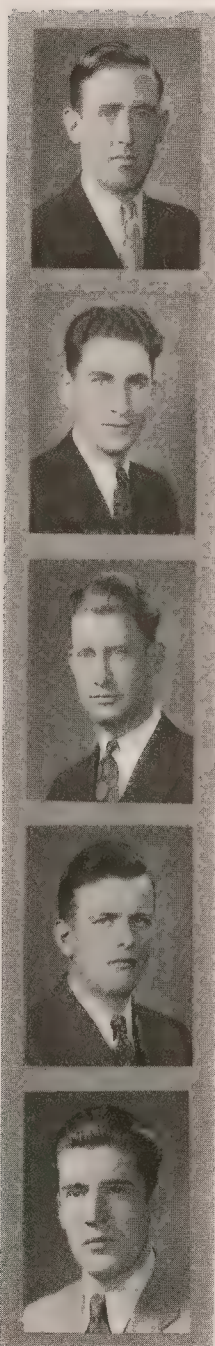

Allan

987 Catherine St., Meadville, Pa.

Manager Class Bowling, 1932.

Stratford's leading nature lover and horticulturist—a bird fancier and raspberry specialist. Allan's pep kept the boys on the jump. A million dollar "disposish," Allan; stay with it.

EMMETT, JOHN E.

Jack

South St., Plymouth, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32.
 "My son, Emmett." Maybe some day we'll learn what it's all about. Here's a true "Boiler-maker"—try and catch him without his boiler.

ENGLERT, ARTHUR N.

Art

Route 8, Scotia, N. Y.

"Art" is from "G. E." and is quiet, studious and conscientious. If sincerity means success, you'll get along famously in the engineering world, "Art."

FELTER, BREWSTER A.

Bruce

Washingtonville, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1931-32.
 "Bruce" is the answer to a catcher's prayer. When he was on the mound, the Mechanicals were sure to win the game. We know now why girls prefer blondes with neat "cooky dusters."

FRESE, LOUIS H.

Louie

211 Warrenton Ave., Hartford, Conn.

Chairman A. S. M. E., 1932; Class Soccer, 1932.
 An engineer, through and through, who has the knack of ably expressing himself. He has found a channel for said gift, in the medium of our student branch of the A. S. M. E.

FYNBOE, CHRISTIAN

Chris

125 Alexander Ave., Scotia, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Bowling, 1931-32; Athletic Council, 1931-32.
 Here's a soccer man par excellence. We congratulate you upon your efforts on behalf of Varsity Soccer. He gives little notice of the other sex, but sure does concentrate on his scholastic work, class affairs, and athletics.

GASKELL, WILLIAM, Jr.

Bill

53 Shellbank Pl., Rockville Center, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931.

The kind of a friend a fellow needs when a fellow needs a friend. Rather subdued in the classroom, but a terror on the soccer field: When better soccer is played, "Bill" will play it.

GAY, LAWRENCE A.

Larry

4823-92nd St., Elmhurst, L. I., N. Y.

"Larry" had visions of soccer glory as a frosh, but found that heads are grown harder in Rockville Center than in Elmhurst. Good luck, "Larry." May you never forget another tuition ticket.

HALLOCK, THEODORE R.

Ted

1322 Thomaston Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

"Ted" had his nose on the grindstone during classes where he got his so-called rest. Does anyone dispute the fact that the girls favor boy friends from Waterbury?

HARTEL, HERBERT A.

Herbie

1644-72nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Bowling, 1931-32; Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1931.

"Herb" has the technique of an expert when it comes to retrieving baseballs outside of Pratt Field. He does everything else equally conscientiously. Common sense he has.

HARTLEY, CROYDON H. A.

Croy

88-47 198th St., Hollis, L. I., N. Y.

Editor-in-Chief Mech. Review, 1932.

An exceptionally well mannered chap who never makes a faux-pas. Isn't it called polish? Editorials, engineering, and noon hour dates are his special hobbies. Where does he spend his time after 4:00 P. M.?

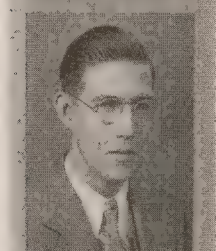

HARWOOD, HARRY P.

Harry

74 Maple Road, Longmeadow, Mass.

Manager, Class Soccer, 1931-32.

Harry is always ready with an argument, as his aim is accuracy. We'll always remember our Harry's pep talks at Hygiene class, on behalf of our soccer team.

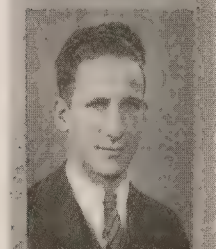

HEFFERMAN, MALVIN P.

Mal

1035 Howard Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

A "Boiler-maker" who possesses that little something Art students call "sex appeal." We place our confidence with you in your anticipated sales future.

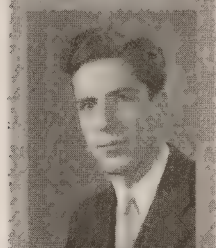

HUGHES, CHARLES E.

Chick

140 Beacon St., New Haven, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1932.

Your "nine plus" run and slide act has brightened up many a morn. The road to engineering via physics is rough, we all agree. So long, old man.

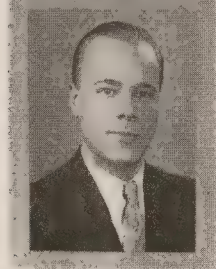

HUMPHREY, CLIFFORD W.

Cliff

1666 Dudley Ave., Utica, N. Y.

Business Manager Prattonia, 1932; Secretary A. S. M. E., 1932; Class Swimming, 1931-32; Prattonia Representative, 1931.

Here's a man who gets right into everything. He even gets in on the jokes at class smokers. "Cliff" has contributed materially to, not only class affairs, but school functions.

JAEKLE, EDWARD F.

Ed

80 South Cliff St., Ansonia, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1931-32.

That broad smile behind the cash drawer at the Men's Club is implanted on Ed's face. And in his heart, there is good fellowship and an appreciation of a cheerily returned "Howdy." 'Tis said the ladies think much of him.

KARWOSKI, GUSTAV L.

Goose

77 Union St., Bristol, Conn.

Varsity Basketball, 1931-32.

That man fighting his head off out there is our "Goose." We didn't raise him from a pup after all, because he brought a few basketball tricks from Bristol. Here is a good friend, indeed.

LEE, HERBERT R.

Herb

11 Pressprich St., Stamford, Conn.

Very, very quiet, is "Herb." In view of his academic persistency, we all feel certain that he will be an engineer worthy of Pratt's tradition.

LEUPOLD, HERBERT W.

Herb

227 Maple St., New Britain, Conn.

Who among a few others, always has the correct answers? Why, "Herb," of course. How does he do it? Why, by applying himself. Just the man to hire when you need a heady engineer.

LIND, THORSTEN B.

Thorsten

15 Barthel Ave., Gardner, Mass.

Class Swimming, 1931-32; Glee Club, 1931.

Did you ever argue with our Thorsten? He swims through water, arguments and studies with equal ease. School dances have embraced no small portion of his extra-curricula activity.

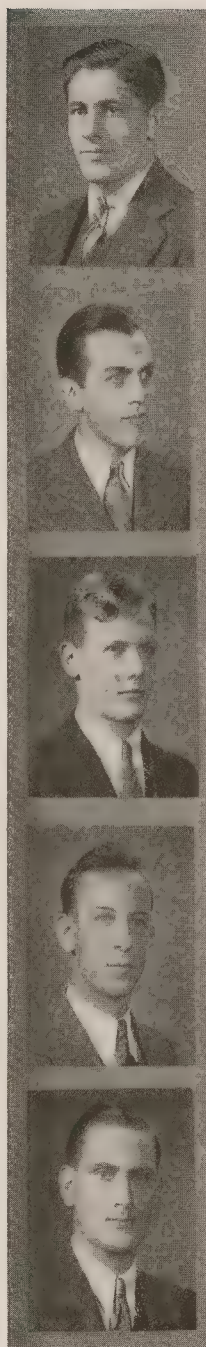

LIVINGSTON, W. LAFAYETTE

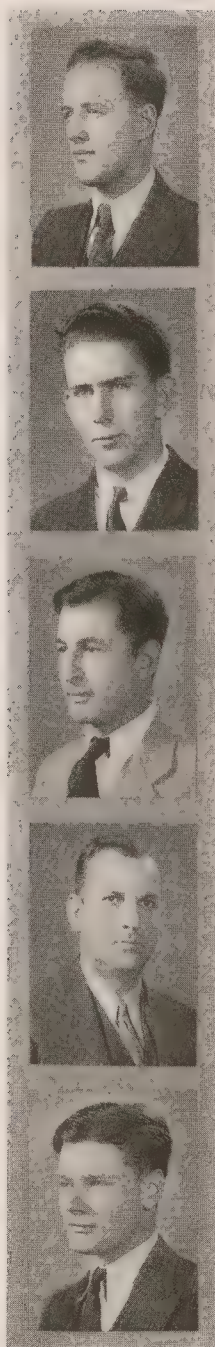

Livvy

273 Ryerson St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Swimming, 1931-32.

"Livvy" is another of our "tankers," meaning swimmers. One of the kind an engineering office likes to depend on, is he. You've made a great many friends here, "Livvy."

LUBELL, HERMANN

Haimann

1329 East 46th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Possessor of a keen, analytical mind, who finds theory to be extremely tasteful. Hermann puts in six hours at school each day, and no more. Must have something up his sleeve.

MAGEE, WALTER M.

Walt

211 Becker St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Class Bowling, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1932; Class Swimming, 1931-32.

Another recruit from Schenectady. Keen minded, hard working and congenial as men come. Have you shaken hands with "Walt"?

MARCHIONE, E. JAMES

Marsh

185 Park Ave., Torrington, Conn.

J. V. Basketball, 1931; Varsity Baseball, 1931; Class Basketball, 1932.

This man just "visualizes" 'em and then puts 'em on paper. In plain words, a "shark." One of our class "A" athletes. Ever hear his laugh? Hyah! Hyah! Hyah!

MARSH, HARLEY T.

Gramp

Pennsboro, W. Va.

Just the man to go to for real advice and matured philosophy. "Gramp" can tell you about most anything; because he's been there and has seen it. A stabilizing influence in a class of embryotic men and engineers.

MARSHALL, JAMES C.

Marsh

Westbrook, Conn.

As calm and serene as a summer day on the beach at Westbrook, is "Marsh." You'll enjoy yourself and be comfortable all your life, or we miss our guess.

MATULA, ANTHONY P.

Tony

120 Park St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Varsity Cheer Leader, 1931; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1931-32.

"Tony" has put his shoulder to the wheel and ploughed right through Pratt. Tap dancing and handsprings have made us stand in awe of him. Adept at leading cheers at games, and girls at dances.

McBURNEY, ALEXANDER T.

Mac

1450 Baker Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

Class Bowling, 1931-32.

"Mac" manages to find plenty of time between meals to circumvent his studies in fine style, and to bowl on our championship team. We understand he spends his summers in CMTC camps.

MILLER, JOHN D.

Johnnie

Fort Hancock, N. J.

Class Basketball, 1931-32.

John may become an army engineer. And why not? He and a good many of the rest of us may some day become engineers. His disposition and stature would command admiration and respect.

MUNKENBECK, CLIFFORD S.

Cliff

506 N. Bedford Ave., Bellmore, L. I., N. Y.

Vice-Chairman A. S. M. E., 1932; Class Swimming, 1932.

Quiet, steady, sincere and reliable describes "Cliff." One doesn't hear him blowing off steam, but when the answer to a problem is at stake, his presence is surely felt.

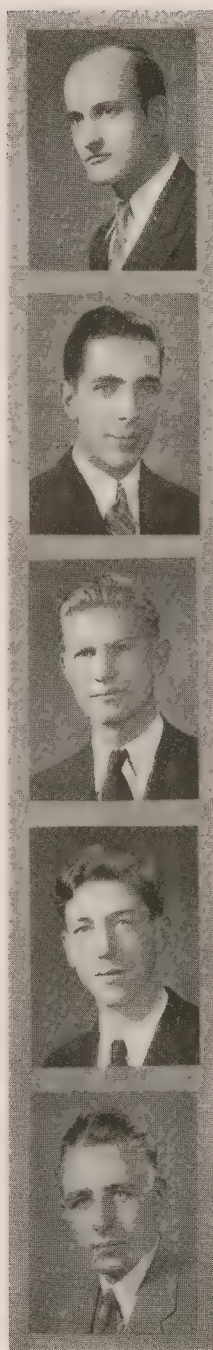

NEILSON, EDWARD J.

Ed

221-79th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Varsity Basketball, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1931.

"Ed" is one of the outstanding Mechanical basketball stars. Clever, witty, a pleasant disposition, and quite a man with the ladies, judging from the number of his feminine admirers.

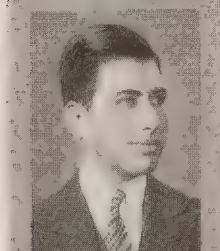

O'CONNOR, JOHN P.

Johnnie

830 Vischer Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

"Johnnie" has seen some of the world before coming to Pratt. We'll remember him as an industrious plugger with a big heart. Best of everything, John.

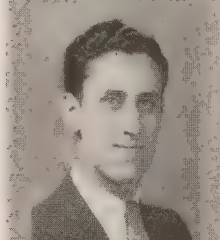

OPPENHEIM, ROBERT DE LEUW

Bob

365 West End Ave., New York, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Sports Editor Mech Review, 1932.

Who is doing all that explaining way down there at the other end of the laboratory? You undoubtedly have heard who it is. "Bob" has a likeable way about him though, hasn't he? Sir?

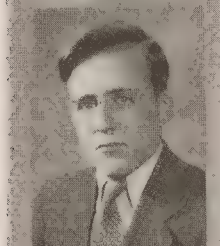

OSTROW, ALLEN

Al

1594 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1931; Class Swimming, 1931; Class Baseball, 1931; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Varsity Cheer Leader, 1931.

A localite who has shown exceptionally fine taste. He drives a Model "T" and in addition to that, he decided to become a "Boiler-maker." Very active in class sports and activities.

PILON, ALFRED F.

Shorty

72 Mountain Ave., N. Plainfield, N. J.

Class Basketball, 1931-32.

"Shorty" is merely short of height. He is long in engineering sense, deep in thought and full of baseball snap and vigor. Also radiating with cheer, is he.

POLLACK, ANTHONY M.

Tony

1335 Santa Fe St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Vice-President Athletic Council, 1932; Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1931; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32; Class Bowling, 1931.

G. E. certainly has systematized "Tony", for his experiments are always in first. A class athlete and representative par excellence. You've all seen "Tony" and "Tony" in action, and liked it.

PUTNAM, JOHN L.

Put

291 Classon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our class "steamer," whether it be sea-going vessels or stationary engines. "Put" supplies a few of our practical sidelights, as well as a yarn or two upon occasion.

ROCKWELL, HENRY A.

Rocky

21 Winthrop St., New Britain, Conn.

Class Vice-President, 1931-32; Junior Varsity Basketball, 1931; Varsity Basketball, 1932; Class Baseball, 1931.

"Rocky" has created and put into practise several very new and original sales ideas around school this year. How well we remember them. "Treat yourself to a pair of corduroy trousers."

SCOFIELD, LESLIE W.

Scuffy

16 Allendale Rd., Hartford, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1931; Manager Varsity Baseball, 1932.

"Scuffy" is subject to varying moods. Everybody likes him, and knows him to be one fine egg. Back in Hartford, or somewhere, he will, some day, be hiring and firing you and I.

SEITER, ROBERT S.

Bob

434 Arthur St., Schenectady, N. Y.

Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball, 1931; Manager Varsity Basketball, 1932; Class Soccer, 1931.

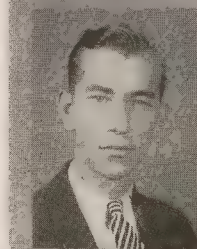

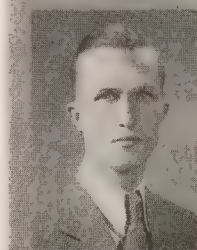

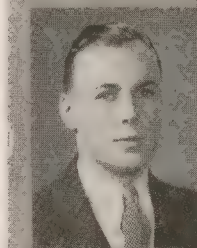

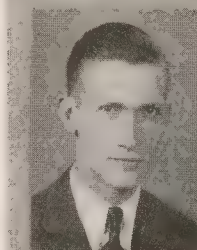

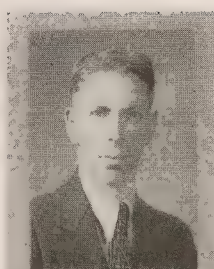

Didn't you enjoy our varsity basketball season? Thank "Bob", boys. Though you wouldn't think so, he can throw a mean sales line. One of our air-minded chaps.

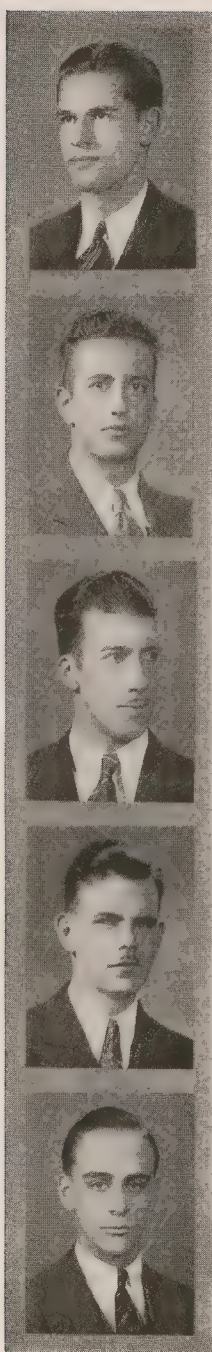

SETERA, THEODORE, J.

Ted

50 Murray St., Kingston, N. Y.

Sincere in his appreciation of our sincerity, is "Ted". With an A-1 "disposish" and sound engineering background, he should go far with other men.

SIEGER, WALTER H.

Walt

104-49 142nd St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1931-32.

Managing our finances, and a certain affair across the street, keeps "Walt" busy and contented. He also managed to keep the faculty contented, with his academic achievements.

SILBERGLIED, HARRY

Harry

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931.

Harry is versatile. Perhaps, someday, he'll commercialize on his knowledge of Chemistry, to say nothing of his ready wit and showmanship. He's booted many a soccer ball for us.

SMITH, CLARENCE M.

Smitty

35 Ward St., Nangatuck, Conn.

Our half of the crooning Nangatuck twins. "Smitty" studies "sociology" as well as engineering, and has scores of friends of both sexes. You know, someday, C. M. will reach a definite decision regarding that moustache.

SMITH, ROBERT J.

Bob

1223 Brinckerhoff Ave., Utica, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1931-32.

The boy with the typical Irish way; witty and clever, and a deep thinker. How many miles have you pushed your "chariot," "Bob"?

SPERO, CHARLES W.

Charles W.

228 Duffield St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Chairman, Aero. Branch, A. S. M. E., 1931; Class Baseball, 1931-32.

Charles W. is one of our Brooklyn men, and still, a first class student. Wonder where he gets all the hats?

SPOERR, FRANK F.

Frank

336 Houston Ave., Williston Park, L. I., N. Y.

Frank makes friends easily. Though he has the hands of a surgeon, he's bound to make a fine engineer. Best of everything, Frank.

SPRAGUE, HAROLD F.

Harold

228 Putnam St., New Haven, Conn.

Business Manager Mech Review, 1932.

His head is absolutely chock full of common sense and knowledge. One fine boy, with a classful of friends, always has time for anything we ask of him.

STAEHLIN, ROGERS M.

Rogers

Greenlawn, N. Y.

Rogers came from upstate and didn't forget his math. Does the least work to produce the best results. A fine fellow, and a gentleman.

STEINKE, OSCAR F.

Oscar

76 Prospect St., New Britain, Conn.

Glee Club, 1931-32.

Oscar is one of our quiet, conscientious classmates. Keep up the hard work, Oscar, and you'll find there will be fewer and fewer rungs to climb.

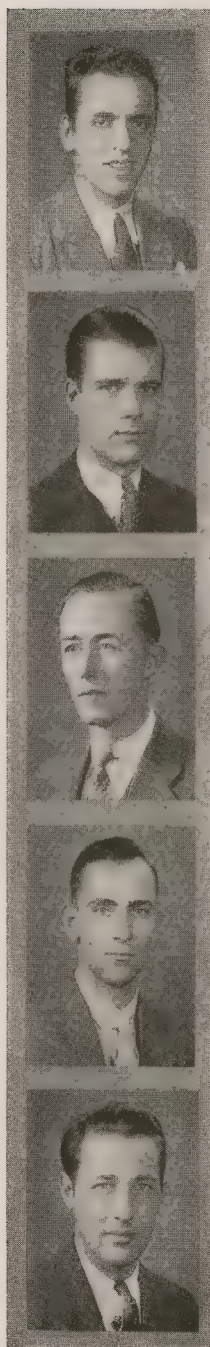

STOLL, WILLIAM C.

Bill

150-12 119th St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1931-32.

When 'Bill' answers "Here," you most certainly hear him. Have you noticed that Barrymore profile, and Cantor "line"?

SWANSON, G. FOLKE

Swanny

345-77th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

JV Basketball, 1931; Class Baseball, 1931-32; Captain Class Basketball, 1932.

Quite a nice car "Neil" drives, eh, "Swanny"? This local young man twists a mean wheel himself. Quite a floor man on a basketball court, too. Everybody's pal.

TIMMERBERG, WALTER H.

Timmy

8414-114th St., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

"Timmy" knows something about everything. Always the "boss" when experiments are being run. "Timmy" is bound to rise, and not only in Otis elevators, either.

TROMBLY, ARTHUR P.

Al

3 Hampden St., Indian Orchard, Springfield, Mass.

Don't get "Al" laughing too heartily unless you want to laugh, too. Here's a fellow that doesn't say all he knows. Some day he will sell Pratt Institute bigger and better foundry equipment.

TRUDEAU, GEORGE O.

195 Essex St., Holyoke, Mass.

Class Soccer, 1932; Class Basketball, 1931-32.

Here we view the most consistent patron of all school dances and the like. We don't know much about his academic career, 'cause he sits in the back row where we can't see him.

TUFARIELLO, JOSEPH

Tuffy

1365-100th St., Ozone Park, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1931-32; Secretary Aero. Branch A. S. M. E. 1932.

"Of course, yes, of course," you may call him "Tuffy." A likeable lad, full of fun, and still, a hard worker.

TUTTLE, PAUL W.

Tut

25 Hawley St., New Britain, Conn.

When "Tut" expresses himself, it's practically an axiom. We always know he's right. His scores of friends admire his sound judgment and subtle humor, to say nothing of his unfailingly neat appearance. Only the girls can make our Paul blush.

TYMECK, JOSEPH J.

Joe

396 Woodbine St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1931-32.

"Joe" knows all about everything in Brooklyn and vicinity. He knew where Pratt was located and so he came here to study "Boilermaking." And now he and "Tuffy" are going out and land a good job or two.

WEITZMAN, EARLE J.

Whity

1635 Ontario Ave., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

"Whity" is very deliberate and methodical, but can be counted upon to do things right. A good fellow and a hard worker.

WHITEHILL, WILLIAM J.

Bill

165 Washington St., Newburgh, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1931-32.

"Bill" is a quiet and ambitious fellow. In his talkative moods, however, many amazing theories come to light. His specialties are machinery, electricity, and we might also add, "the girl back home." More power to you, "Bill"!

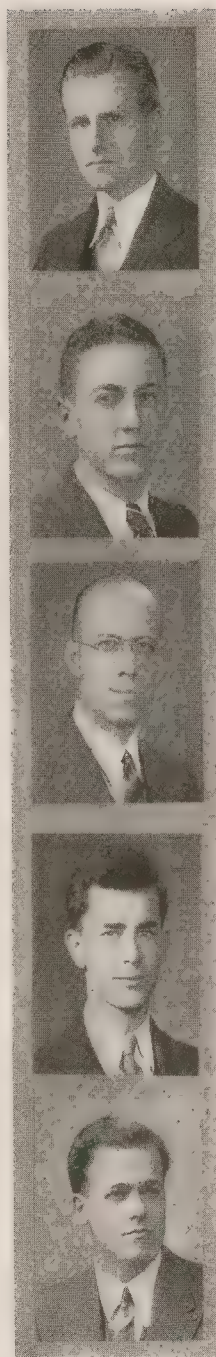

WIGGINS, MILTON G.

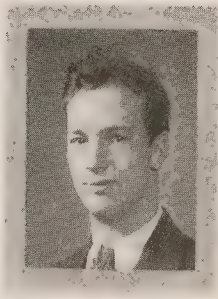

Wiggy

148 Elm Ave., Rahway, N. J.

Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1931.

Not the type for a cut and dried engineer, by any means; but the type for something big someday. "Wiggie" undoubtedly knows more members of both sexes in Pratt's various schools, than do the rest of us.

WILSON, FRANK N.

Dewey

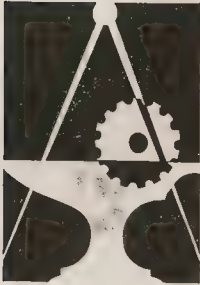

821-88th St., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1932.

Any corrections or additions? If not, the minutes stand approved as read. Frank, you must admit, has had his hands full, recording our "bull sessions." Good-natured from top to bottom.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING—1933

HOW many times have we heard the expression, "Oh! a hundred and one different things!"

Whenever one wants to infer that there are many things to see or to do, that is the time when that old expression comes to his mind.

So it is with the first year Mechanicals. We number just one hundred and one members and if you ask any one of us, doubtless he will tell you that he has a hundred and one things to do.

It seemed more true when we first started classes in September. Then there seemed no end to the many subjects, each with its special routine, with which we were confronted, —various rooms, in various buildings, at various hours, on various days.

Then came the call for soccer players. The Electricals wanted to trod our clean-shaven faces in the mud of defeat. The Chemicals, the second year Mechanicals, the Architects, the Artsmen were all out for scalps. Each game played was a hard fight and when the dust cleared away we found ourselves not far from the top of Inter-Class League. Also basketball, fencing, bowling, and we must not forget the co-eds helped pass our few spare hours.

Last, but not least, we remember those men who spent their entire time helping us to learn the things that their own experience had taught them we must know. Men, who must have been discouraged at times as we were, yet never showed it. Always with a helping hand and kindly word, they kept our heads above water. Words cannot express our appreciation of them, of the Founder, and the Board of Trustees who have made it possible for us to gain the knowledge we have sought.

With their continued help, and with the help of our future instructors, we know that we shall finish our chosen course as real engineers.

SCHOOL OF FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

NEVER has there been as keen an appreciation for specialized art training of the Pratt Institute quality and intensity as is evidenced this school year. The serious attitude of the entire student body reflects wholesomely the economic seriousness of the times. While it has been possible this year to accommodate over 700 students, a new enrollment maximum, nevertheless a great many additional worthy candidates had to be refused.

When the anticipated up-swing to prosperity reaches a marked acceleration we will find hand in hand with its progress Art functioning more than ever before. This will be manifested in its many phases including industrial production, marketing, advertising and selling, construction both large and small, and increased educational opportunities. The already practical courses of the Art School have been carefully revised in anticipation of this new expanded call for art trained people. Specialists in the newer fields of art opportunities such as industrial designing, packaging and sales advising have joined our staff within the last two years.

The quickening of the functional value, the true test of all Pratt Institute courses, is already visible in the placement of recent graduates in these latest art endeavors. A Placement Bureau has been organized that the professional art opportunity and the graduate may meet.

The Art School faces the immediate future with courage and confidence in the belief that Art will more definitely than ever be a vital part of this industrial and commercial epoch and thus interpret and express it more truly.

ADVERTISING DESIGN—1932

WHAT is written here may be of little interest to the casual reader. To him, cold type—to us, the spark of memory.

In the years to come, may the reading of these lines serve to strengthen that bond of friendship established during our three years together.

Three years of work; three years of play; three years of song; three years of dance; three happy years of life profitably spent.

We have tasted both success and failure in our work. Success has spurred us on to better things. Failure has created perseverance. Our characters have been slowly moulded for the better.

We have given freely of our time and talents to all social, athletic and art activities. This "giving of our best" has made us more appreciative of those things we have received.

The faculty and executive staff of the school have reserved for themselves a lofty place in our estimation by their untiring efforts to prepare us for our chosen profession.

Preparation is behind us, application is before us. With our knowledge, our philosophies, and ambitions we step out into the world with a prayer on our lips.

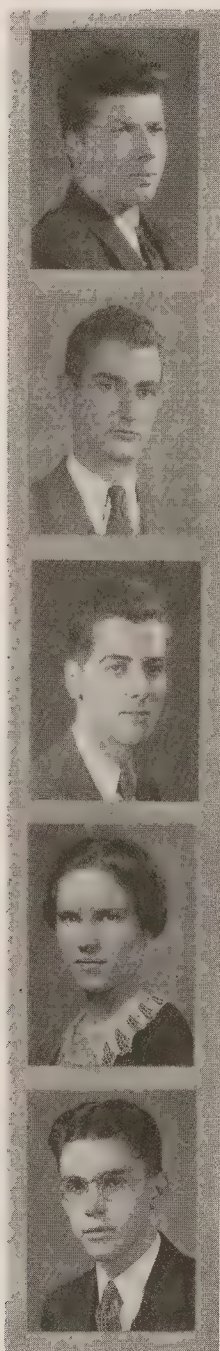

Oh, World beyond the threshold of commencement,
Oh, World of fondest hopes and shattered dreams,
Oh, World of joy, Oh, World of sorrow,
We come to thee, clothed with knowledge gleaned from books,
Girded with grim determination to succeed.
Accept us to thy bosom and treat us not too harshly,
Though we be masters of our fate,
Thou canst not make our voyage rough or placid.
For each dream that thou wilt shatter,
Give us new hope, sustained by that faith in self, that conquers all.

The local boy who made good. An advertising designer par excellence who timidly entered our studios armed only with a megaphone and a crooner's ambition and to whom success is inevitable.

WENZLICK, WINONA

Nona

1224 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Cal.

The last but not least addition to the Advertising III Class. A quiet California poster maker who we are sure is our friend provided we haven't frightened her with our shallow noise.

ADVERTISING DESIGN—1933

"A HOUSE divided against itself cannot stand." Well, that was the exact position that we were in the first day of our second year. This catastrophe was caused by the girls sitting on one side of the room and the boys on the other; but being great followers of Lincoln, we soon remedied the situation and became acquainted.

Although we are destined to be Commercial Artists, many of our classmates are musically inclined. Soloists, quartettes and whistlers have competed for the supremacy of the class with various degrees of success.

The more elaborate problems of the second year called for a great deal of work, but a cheerful spirit reigned at all times. With the help of Mr. Longyear, the old habit of letting a homework problem "slide by," was soon overcome.

Ours is the class of "packaging." Everything from coffee cans and cereal boxes, to shaving cream tubes have received new and beautiful labels designed by us. Without doubt, everyone of us have dreams of revolutionizing the chain-store industry as soon as we leave our Alma Mater.

A class that will be long remembered is our first "still life" class in oils. Miss White greeted us with the startling statement, that we were to use palette knives instead of brushes. Some of the greatest works of ultra-modern art ever made by man were turned out that afternoon. All that we needed was patience, and after learning how to put the paint on the canvas instead of on our clothing we began to turn out some creditable work.

Two-thirds of our stay at Pratt is completed and soon we will move on to make room for another group of fortunate students. Now we live in anticipation of our third year and although we may have many tasks and difficulties, we know that they will be lightened by the spirit of good fellowship and cooperation of the class.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATION — 1932

WE are Seniors; that is plain for all to see. Soon we will be leaving you. We do not want to go but we are called to our places in the affairs of tomorrow. We become serious now—not at all as we were in former times for we must bid farewell to the old landmarks, the gay times of school days, the friends we have made and assume a role entirely new to us.

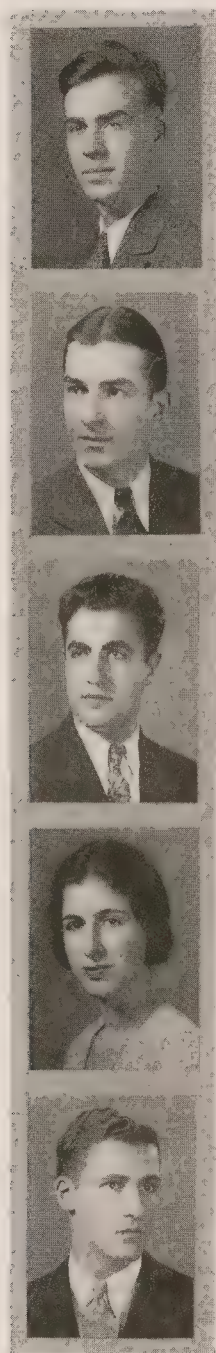

Occasionally we shall revisit old haunts; but we shall not stay. Often we shall think of the happy times that have passed. We must ever push onward to conquer new worlds as have those that passed before us. It has ever been thus.

Our fathers are stepping aside. They draw away a curtain and as the curtain is drawn aside we see the things we must do. Our fathers have avowed their mistakes and the scene they present to us is the scene as they would see it were they given another chance. They are anxious that we be not hasty but profit by their errors. We cannot afford to brush aside their admonitions. If we do we must bow in humiliation before our sons. We are individually responsible for making the world a better place for our having lived in it.

But before we leave on our mission we must march through the Library Park, solemnly, but happily. Then that inevitable march for our diplomas, passes to the life which is ours to mould. Are we afraid? We haven't been yet. We cannot be then. So with heads held high, chins thrust forward, banners flung proudly to the breeze, we shall march through the gates into the world, into that great adventure called Life. We shall find it as our forebearers did. It shall never grow old. It shall always be new and great. Then a thousand voices may burst forth in a glorious "Hail and farewell!"

CLASS OFFICERS

ALBERT BURWINKLE, President	MARJORIE A. QUATTLANDER, Sec'y.
JOHN LYNCH, Vice-President	DORIS JEAN LIVINGSTONE, Treas.

ARNOLD, GORDON D.

Gordie

1451 Dormont Ave., Dormont, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Artsmen Baseball, 1930-31-32; Prattonia Representative, 1930-31; Captain Artsmen Baseball, 1931-32; Assistant Cheer Leader, 1931; Varsity Cheer Leader, 1932; Manager Artsmen Soccer, 1932.

Beau Brummel was the Prince of Dandies. But "Gordie" is the prince of—oh, well, why should we tell? A good fellow.

BAILEY, MERRILL A.

Barnum

Nelson St., Cazenovia, N. Y.

Class President, 1931; Artsmen Basketball, 1930-31-32; Varsity Baseball, 1930.

Courteous in all ways. Exact and to the point. Well-mannered and well-liked. A gentleman in the real sense of the word.

BEDIAN, JEREMIAH H.

Bedie

860 Main St., Paterson, N. J.

Fencing Club, 1931; Marionette Club, 1931-32; President Marionette Club, 1932.

Across the sea from Armenia and to think he plays with dolls. It is like a bull in a china shop. Dependable and we must add, sedate.

BRODY, MAXINE H.

Max

1161 East 61st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Smart and cultured with a sense of humor and a reflection of sophistication. A coil of raven hair—red poppies—coral beads—the figure of Venus de Milo.

BURWINKLE, ALBERT

Al

499 Lincoln Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen Baseball, 1930-31; Class Vice-President, 1931; Artsmen Soccer, 1931; Class President, 1932; Artsmen Basketball, 1932.

A keen appreciation for humor and a grand smile to go with it. Excelling in athletics as well as in art. His popularity is deserved.

CORBETT, ANNA H.

Anne

295 Washington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1930; Paletteers Representative, 1930-31; Chairman Paletteers Educational Committee, 1931.

That continental flare—style with individuality—keen desire for fun and ability to carry it through make a good combination, Anne. That school-girl complexion.

COX, J. WILLIAM S., Jr.
Walkill, N. Y.

Bill

Clee Club, 1930-31-32; Glee Club Secretary, 1932; Glee Club Publicity Chairman, 1931-32; Artsmen Secretary, 1932; Prattonia Representative, 1932; Marionette Club 1931; Art Director Marionette Club, 1932.

The Puritan who turned Indian—dignified and stately. A lovelorn swain—who would guess it? A sportsman and a good fellow.

DITTMER, EDWARD N.

Ed

59 Springfield Ave., Meridan, Conn.

Glee Club, 1930-31-32; Glee Club Treasurer, 1931; Glee Club President, 1932; Artsmen Baseball, 1930-31; Business Manager Marionette Club, 1932; Artsmen Treasurer, 1932.

Pooh Bah was the Lord High Everything Else and "Ed" figures the same way. Arden exponent of the vocal art. Manly and efficient.

FARWELL, ARTHUR M., Jr.

Art

44 S. Main St., Franklinville, N. Y.

Artsmen Soccer, 1930-31-32; Artsmen Basketball, 1930-31-32; Artsmen Bowling, 1930-31-32; Glee Club, 1930; Assistant Manager Artsmen Basketball, 1930; Artsmen Baseball, 1931; Captain Artsmen Basketball, 1932.

Some think the world is made for fun and frolic! "Art" is bound to win you; it must be that infectious grin.

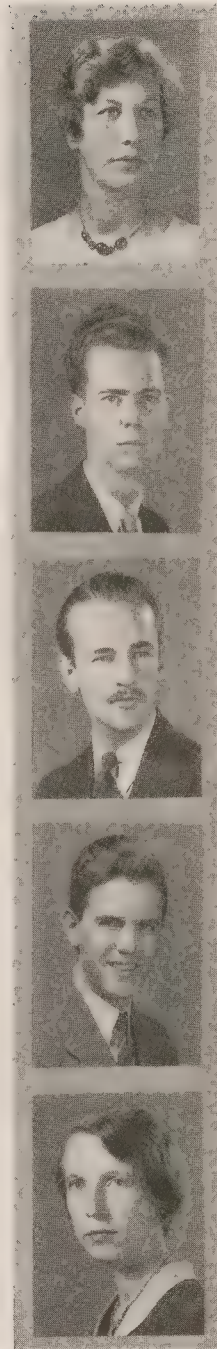

FOSTER, RUTH ESTELLA

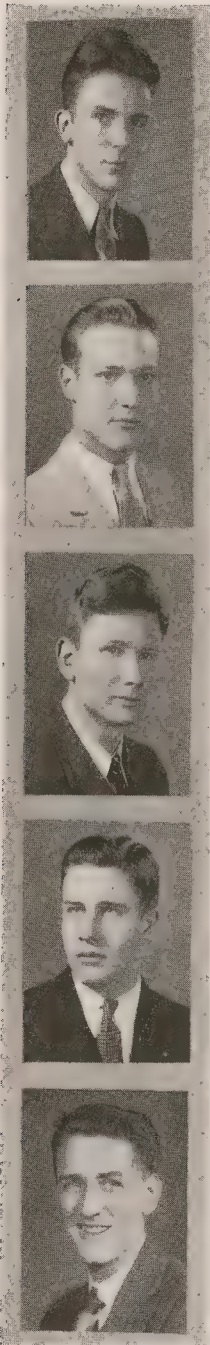

Ruth

45 Main St., Dansville, N. Y.

Paletteers Representative, 1930-31; Chairman, Paletteers Social Committee, 1931; Women's Club Representative, 1932.

Ruth expresses beauty of soul—a fine girl and a finer artist—good grey matter—sweet disposition. Appreciative of fine things.

HAND, J. COOLIDGE

Cool

Hunting Lane, East Hampton, L. I., N. Y.

Artsmen Representative, 1932; Artsmen Bowling Manager, 1932.

Freshness and salt tang of the sea—efficient and well-liked. Sincerity of purpose with a will that never fails. Courage might well be emblazoned on his banner.

HOWELL, E. HALSEY

Hal

Hill St., Southampton, L. I., N. Y.

Marionette Club, 1932.

E. H. H. the tenth. Words for all occasions—likes to talk and does. If all else fails he may still pose for Arrow Collars. Impetuous with an imperialistic turn.

INGLIS, FREDERIC B.

Red

18 Washington Ave., Atlantic Highlands, N. J.

Artsmen Baseball, 1930-31; Artsmen Basketball, 1930-31.

A great big lock of red hair, a broad school-boy grin on a freckled face, the love of fun which accompanies that combination. A good pal.

JACKSON, RALPH A.

Jack

578 Ridgecrest Rd., Atlanta, Ga.

A real Southern gentleman, suh. Quiet and unobtrusive with a tendency to be immaculate. Georgia is famous for peaches and in our mind for very nice little boys.

KLINFELTER, WILLIAM M.

Bill

Route 4, Box 1278 G, Portland, Ore.

Our cowboy in an artist's smock—frothy bubbles of fun with a really deep vein—as fresh and clean as his native state—an example of how fine a fellow can be.

LIVINGSTONE, DORIS JEANDoris*7901 Fourth Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1932.

A blue hair-ribbon and an exceedingly soiled pinafore—the excitement of a merry-go-round and the thrill of a peppermint stick. Just like a doll.

LOUDON, ADAMAydam*523 East 39th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fencing Club, 1930-31-32; Class Secretary-Treasurer, 1930; Artsmen Soccer, 1930-31.

A Scot frae the Highlands who has a way with the ladies. A modern version of the Calico Cat—not quite sure of what comes next, but eager to take a crack at it.

LYNCH, JOHNJohn*38 Adelphi St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen Publicity Committee, 1930; Prattonia Representative, 1930; Class President, 1930.

John possesses an inner self that few suspect. A love for, and an appreciation of drama and literature. A quiet but infectious personality. A student. Versatile.

MACCHI, DARIODio*20 Plain St., Barre, Vt.

A New England twang softened by old-world artistry. The essence of integrity, humor and good fellowship.

MARSDEN, HERBERT EVERETTPeter*244 Washington Ave., Providence, R. I.

Director of Production, Marionette Club, 1932.

"'Twas sad by fits; by starts 'twas mild." "Peter" is a conglomeration of Oberammergau and Dante's Inferno—a funeral dirge in competition with a hurdy-gurdy. Puck with a vengeance.

MULVIHILL, WILLIAM B.

Bill

13 Furman Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fencing Club, 1931-32.

"Bill" possesses those eyes which shine with metallic lustre, reflecting the stability of his convictions. A typical New Yorker.

NEWLIN, JOHN NORTH

Jonathan

Dover Plains, N. Y.

A blue flame burning steadily—a biting wind from the north with shadows deepening from solitary pines. As rugged and calm as the hills from whence he comes.

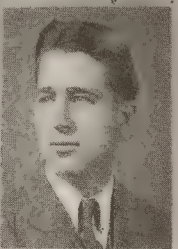

QUATTLANDER, MARJORIE A.

Midge

322-81st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1930; Class Hockey, 1930; Class Treasurer, 1931; Class Secretary, 1932.

How sweet and charming this lady can be—get anyone's opinion—they'll all be in favor. It's evidently fun to view the world through eyes so nearly green.

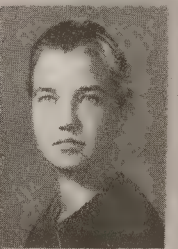

ROMELING, WALDEMERE

Bus

209 Glen Ave., Scotia, N. Y.

It is not how you look but what you are—quiet and unassuming—with the keen fire of determination in his eyes. A hunter with a gun as well as a brush.

SCHABBEHAR, ANN

Hedda

43 Livingstone Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Class President, 1930; Women's Club Representative, 1931; Glee Club, 1932.

A leather jacket and a slouch hat—a slow burning fire—the rhythmic walk of a tigress. Our candidate for a Murad advertisement. Lotus petals and sandalwood.

SHEEHAN, GORDON A.Sheen*R.F.D. 1, Mechanicville, N. Y.

Assistant Manager Artsmen Basketball, 1930; Manager Varsity Basketball, 1931; Artsmen Representative, 1931.

His art comes after his harmony. He runs the P. I. lunch and still they eat and live. A good pal and a good worker—that's going some.

SHIRE, HENRYShire*92 Milton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen Swimming, 1930; Chairman, Artsmen Publicity, 1931; Chairman, Artsmen Educational Committee, 1932.

His life is spent in solitude and thought. Why doesn't he move his trunk to the Art Reference Room? Scholarships galore! He sweeps all things before him. Il Penseroso.

SMALLEN, PAULPaul*5303 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen Social Committee, 1930.

The woes of the world rest heavily upon the shoulders of our class troubador. A fair warning to White-man. Musical in a lucrative way. Diplomatic.

STINGHEN, JOSEPH DONATOJoe*235 Sunbury St., Minersville, Pa.

Artsmen Baseball, 1930; Manager Artsmen Baseball, 1930.

A bundle of pep, personality, and wit. A dancer, a singer, an athlete, and an artist—wow, "Josie" you are there. And oh! that harmony.

TAYLOR, DOROTHY ALDWORTHDot*39 Hillcrest Ave., Stamford, Conn.

The face on a candy box—amethysts and pearls—white roses in a brass bowl. The kind of a girl your mother would like.

YUILL, JAMES

Jimmie

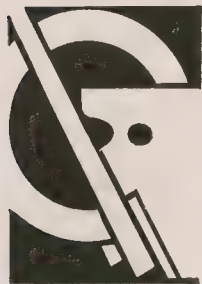

2 Cherry St., Glenhead, L. I., N. Y.

Artsmen Soccer, 1930-31-32; Artsmen Basketball, 1930-31; Class Vice-President, 1930; Class Treasurer, 1931; Captain Artsmen Soccer, 1930-31; Glee Club, 1932.

"Jimmy" excels in athletics as well as art—has singing and dancing down to a science. Everything he does he does well.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATION — 1933

NOW we are the ultra-sophisticates, merely tolerant of the bewildered freshman. We have emerged from our chrysalis as supermen—it is the apotheosis.

There is a good deal of active competition between the men and women of the division, and as a result, the members of both factions have outdone themselves in an effort to outdo their rivals. There are times when the artistic and temperamental outburst of the competitors are ill-timed. Miss Wheat has scarcely completed the arpeggio in her musical sneeze, when our soap-box orator discovers a new angle to his pet theory on the composition of phosphorescent nebulae. Although our high-minded and dearly beloved president suggests the use of arsenic in our soup next time, we regret to say that few listen to presidential authority nowadays.

By the way, we do draw too; not long ago someone drew a foot that almost looked like a foot!! We were naturally almost thrilled to tears. Thanksgiving holidays were pending, and we rejoiced, for after all we needed ample time to meditate on our good fortune.

Seriously, we are more enthusiastic than ever over this art-game. Through the sound advice and patient criticism of our instructors, we hope some day to enter the world of art, and then—what heights would be to difficult to attain? For we are of the conquering army from Pratt Institute!

AND THE HAMMOCK SWUNG ON

"A is the maid of winning charm;
B is the snug, encircling arm;
How many times is A in B?"
He questioned calculatively.
She flushed, and said, with air sedate,
"It's not quite clear; please demonstrate."

By HAMILTON GREY.

FASHION ILLUSTRATION—1932

"CHANGE the pose, please!" Chorus—"Aw, wait a minute!" We always agree but not at the same time.

Just a bunch of the girls, two of us trying to imitate three of the Boswell sisters, one of us giving that famous platinum blonde a bit of competition, some of us hoping to put Grafstrom among the unemployed and all of us enjoying it.

It's a great life if you don't weaken but at four P.M. we stagger out completely worn out. After all, when you talk, sing, and work all day, you can't help being a bit tired. We gather from the wilds of Long Island to the innermost reaches of that ancient city of Brooklyn. Getting to class on time is our greatest problem, inventing and discovering new techniques are our happiest pastimes, keeping track of borrowed material is the closest we come to insanity. Buy a new magazine and see what happens. It travels from Fashion to Advertising, then to Pictorial and after it's too old to use—back it comes. That old idiom holds true, "What's yours is mine, and what's mine is my own." But we're going to miss not sharing everything with everyone.

Now a little about our history. The first year our class was very large; a few dropped out and in the second year we lost some of our number to other classes but gained three from another school. The third year found even fewer of us, but the class was augmented by a student from Pictorial, one from Advertising, and two girls new to Pratt but now wise in our ways.

Sunshine Alley is our favorite rendezvous, the Intimate Gallery running a close second. Doing homework is our hardest task; singing is not our greatest accomplishment; quick sketching is one of our favorite diversions; keeping our smocks clean is an impossibility; and if you want a long sob story ask the treasurer about our class dues.

We like to sleep in lectures, imitate radio favorites, dance to slow music, buy new clothes, and tell other people what's wrong with their work.

Now to go job hunting and see if we can justify our three years at Pratt. Here's hoping you too may say—"Ah, I knew them when !"

CLASS OFFICERS

LYDE PETERSEN, President

KATHRYN BARRY, Vice-President

LOIS ROBINSON, Secretary-Treasurer

BARRY, KATHRYN B.

Kay

2929 162nd St., Flushing, L. I., N. Y.

Basketball, 1932; Hockey, 1931; Paletteer Representative, 1931; Class Vice-President, 1932.

"Kay", of the curly pate of burnished gold. Makes perfect line drawings over which she lays perfect washes. Possessor of a cheerful smile and easy to get along with. Oh Kay!

BIKOVSKY, BETTY

Bets

964 50th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1931.

"Now you go and watch how Miss Bikovsky does it." Zip! Zing! A splash of color here, another there. Betty, a girl who made "washing" a tekneek. And what a wash! No iron-y in that.

BROWNLEE, GRACE K.

Gai

35-28 153rd St., Flushing, L. I., N. Y.

Devoid of any pretence is "Gai," of whom we have grown extremely fond. Came to us in our last year, wealthy with knowledge of Pratt. "Ah, for those pre-checking days of '21," sigh we.

CUTHBERT, HELEN I.

Hel-an

119 Scotch Plains Ave., Westfield, N. J.

Class Basketball, 1930-31; Class Hockey, 1931; Class Vice-President, 1931.

The girl of a million melodies—but only one love! Another musketeer with a Guy Lombardo complex! Bing Columbo Cuthbert to you!

FALVELLA, REGINA M.

Jean

382 East 29th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1930-31-32; Women's Club Representative, 1931; Prattonia Representative, 1932; Glee Club Pianist, 1932.

Because Jean craves Bach, Beethoven and Brahms, lots of people think she is such a quiet little girl. But have these people ever asked whose timely remarks cause all our hilarity at the wrong time?

FENNER, ETHELYN A.

Polly

50 Gillette Ave., Springfield, Mass.

Class Vice-President, 1931; Class Treasurer, 1931.
Don't let that dreamy look mislead you. There's a bit of devil in every good little girl, you know. She's the second musketeer.

FORTUGNA, ANNE

Ann

377 Grand St., Jersey City, N. J.

Bella Donna, Castile, Tabasco and other expressions of Latin joy. And that Pepsodent smile! Can't you just picture Anne giving needlework lectures, illustrating six good ways to knit your eyebrows?

GERBICH, CAROL

Carol

143-15 Poplar Ave., Flushing, L. I., N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1931.
One of the Siamese twins. The "halls" of Pratt would be lost without them and their giggles. Eventually they will live down the fact that they matriculated at Washington Irving.

HOFFT, DOROTHY

Dotty

5 Bryn Mawr Ave., Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

"Dotty" the fair, "Dotty" the lovable, "Dotty" the "Philly" maid of Pratt. Her first year here in Pratt and she's all set to graduate with us. This Quaker knows her oats.

HOVEMAN, ALICE M.

Alice

1498 East 18th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1930-31; Prattonia Representative, 1931; Associate Editor Prattonia, 1932.

One who is preferred. Just look at those blond waves. It's fun to hear Alice on Mondays 'cause Monday is the first day after the week-end.

HOWE, MARJORIE A.

Marge

397 Parkside Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1930.

The girl with A personality. The other half of the harmony team and the third musketeer. In other words, "Marge"—the girl whom everybody likes.

KOONMEN, ANNA A.

Anne

148-03 9th Ave., Whitestone, L. I., N. Y.

Women's Club Representative, 1932; Volley Ball, 1930.

"Anne" can draw cowboys—gives them a wild look, checkered shirt and leather pants. (Ripping—eh what?) A product of wild and woolly Whitestone where men are men and women can't believe it.

LEDER, FRANCES

Fran

243 Ryerson St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1930; Camera Club, 1931.

The rumor is that she is "scratching" an etch. Her composition is as strong as her friendship and we predict success for her in everything. "Hispaña Suiza to you!"

McCALLISTER, DOROTHY L.

Dot

35-12 91st St., Jackson Heights, N. Y.

The other half of "the twins." Though she is the lighter half, complexionally speaking, her work is equally strong. We look for much in their future "fashionings."

PAGE, RUTH

Ruth

308 Main St., Clarion, Pa.

"Ruth is stranger than fiction." Must fancy the "go" light of traffic signals—carries out the same color scheme for checking in on mornings. Reticent, with a star complex, that's Ruth.

PEKKONEN, SYLVI M.Pek*625 85th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers Representative, 1932; Hockey, 1930-31; Marionette Club, 1932.

One of our "littlest girls," spontaneous and peppy. When it comes to drawing, "Sylvi" has more tricks up her sleeve than Houdini had cards. She'll be sitting high up with the stars, before long.

PETERSEN, LYDELyde*67 Sammis Ave., Huntington, L. I., N. Y.

Class President, 1931-32; Hockey, 1931; Basketball, 1930.

Lyde with the big smile and a flare for a snappy pose and the newest clothes. Rather be right than President? Lyde's been president twice and right both times.

ROBINSON, LOIS C.Lois*Taft School, Watertown, Conn.

Volley Ball, 1930-31; Prattonia Representative, 1930; Class Secretary, 1931; Class Secretary-Treasurer, 1932.

Lois, the girl with a future as famous as her bangs. Quiet charm with an ever-present sense of humor. Pedagogic in answering our queries. Quick Watson: "How many ways will acute accents lean?"

SILVEY, WANDAWanda*8721 144th St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Wanda has a mysterious look which means she has outside interests. Pondering scientific questions probably. "How many shoes of one kind does one wear on Monday morning." Wanda on the high stool is our budding Russell Patterson.

SITER, NATALIE E.Nat*North Egremont, Mass.

What attraction has the library for our "Nat?" Research? With an eye to New England cottages! Our best wishes to you. May you be a wifely deputy sheriff and serve subpoenas daintily.

SMITH, FLORA

Flo

12 Elizabeth St., Waterloo, N. Y.

"Flo" is taking a correspondence course. By her system of "Remote control" she turns out work showing promise of great originality. Usually quiet until she hears a song she likes, then even she threatens to sing.

THOMPSON, GRACE E.

Gracie

412 Rugby Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteer Representative, 1930; Glee Club, 1930; Volley Ball, 1931.

Sweet Romance! Desperately fond of the "drammer" and Wagner. At the merest suggestion will burst into the immortal strains of the "Razor Theme" from "Barber of Seville," or the "Motormen's Chorus" from "Carmen."

FASHION ILLUSTRATION — 1933

THIS lowly mortal will not gorge you with dates which our Institute opened. After all, what has that to do with Class history. Dates are loathsome to remember. However, if you be an inquisitive lot, some other Prattonia Representative surely has allowed the date of the event to be published.

The Class of Fashion Illustration is composed of a brilliant set of budding fashion artists. From whence we came? That we are able to answer—first year general art students all take the same course.

Ah, the memorable cast, or antique; water color, a delightful splash in water and chroma; design, a series of interesting edges and fine arrangements of lines, spaces—and black and white masses; perspective color theory (we fashion students must know intensity, votan, etc., as applied to fashion illustration); and the last group, life and costume on the figure, which is largely our basis. We don't, however, profess that we could possibly do sans the rest of our curriculum.

We, the class of fashion, work and turn out those swanky, sleek, sophisticated, ultra-fashionable, smart, graceful, tall and beautiful ladies. Our ladies have no superfluous tissues. Oh, no, they exercise and follow the eighteen day diet. They are clothed in the Parisian or at least the Fifth Avenue manner. We will admit, at the beginning of the term, our ladies weren't quite the ultra-fashionable, smart sleek types. They were inclined to be bulky, but, we are walking a straight and narrow path with Miss Lincoln and the result—slim, graceful, fashion models. You would almost think our class was a course in surgery—"Take some of that hip off"; "Lengthen that foot," or even, "Give her a longer neck"—it is only Miss Lincoln giving a criticism. We do commercial advertising, and we are not at all bad. Mr. Longyear and Miss Fisher don't think we're such poor water color students either.

All in all, we are fairly good, and we hope by the end of next year we will be real good. You know everyone has something to sell and we will sell ourselves and come through with a profit. Of course, we know we will have to work hard, but, we won't be a bit surprised to see Fashion Illustration '33 produce the future Erics, Edmundsons, Baz' and Regnys. Here's to our success!

INDUSTRIAL DESIGN—1932

THREE very short years ago a group of thirty-five timid students entered Pratt, eager to learn, excited about the work ahead, and anxious to form new friendships. While still freshmen we were royally entertained by the seniors who gave us a welcome dance. That was all that was needed to start us off, and we've been going ever since. Several of our boys had time for soccer and swimming and the girls, hockey, baseball and volley ball. Some of us also found time to go on the annual Hudson trip sponsored by the school which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Our second year started as a group of sixteen, entirely separate from the decorators, joining the seniors and calling ourselves Industrial designers. We had a complete new program including lighting fixture design which was suddenly abolished for advertising design, oriental rug design and modern textile design. We also became very bold and brave and asked for a day off to have a beach party. It was granted and we all had a dandy time, even though it rained almost all day. At the close of the second year we parted from our senior classmates, realizing that in September we would come back high and mighty seniors.

Little did we think when we entered Pratt that some day we would have the nerve to say that we wouldn't join the Artsmen or Paletteers, or that we wanted "History of Interior Decoration." We've spoken and now have our own speakers who are really interested in designers and who help us decide just what we want to do when we graduate.

Good times always go fast and it is with real regret that we leave Pratt. Under the guidance of our interested and capable instructors we have learned design in most of its forms. We are deeply grateful to them and to Mr. Boudreau who have done their best to make this course meet all the requirements of the business and professional world.

There exists among us a genuine comradeship and we shall always remember our brief sojourn together as the best years of our young lives.

INDUSTRIAL DESIGN—1933

A HEARTY welcome greeted the many new students whom our popular little course has attracted! We suspect that the mighty praises we shout of our worthy instructors are responsible for this mysterious migration. We already number twenty, including in our ranks, two lithographers and etchers, whose evanescent forms failed to develop in the class picture.

Classes seem less formal this year—more like an experimental laboratory. This atmosphere of freedom is highly amenable to work. If there is any doubt that we work hard, glance at our picture and see how tired (sleepy?) we appear.

Speaking of work, the Monday afternoon class ought to poll a heavy popularity vote (among the theater managers). The depression sent a few of us to some excellent exhibitions, however.

As we gazed upon the freshmen, with their superabundance of conscientious ambition, we were somewhat amused. Then it dawned upon us that, not so long ago we were exactly like they are. Here is something for our instructors to worry about! Will they metamorphose into a replica of our class? Or worse yet, will we resemble the graduating class, when we return next year? Yes, their insidious influence upon us has grown to alarming proportions.

However, in a more serious vein, we enjoyed the company of the graduating class immensely. They furnished us fine inspiration, always guiding us, by their erudite example, into better technique. Their "affluence of effluence" upon our group was resplendent with innumerable benefits. We will miss their cheerful songs and exuberant humor, not to mention Dot Felton's inimitable styling. As they depart, we wish them all the success and happiness this cold cruel world has to offer.

In closing the school year, we hope our happy family will return intact next September, and we wish to thank our instructors for the miracles they accomplished with our cursory talents.

"My daughter," and his voice was stern,
"You must set this matter right;
What time did the Sophomore leave,
Who sent in his card last night?"

"His work was pressing, father dear,
And his love for it was great;
He took his leave and went away

And her dimple deeper grew.

INTERIOR DECORATION—1932

THREE years ago we entered Pratt. Happy, care-free and not quite sure what was expected of us. Our course included both the fine arts and subjects which might be considered crafts. However, we soon settled down to the task of showing Pratt what we could do.

In our second year we were elevated in position. Our classes were located on the fifth floor. How we labored, carrying huge drawing boards and tremendous T squares up five flights of stairs. Now we realize that we occupy an exclusive section, having an unequalled view of Brooklyn's smokestacks.

Our instructors were numerous and various. We were unable to account for this, unless it was that we were very much interested in our work and had a few ideas of our own.

One of the outstanding events of the second year was a beach party at Jones Beach. Everyone will remember the many weenies devoured.

In calling the roll we find that we have lost several classmates during the past two years, but we have also gained some worthy of high recognition.

This, our last year, has been one round of pleasure. Our course has been very agreeable and we have enjoyed several outstanding social events.

One of the outstanding features of our class has been its vocal talents. More than one instructor has remarked that we should have gone to a vocal school.

It is with anxiety and yet regretfulness that we leave Pratt. Anxiety to accomplish great things in the decorating field and regretting that we must part with our many acquaintances.

INTERIOR DECORATION—1933

IN separating from the Design Class and electing our own officers, we have doubled rather than divided our strength.

Seriously, it was only because of the cooperation of the Design Class that our first dance was such a success. It really was a "wow" except for the fact that the orchestra arrived rather late and in pieces.

Being original, we held our Christmas party at the Women's Club. It was a Merry Christmas party including presents, "eats" and dancing. Some of the Design Class joined us in our fun as we had joined them in theirs the day before.

We all delighted in filling the Christmas stocking for our poor little friend.

What a pleasant evening it was when we all went to see "The School for Scandal"! Being together added to our enjoyment of the performance.

Vitaphone has only to step into our class room to obtain all the sound effects it might need, including: airplane sounds, bird whistling, harmonizing and giggling. If blushing were also recorded on the screen, we could certainly make a very colorful scene.

What we can't figure out is why brilliant green, red, and pink make a "swell" Directoire drapery or why some love-seats are weak in the legs instead of weak in the back or light-headed.

However, our astounding enthusiasm with which we entered Pratt has shown itself this year more than ever before. We all just love our work and are expectant of some great things in the future.

In searching for a possible conclusion we find many things left unsaid. The most important is, that aside from our effervescent hilarity, we are seriously interested in our work.

HARD TO BEAT

Last night I held a little hand
So dainty and so neat,
Me thought my heart would burst with joy
So wildly did it beat.

No other hand into my soul
Could greater solace bring,
Than that I held last night, which was
Four aces and a king.

THIS small treatise would, were it to fulfill its purpose, comprise the history of the first year class in Decoration and Industrial Design.

We, or that class, entered Pratt like a group of high-spirited young colts into a green pasture land. Our minds were full of joy at the realization of our dream—happy to find a place where our spirits might be set free, where we might caper and scamper mentally over the field of Art. So it was for the first few days, but then came the round-up! Corraled we were, and branded as Pratt's own. Experienced hands set about it to put saddles upon us, and to accustom us to the feel of the bit and the bridle. That was when pencils and pens appeared for the first time. We trembled and our knees shook. We were willing, but scared; there is no fright like that which comes when one is first called upon to express himself before others, and we eyed our instruments with suspicion and dread. We had our weeks of kicking up our heels and bucking and shying at new things. However, the paces we were taught gradually became more natural. A few, more gentle-mannered perhaps, caught their strides easily and began to work steadily with true purpose and gained ground continually. For others of us, the new work was more difficult. We were a little wild, a bit obstinate, and longer in the learning of our tricks. We pace somewhat awkwardly as yet. Though as time goes on, the strong pull of the others, now our friends, combined with our own increasing confidence, brings us kindly into line—and we too will find our stride, which in the end will lead us to success.

AN APPROPRIATE KEEPSAKE

We flirted together a week at the shore,
And strolled on the beach by the light of the moon,
And whispered our love mid the breakers' wild roar,
And at parting he gave me a souvenir 'spoon.'

H. M. STONE

ILLUSTRATION A-1934

IN looking back over our first year we find we have a little cause to regret our entrance into so fine an institution as Pratt Institute. On the other hand, we have much reason for gratification, because in the little time we have been here, Pratt has made practical and possible, those ideals that were entirely visionary.

This class, with Donald Allen as president, is composed of thirty fellows from widely separated parts of this country. In looking over the material in the class we find many promising students. All of us are absorbed in our various ambitions. We all feel confident of success.

Here at Pratt we are finding not only the means to facilitate our artistic ambitions, but also, a training in those essentials which tend toward responsibility and culture.

This we get through contact with the fine instructors and teachers, all of whom have a different personality. There's Mr. Starkweather, who has confidence in those soul inspiring spells of silence, when you can hear nothing but the splash of water on stretched paper; and who delights in telling us about Spain and Serolla. Mr. Peterson also has a very marked effect on us. If you want the story get it from him.

Mr. Jackson produces yet a different reaction from the class. He puts up a mess of chairs and piano stools to draw, then makes us happy by saying we should be glad he didn't have any eggbeaters or typewriters. Even though we have only been a short while at Pratt, we have as a class, been very successful in the various phases of extra-curricula activities. On the Artsmen soccer squad Reed and Mazula held their own, helping to account for their unusually active season. On the court we have recognized ability in Monroe Eisenberg. On the cheering squad we have Walter Rau. Walter is also on the bowling team and together with Karl Foresberg they roll up a mean score card.

Our achievements even leave the field of sports and extend into dramatics. James Guthrie is the chief furniture and stage man of the Marionette Club.

A SOCCER TRAGEDY

She clung to him, the game was o'er,
Content was in her soul;
"Dear heart, I'm very happy now
That you have come back whole."

With gentle hand he smoothed her curls,
And tried to keep a laugh back;
"My dear, your joy is premature,
For I am only half-back."

UNIV. OF CHICAGO WEEKLY

ILLUSTRATION B - 1934

THE fall of the year 1931 marked the entrance of the class Illustration IB into Pratt Institute. This class consisted of thirty-nine earnest seekers of knowledge, and although the search is not conducted with all possible dignity, we hope for the best. Much to our regret, our number was diminished by three at the end of the first semester.

Someone—was it Caesar?—once said, "Omnia Gallia inter tres partes divisa est." We, with all due respect, might well apply that in saying "All Illustration IB is divided into three parts." But there the resemblance to ancient Gaul ceases, for the sections into which our unit is separated are, in the order of their popularity,—the Crooners, the Whistlers, and the Winchells,—not as noble as Caesar's delineations, perhaps, but certainly more modern. The intense rivalry between the Crooners headed by Mr. Watson, and the Whistlers, headed by Mr. Schepflin, has resulted in many a headache for the more sensitive. Of the Winchells we have nothing to say.

Really, our adaptability to new situations and our powers of acclimation are remarkable. It is now quite a single matter to snatch a few minutes of much-needed rest during a lecture, no matter how noisily our nearest neighbor is sleeping. Should a stranger "listen in" he would never guess from the babble of Brooklyn dialect that it was composed of a fusion of the varied tongues of Georgia, Ontario and the more metropolitan districts of Long Island.

Perhaps our naive faith in human nature and the inspiration offered us by the upper-classmen will carry us through our freshman year—one never knows. However, in the advent of a few of us becoming Sophomores, we promise to put aside our childish ways and seriously set out to convince the world of Art of our sincerity.

ILLUSTRATION C - 1934

THERE is one day which will live forever in the memories of the girls of Illustration C, and that is September 14, 1931, the opening day of school for us all. That day might really be called the opening day of a new life for three short years.

After Mr. Boudreau's address, we were sent to a room where for a year after, every Monday morning we were to meet at class. Those of us who arrived early, critically and very interestedly scrutinized each newcomer, sub-consciously or consciously cataloguing the girls into groups, the quiet ones, the good sports, and so on. Nearly all of us were thrown together with people we had never seen before and were therefore most interested in watching their reaction to everything. Within a day or two we had chosen our pals and met most of the girls.

After the first few days we settled down to the very serious business of virtually learning how to draw, design and paint. We learned where our pelvises were from Miss Hanks, that design was not as easy as it seemed from Miss Everest, and that we were, in fact, not half as good as we thought we were when we entered. Needless to say, we have already found out what will be our future from the results of our work by being ably coached and helped by our very nice teachers. We thank them. Without their encouragement many of us would have given up in despair long before this.

We all like the friendly atmosphere at Pratt as evinced in both the social and business activities. The faculty reception tendered the students was most enjoyable and helped to make each and everyone of us acquainted with the faculty and the other students. We hope very earnestly our remaining years at Pratt will be as enjoyable as our first few months have been.

S'TOUGH

It's an artless situation
When you're punk in illustration,
Your perspective is defective
And your painting's rather nil,—

When in drawing you are failing,
Your color scheme's too noisy, and—
Your still life's too darn still.

By ISIDORE GOLDBERG.

ILLUSTRATION D - 1934

ALLOW us to introduce a group of thirty-six trusting young maidens who have high hopes of becoming future school teachers. At certain opportune times we become so exuberant that we find it necessary to burst into song, and "The Bells of St. Mary's" issues forth from class rooms located in various parts of the building.

Of course, with a group as merry as we, Party is an important word, and so Thanksgiving being an appropriate time we gave a Thanksgiving party. The rooms of the Women's Club became the scene of the festivities and were decorated with effective orange streamers. After dance and song, we found time to consume English cookies and coffee. The general opinion was that another similar party would not be amiss.

A few of us, however, will not have much strength left for parties if we continue to use up energy dashing madly hither and yon, searching for a little sign that reads B.M.T. or I.R.T. while supposedly on our way to the Brooklyn Museum. But then, perhaps after a year or two in this town, we'll acquire a sense of direction and arrive at the right place on time.

In spite of a few minor mistakes in subway transportation, we are all thoroughly enjoying life at Pratt Institute. No doubt in the dim gray future we will probably have many pleasant reminiscences to relate to unsuspecting pupils in schools throughout the land.

NO WONDER

That each wants to look at the other."

MUCH has been said and written about the letter "X". We as a class, know all about it. The letter "X" is as old as the easels in some of the studios, (but not nearly as dirty), and since time immemorial has been used to mark spots.

Imagine, if you can, the consternation in any one of our tabloid newspaper offices if the editors were suddenly deprived of "X's". No "X"—no spot.

Yes, we are quite proud of our title. When the semester began in September, we found that quite a few of last term's members had transferred to other classes, but their places had been very efficiently filled by nineteen others. These newcomers had been given an unusual opportunity to complete the course in two and one-half years, instead of three.

There were no dull moments in any of our classes—that is, there may have been one or two, but we fed them candy so that they would keep quiet. No one of us will ever forget the happy hours spent in our classrooms. We will ever retain memories of our classmates emerging from the water-color rooms, bespattered with all the hues of the rainbow.

At some time or other, every one of us felt that to be a freshman was just about the worst thing on earth. True, we were given a rousing reception, but still there remained that distinction between the first year people and the "old-timers". Though the difference was slight, it was still there.

Finally, after studying the problem, the difference was eradicated. We all doffed our smocks, gently laid them on the floor of the dirtiest room we could find, stamped on them and then donned the grimy garments. They were positively caked with dirt, paint and clay. At our next public appearance, we were, to all eyes, seniors. However, we are looking forward to the time when our smocks will present the appearance of seniors without the aid of the floor.

Thus we pass through another year and now we live in anticipation of what next year will reveal to us.

PRAYER

Let us be glad of life,
As we rejoice in youth,
Springtime and song.
When we go forth to meet
Fate in her varying moods,
Let us be strong.

Fear not the passing years;
All shall remain for us
A vision clear.
Deep in our memories
These joys shall live again,
Each year more dear.

Lord, to our soaring hopes,
Lord, to our cherished dreams,
Grant this one thing:
That which is true in life,
So that our souls may grow,
And our hearts sing.

ILLUSTRATION X-1935

HELLO ladies and gentlemen of Pratt Institute! This is Mrs. Busybody's favorite son, Nosey, speaking to you from your home station.

I see where another of the February I-X classes has come into existence. Well, Newcomers, good luck to you!

Owing to the short time that the I-X class has been in Pratt, I haven't much to tell you about its record. I did, however, follow the class about for the first week of the term and picked up the following "dope."

Miss Herrick's Library Research class had a fine time blackening the eyes of the old masters. Their first problem was in light and shade.

Mr. Ajootian increased his students vocabulary by two words "foibles" and "juxtaposition" which he used in "clearing up" the main thought in drawing.

Color Theory found Miss Ashbrook and the class trying to find a pot of gold at the end of the spectrum.

The students in Mr. Price's lettering class were made to do their work to a "T".

Mr. Graves gave his Anatomy class plenty of experience in drawing Halloween skeletons. His Life class confirmed the theory that plumper figures will be in style this year.

"Little brown jug how I love thee" was the theme song of Miss White's Water Color class.

In Mr. Cimiotti's Costumed Figure class the students really worked, strange to say.

Miss Everest's Design class was troubled with spots (and stripes) before their eyes.

The new class shows great promise. Remember, that a green twig becomes a strong tree in time. Pratt Institute promises to be a tree cultivator. O. K. Pratt Institute!

A LOVELY SCENE

We stood at the bars as the sun went down
Beneath the hills on a summer day;
Her eyes were tender and big and brown,
Her breath as sweet as the new mown hay.

Far from the west the faint sunshine
Glowed sparkling off her golden hair;
Those calm, deep eyes were turned toward mine,
And a look of contentment rested there.

I see her bathed in the sunlight flood,
I see her standing peacefully now,
Peacefully standing and chewing her cud,
As I rubbed her ears,—that Jersey Cow.

ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN — 1932

GLANCING back over the past three years, we remember the first year as a hectic period, when, to use Mr. Pope's words, "we had to keep running as fast as we could to stand still."

The second year, with its slide rule and surveying passed quickly—a long hard grind of math and mechanics.

Back again for our third year, a sadly depleted group of nineteen, we boast as being one of the smallest and noisiest groups at Pratt.

Our athletes have nobly upheld the high standards set for them by their predecessors. In basketball, baseball, soccer and tennis, we are ably represented.

The sudden death of Mr. C. Franklin Edminster early this year, came as a severe shock to students and instructors alike. As head of the Architectural department, Mr. Edminster's friendly and understanding attitude endeared him to everyone with whom he came in contact; and we, as his last class, honor and revere him as a sincere friend and advisor. Mr. Edminster joined the faculty of the Institute in 1888 and his unfailing interest in the department of Architecture was in no small part responsible for its present high rating.

Mr. Edminster's death ensued as a result of an unfortunate automobile accident, last summer, which confined him until the end. His passing, however, was unexpected, and he is mourned by the scores who admired and loved him.

CLASS OFFICERS

ROBERT CUEMAN, President

THOMAS P. WHALEN, Treasurer

ANDERSON, ANDREW

Andy

18 Rutland Ave., Arlington, N. J.

Our serious-minded librarian and time-keeper who is a quiet student with a water color complex. A sportsman of note who week-ends in the foothills of the Alleghenies.

BOEMERMAN, FRANK

Frank

2789 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1930-31-32; Captain Varsity Baseball, 1932; Varsity Basketball, 1932; President Athletic Council, 1932; Vice-President Athletic Council, 1931; President Men's Club, 1932.

An athlete and a student who has an enviable record. "Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown."

CUEMAN, ROBERT R.

Bob

155 Wilmore Rd., Little Falls, N. J.

President Architectural Design, 1932; 1st Vice-President Architects, 1932; Chairman Educational Committee Architects, 1932; Student Council, 1932.

As our contact man, "Bob" has brought interesting men in our profession. A big cut-up with a quaint sense of humor.

FIEDLER, ALBERT H.

Al

1720 Sanderson Ave., Scranton, Pa.

Assistant Instructor Department of Architecture, 1932.

The boy himself in the flesh. Mr. Pope's invaluable assistant and model for the yearlings. A hair-line draftsman and noted for his charcoals.

GLAUBER, ISAAC M.

I

424 Irving Ave., Port Chester, N. Y.

Manager Class Baseball, 1931; Chairman Social Committee Architects, 1932.

Our curly-haired maestro of the ivories. An earnest but erratic worker. Popular with his fellows and is the social lion of the class.

GULOTTA, CASPERCasper*7502 Blake Ave., Ozone Park, L. I., N. Y.

A quiet, unobtrusive worker who can run a graded wash with the best of them. Junior partner and water-color renderer for the firm of Whalen and Company.

HANDY, A. RONALDHandy*31 Morton St., Bloomfield, N. J.

The mysterious "homme d'affaires", who starts his "projects" 9 P. M. Sunday, and knocks off a B plus. Seldom seen but often heard. "Now where would you be if you were 'Handy'?"

HUBACH, G. FREDERICKGeorge*139 Commonwealth Ave., Springfield, Mass.

An advocate of the strenuous life. It is rumored that, despite his numerous activities, George is organizing a Ping-Pong team. We expect to see him back again next year taking a P. G. Course in the H. S. and A. School.

KNOX, MALCOLM ROBINSONKnoxy*177 Greenfield St., Hartford, Conn.

A Yankee and proud of it. Views the world with a cynical eye. The only original designer in the class, according to M. R. An accomplished and speedy draftsman, a competent librarian and, at odd moments, an assistant in evening school.

LEADBEATER, HOWARD W.Leady*144 W. 228th St., New York, N. Y.

An exponent of the modern and bizarre. Howard is always doing something different. Who can forget his rich basso as he renders "Sailor Beware"?

LEONG, BILLINGS W.

Bill

225 East 31st St., New York, N. Y.

Varsity Tennis, 1930.

Our Oriental globe-trotter who found his Mecca at Pratt. Good-humored and easy-going. "Bill" is a fast tennis player and water-colorist of no mean ability.

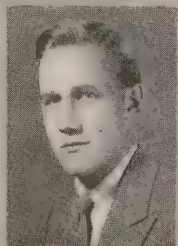

MULLER, OSCAR W.

Ozzie

62 Oakley Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Manager Class Soccer, 1932.

A tall, blonde Viking from White Plains. Studious and temperamental. "Ozzie" is the construction man of the class and an authority on Vignola.

NEUMANN, HERBERT W.

Herb

110-37 197th St., Hollis, L. I., N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1932.

"Herb" regularly presents the class with new and novel song arrangements. Well-liked in spite of his crooning. Excels in rendering and in handball.

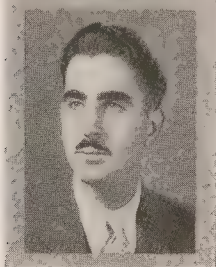

O'BOYLE, CORNELIUS W.

Connie

1633 Clay Ave., Scranton, Pa.

Class Treasurer, 1930-31; Treasurer Architects, 1932.

Nothing disturbs his placid and serene nature. The class humorist has made a success of his office as treasurer, despite the depression.

PATRIZIO, ALFRED J.

Pat

87-19 184th St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Owens a half-interest in a Jamaica drug store and spends his spare time at the opera. A careful, precise worker and a good-natured fellow.

STETSER, WILLIAM H.

Bill

178 St. and 114th Ave., St. Albans, N. Y.

"Hard as nails," with a weakness for "factory-to-you" Rocky Fords. Protests, despite his walk, that he was never a sailor.

THOMSON, GEORGE J. V.

George

254 Herkimer St., Hamilton, Ontario, Can.

President Architectural Construction, 1931; 2nd V.-Pres. Architects, 1931; President Architects, 1932; Vice-President Camera Club, 1931.

George has guided the Architects through a very successful year. He takes his responsibilities seriously and stops in occasionally to keep in touch with the boys.

TIENKEN, MELVIN H.

Mel

7612 7th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fencing, 1930; Boxing, 1930.

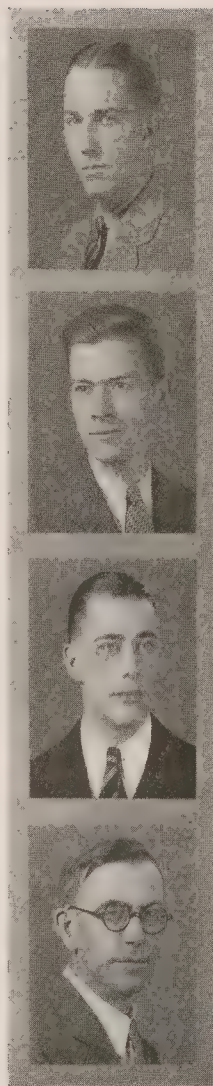

One of those strong but not so silent men. He has his moments of cartooning and wise-cracking. A smooth draftsman and handball player of ability.

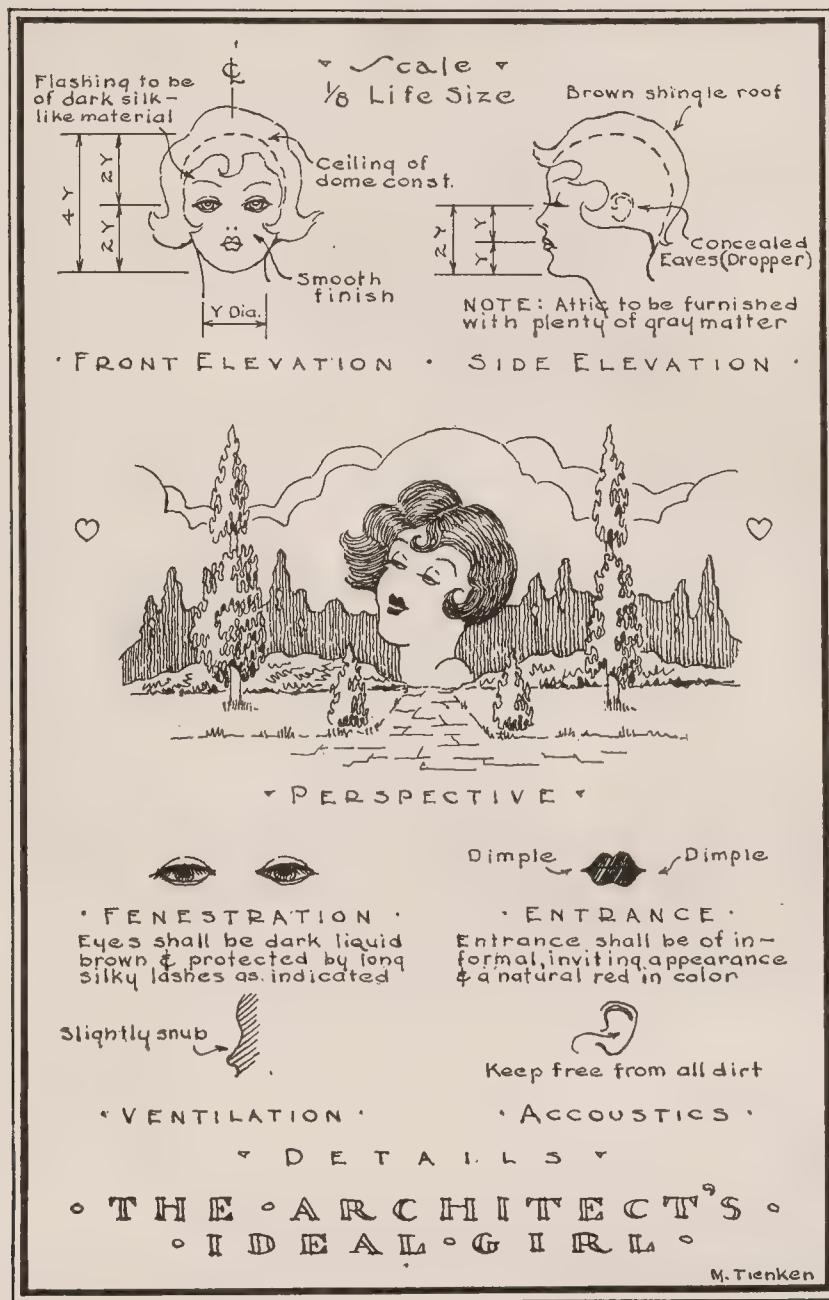

WHALEN, THOMAS P.

Teepee

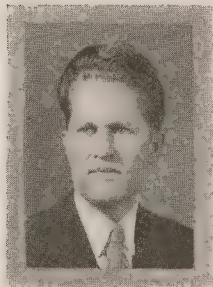

306 West 5th St., New York, N. Y.

A serious industrious worker and champion of the oppressed. "Teepee" is always willing to help poor struggling construction men.

ARCHITECTURAL CONSTRUCTION—1932

THE goal of another scholastic year is now in sight. Let us pause here in our headlong flight to pay in mournful tribute our respects to the departed spirit of our late supervisor, Mr. Edminster. To his most worthy successor, Mr. Lester B. Pope, felicitations, with the hope for a success in his new office equal to our expectations.

This has been a constructive year in all the meaning that that term implies. The theory of the classroom was pursued to actual demonstration "on the job." Our first and very interesting trip was to the Brooklyn Technical High School. It was here that Mr. Price revealed the complexities of the building game and the heights to which our construction year would elevate us.

Introduced by our faculty is a new idea in the form of a problem that requires the design and full set of working drawings, complete with all the functional elements of a finished building. This is an innovation that has aided us to better understand the requirements of our chosen profession.

In combination with the other classes of our department we have enjoyed our many social functions. Our banquets have furnished many palatable delights (thanks to the service and culinary art of the H. S. & A. department) as well as food for thought, inspired by our great speakers from the professional world of Architecture.

To brag of our dances would be putting it mildly and a sheer waste of time as with their settings and general attitude, they were far beyond anything in Pratt.

Athletics have always found our class well represented and we have earned a name that is to be associated with all that is earnest and clean playing.

In years to come many will go further into this science of Art. Some will leave for new fields. But no matter what, the spirit of the class of '32 will always remain foremost and deep-rooted in the hearts of its members.

CLASS OFFICERS

FRANK G. MILLER, President

HARRY W. BASSETT, Treasurer

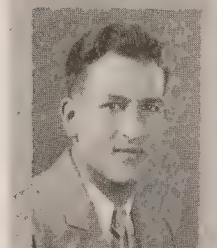

AMARI, ALBERT PETER

Al

265 Union St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Not satisfied with being just a good Architect, "Al" has enlarged his field to include the science of the brush. "Al" will have the jump on us in Design year.

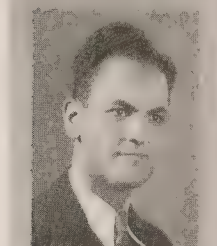

AULICINO, EDWARD R.

Eddie

5908 17th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Camera Club, 1931; Class Soccer, 1932.

While "Eddie" is quite a whistler in the classroom, he is a veritable example of dynamic energy on the soccer field.

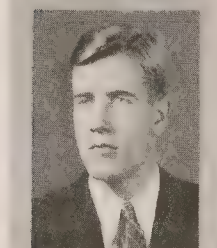

AZZAM, VICTOR S.

Vic

Mt. Carmel, Haifa, Palestine

Glee Club, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1931; Captain Class Soccer, 1931; Class Swimming, 1931; Varsity Cheer Leader, 1932.

"Vic", alias Monsieur, is a proud exponent of Arabian-Colonial style of architecture. This year "Vic" was the Rock of Gibraltar of our soccer team.

BASSETT, HARRY W.

Light Horse Harry

54 Maple Ave., Derby, Conn.

J. V. Basketball, 1931; Varsity Basketball, 1932; Class Baseball, 1931-32; Class Treasurer, 1932; Athletic Council, 1932.

Lo! and in our realm was born a giant. The man who uses service entrances exclusively, our iceman. We all pay "dues" respect and hard earned money to Harry.

BODEFELD, WILLIAM

Bill

187 Steuben St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Slowly and methodically a shadow moves in our midst. A square and trustworthy fellow, rather quiet but then, still water runs deep.

BOLLE, BERTUS F.

Bert

302 Brightwood Ave., Torrington, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Bowling, 1931; Manager Class Bowling, 1932; Class Baseball, 1931.

Cheerfulness and jollity seem to emanate from him. We are all sorry he left and wish him the best of everything.

BORGESON, ELMER

Borgie

57 Livingston Rd., East Hartford, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1932.

The little swede from the Nutmeg State. We would like to hear "Mc. Geegan" and "Borgie" in a debate on carpentry.

DIMEN, NORMAN

Norm

1220 Spofford Ave., New York, N. Y.

The class calculated a formula for slumber plus a five year plan of practical jokes which resulted in the ever late Demon Dimen.

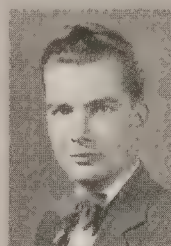

DOEGE, HERMAN L.

Hermie

55 Union Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y.

Here is another man-mountain. A likeable chap, who leads us to wonder what he carries in his eternal satchel. Pass out a few samples "Hermie".

DESTREMPS, FRANK C.

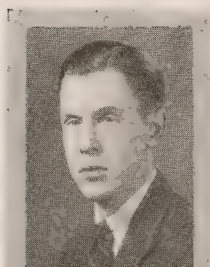

Frankie

124 76th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Manager Class Swimming, 1932.

A representative of the firm of Destremps & Potvin of New Bedford. "Frankie" claims that he never does any work but gets there just the same. Better ask "Bob" Wallen about that.

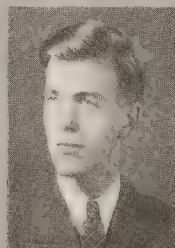

FITZSIMMONS, JAMES J.

Fitzie

120 Westford Circle, Springfield, Mass.

Boxing Club, 1931-32; Prattonia Representative, 1932; Manager Class Basketball, 1932.

Boom! Bang! A very "catchy" gent with all his "traps" and "snares." If you feel inclined to kill some one after reading these personals, see "Fitz", he's responsible.

FRELIGH, FLETCHER J.

Fletch

415 Woodland St., Hartford, Conn.

Good old Sir Banister Freligh, who mysteriously disappears every Friday. We all suspect he is trying to help this depression by inaugurating a four day week at Pratt.

GILROY, RUSSEL J.

Russ

14-23 Burton St., Whitestone, L. I., N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1932; Boxing Club, 1932; Class Swimming, 1932.

"Russ's" mark of identification is a laugh that will always ring in our ears. If there is anything about elevators that you don't know, "Russ" will enlighten you.

GROSS, MILTON

Milt

213 Hart St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dramatic Club, 1932.

"Milt's" name, many a time, has been linked up with the creator of "Nize Baby". His permanent wave and pocket handkerchief are as constant a worry to him as his tracing paper work is to us.

HAAB, LESTER L. D.

Chris

161 Garfield Ave., Mineola, L. I., N. Y.

Boxing Club, 1932.

The red cheeked cowboy from Mineola who is always ready for a horse play. "Chris" really believes that early to bed, etc., is true. But is it?

HOSKINS, WILLIAM

Bill

65 Fox St., Gloversville, N. Y.

The master salesman of the Construction class. When "Bill" is not practicing the art of high pressure salesmanship he shows an aptitude for deep thinking as well as fine drafting.

IVERSON, ERLING E.

Ivy

440 Clinton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1931-32.

"Ivy" is the class representative in the art of the aerial pass. When not booting the ball about the soccer field, he can amuse himself by bouncing objects off neighboring craniums.

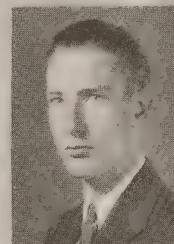

KING, HENRY

Henry

858 Kinsella St., Bronx, N. Y.

If you should by chance arrive early in the morn, go up to the construction room and you will make out through the gloom a stark figure peering over a desk. 'Tis King, the herald of the day.

KLOSSNER, STANLEY

Stan

1211 Gray Ave., Utica, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1931-32.

One seldom catches "Stan" belittling his time. "Stan" has been reading so much mail in class that we've made him one of our "lettered" men.

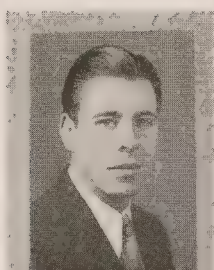

KOVALAINEN, WILLIAM J.

Bill

Box 380, Huntington Station, L. I., N. Y.

"Bill" has taken quite an interest in the different beam loads in public buildings. We believe that he is well acquainted with those of the Paramount Theatre.

KREY, HERBERT J.

Herb

1565 Springfield Ave., Maplewood, N. J.

Class Baseball, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1931-32.

Our nautical athlete of the diamond. "Herb's" facilities of being able to sleep any time and any place leave us astounded.

McCORMICK, CALVIN

Mac

1060 Falls Blvd., North Tonawanda, N. Y.

Accompanist Glee Club, 1931-32.

The occasional visitor in our class, possessed of an architectural and a musical complex. His insatiable yen for the piano is superceded only by his gastro-nomic and somnambulistic idiosyncrasies. His flying trips to Mineola keep him rather "up in the air".

McGUIGAN, THURSTON A.

Thirsty

479 Winthrop Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Glee Club, 1931-32; Camera Club, 1931.

Pencils! Apples! Our much heard of carpenter and "draftsman", for even in the coldest weather "Mac" must open every window. Nevertheless "Mac" will make great strides in architecture.

McGUIRE, JOHN E.

Micky

141 Greenfield St., Hartford, Conn.

A massive pier in the construction of the office of Weigand and McGuire. Always ready with his little joke and you'd better like it.

MILLER, FRANK G.

Frankie

304 Welles Ave., Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Prattonia Representative, 1931; Glee Club, 1931; Vice-President Glee Club, 1932; Class President, 1932.

Our president, a spurner of the Classic, designer a la modernistique, excavator of facts, contractor of friendships, and owner of a superlative tenor second only to his personality. A square shooting pal and a good man to have around.

MORRELL, DUDLEYMorrey*176 Ocean Ave., Amityville, L. I., N. Y.

And here is our needle-point draftsman. "Morrey" is still under the impression that there is a civil war between Amityville and Huntington.

NICHOLS, ALDEN W.Aldy*118 North 17th St., East Orange, N. J.

"Speak for yourself, John". "Aldy" is the inventor of the well known question mark. He applies his invention just five minutes to the hour while his mates shuffle and glare at the clock.

O'CONNOR, JOHN J.Johnnie*156 East Chester St., Kingston, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1931.

The class consulting engineer. Afflicted with a passion for work and a strong antipathy towards everything not in the category of architecture. A man's man (among men). Beyond that we are not qualified to speak.

POTVIN, ALBERT N.Al*667 Cottage St., New Bedford, Mass.

Through the portals of Pratt came a little Caesar. Between mighty invasions upon Destremps and Schade, "Pugilistic Al" shows an unfathomable skill as a renderer and a draftsman.

QUINN, HAROLD M.Chief*State Road No. 22, Golden's Bridge, N. Y.

Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball, 1931; Class Basketball, 1931-32.

"Quinny" has the largest number of nicknames in all Pratt. Not satisfied with electing himself Chief Engineer of the firm of Titus, Valand and Quinn, he has succeeded in proving himself notoriously clever in the art of Schnip hunting.

SCHADE, CHARLES A.

Charlie

159 Ontario St., Albany, N. Y.

Architect's Secretary, 1932; Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Baseball, 1931-32; Athletic Editor Pratttonia, 1932.

A rare combination of scholastic, social and athletic talent. "Charlie's" chief ambition is to run a slide rule and take over the construction of the firm of Schade, Spiess and Struppmann.

SPIESS, CHARLES J.

Charlie

1010 Second Ave., New York, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1931-32; Class Soccer, 1932.

Real New Yorkers? Here is your real New Yorker. Formerly a Bull of Wall Street and now a Romeo of Architecture. An easy mixer and good all around.

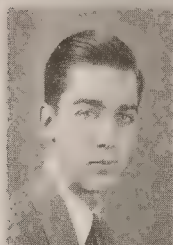

STRUPPMANN, HERBERT C.

Herb

8819 89th St., Woodhaven, L. I., N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1931-32; Class Swimming, 1932.

"Herb" is the information bureau of the Three S's. If there is anything in prices that you wish to know, see "Herb". The creator of real simple fireplace design. No "gingerbread" design for "Herb".

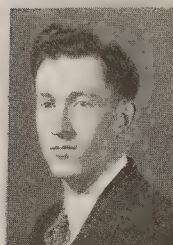

SWARTZ, WILLIAM W.

Bill

1028 Myrtle Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Class Bowling, 1930; Fencing, 1930-31; Boxing Club, 1930-31-32; Dramatic Club, 1932.

"Bill" occasionally wanders into our classes bringing his cheerful smile. Morning finds him always present at the meeting of the Architects' Breakfast Club.

THOMAS, SPENCER K.

Tommy

Holland Patent, N. Y.

Has Holland Patent any architects? They will have with "Tommy" back. "Tommy" is a combination of quiet work and ready smiles that can't be blocked. That's what architecture needs.

TITUS, WILLIAM E.

King

37 Hillside Ave., Huntington, N. Y.

"King's" keen wit and pleasing personality have blended to form a likeable fellow. The mouthpiece of his partners, Quinn and Valand, manages to keep things hopping in their firm.

TRAUMULLER, ARTHUR H.

Traum

1786 Bergen St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Good old trusty "Traum". Really reliable and a steady worker. At noon hours "Traum" goes off with "Bob" to swap lies.

VALAND, LIEF

Lee

63 Court House Pl., Jersey City, N. J.

Class Baseball, 1931-32; Class Basketball, 1932. "Lee" is a sport critic and athlete of known ability. Not only willing to argue with Destremps on athletics, but has a plan for debating with "King" for the betterment of Architecture.

WALLEN, ROBERT

Bob

149 81st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

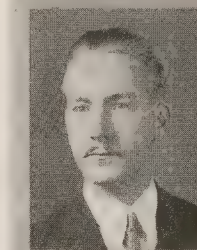

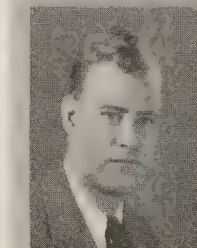

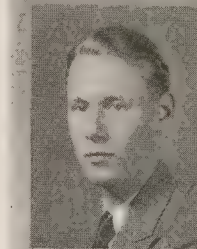

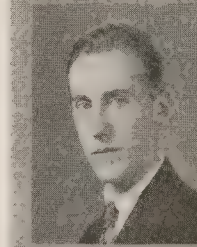

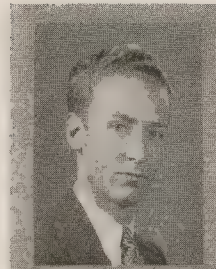

Class President, 1931; Class Baseball, 1931-32. "Bob" was the bulwark of our initial year. He has our esteem for his work as our first year president. The one who taught us the meaning of diligence.

WIEGAND, WALTER H.

Dutch

559 Lincoln St., Hazleton, Pa.

"Dutch" may have come from the Dutch state but is still able to get along with the best of the class. With "Dutch's" ever-present jocular mood, he has no superior, yea not even the great "Titus".

A SENIOR'S PLEA

"Dear Father: Once you said, 'My son,
To manhood you have grown,
Make others trust you, trust yourself,
And learn to stand alone.'

"Now, father, soon I graduate,
And those who long have shown
How well they trust me, want their pay,
And I can stand a loan."

CAP AND GOWN

ARCHITECTURE — 1934

It is hard to realize that our honored forebearers may they rest in peace, allowed a lapse of one hundred and fifty-five years before any move was made to do something great, something really big, and, above all, something truly American in the field of Architecture.

At last the day has come when our fair Stars and Stripes need no longer be dipped, architecturally speaking, to the other nations. For now Pratt Institute has yielded to that impulse, and admitted the class of truly capably and gifted architects for which our country in her crying need has been waiting throughout a century and a half.

A few words should suffice to set down another change in policy which has come about this year. Our ranks are graced, as they say, by three members of the so-called weaker sex. This has its advantages and its disadvantages, see Mr. Munson and Mr. Price, but so far we have managed to bear up under the great strain and we are beginning to rather like it.

As you may have judged from the few preceeding words from our humble pen, we are more a class of students than of social lions, but it here behooves us to extend thanks to the Teacher Training students for a dance,—shall we say "in our honor"; to the Architects for a smoker, and to the N. Y. Club of Pratt Architects for a banquet.

Taking it all in all we see our future fraught with huge responsibilities in all directions, but do we quaver before Ionic dove-cotes? No! Do we have misgivings when our dormer windows don't meet our roofs? No, indeed! Are our heads bowed when Mr. Vignola marches by at the head of his parade of dastardly orders? Thrice no; one from Mr. Pope, one from Mr. Fletcher, and one, which, we must admit, is rather small and unconvincing, from the architects of Nineteen-Thirty-Three.

TEACHER TRAINING—1932

It seems a comparatively short time ago that we, the TEACHER TRAINING CLASS of '32 started life at Pratt Institute. Now that we are on the verge of our departure, we think it only right that we should pause and reminisce over this period of our lives.

The first year stands out as an exciting adventure, especially the terrifying initial week. We led a merry life throughout this term. However time and the pressure of work tempered our inclination for slapstick.

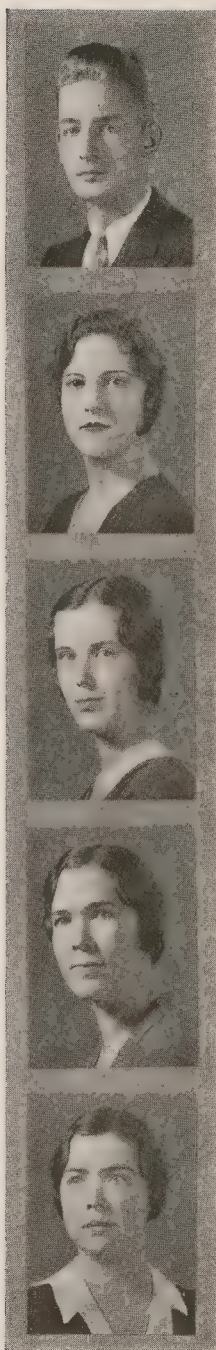

Our second year saw us hard at work but despite this we found time to plan and carry through several successful social affairs. These activities in addition to our school work kept us occupied and before we could quite realize it we were facing our last and most essential year.

Now, in the last year, despite the fact that we are attempting an intense program, we are enjoying those friendships which we cultivated in the two previous years with some indispensable additions among the instructors. We sincerely feel that these associations and contacts have benefited us greatly. To the pronounced tendency of the members of our class to move as a single body throughout the many oppositions which we have encountered belongs the lion's share of the credit for whatever success we may have achieved.

In closing, we wish to extend an expression of our appreciation to the school board and the faculty for the help which they have given us in our search for an education. We cannot but regret the cessation of our undergraduate work, but it is with anticipated pleasure that we turn to meet the new situations that await us.

AUBURN, FREDERIC A.

Fred

1007 St. Clair Ave., Mt. Healthy, Cincinnati, O.

Student Council, 1931; President Normal Credit Class, 1931.

An amateur magician of no small ability. He can tell you all about "de trick." A gentleman, a soldier and a scholar.

BANKS, HELEN E.

Helen

Sparrowbush, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1929-30.

A business-like young lady of firm convictions who dwells in the library. A little cross at times but she will always get along.

BARCLAY, MARION C.

Marion

230 Turner Ave., Henderson, N. C.

Glee Club, 1930; Paletteer Representative, 1931; Senior Dance Committee, 1932.

"I have a tall slim shadow that goes in and out with me." A low, well modulated voice and an even temperament, more or less.

BARRON, MARJORIE PRISCILLA

Marge

Lyme, N. H.

Class Vice-President, 1931; Class Hockey, 1931; Women's Club Representative, 1931; Student Council, 1932; Women's Club Hostess, 1932.

One of those quiet personalities that combine charm, ability and determination. Always near when we need help.

BRINSON, ISABEL TIFT

Isabel

Moultrie, Ga.

"Little Brinney"—another "Gaugia" peach. A staunch believer in the Defense Mechanism. But remember—Napoleon wasn't so big.

BRUCKER, EDNA MAY JOSEPHINE

Eddie

147 Oakview Ave., Maplewood, N. J.

Women's Club Representative, 1932.

Little Miss Edna May Josephine Brucker—interpretative danseuse par excellence. And can she admire the structure of a lily?

CANNING, JOHN L.

Killer

19 Charles St., Pittsfield, Mass.

Class Vice-President, 1931; Prattonia Representative, 1932.

The "Killer." He always gets his man with his rapid fire of wit. An untiring worker. He's our class master of ceremonies or what have you.

CARROLL, BEATRICE M.

Bea

1435 East 64th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Captain Volley Ball, 1930; Volley Ball, 1931; Hockey, 1931; Class President, 1931; Student Council, 1931.

"Good old Bea," who bears in mind the dignity of her calling, but nevertheless her bubbling mirth shows itself when you least expect it. Oh, that whistle!

CHURCH, GERTRUDE N.

Trudy

Landphere Pl., Uncasville, Conn.

Paletteers, 1931.

Any volunteers? "Trudy" is ever ready to attack something new and different—and she usually makes a success of it.

CIRRITO, ARLINE V.

Arline

238 Emerson Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1930.

One of the quiet members of the class. She is very retiring, modest and has the jump on all of us when it comes to public speaking.

DE PEW, MAUDE A.

Maudie

85-40 106th St., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1931.

With big brown eyes, classical features, and slender figure, Maudie stands out among us. She has a sense of humor and we hear she likes the boys!

DUFAULT, CLAIRE S.

Claire

254 Clermont Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A quiet efficient lassie who never seems to lack the "tools to work with." Where, or where does she find that vast supply of last year's work?

ELDERKIN, EVELYN

Eve

Parrsboro, Nova Scotia, Canada

Paletteers, 1931; Women's Club Hostess, 1932; Class Vice-President, 1932.

She is all set to revolutionize Canadian art. The staunchest "Blue nose" of them all—and so full of "Wim, Wigor and Witality!!!"

ENGLAND, ELIZABETH T.

Betty

87 Alexander Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1930; Prattonia Representative, 1932.

Cool, calm and well poised, she walks into a classroom with the whole world tucked under her arm (in her pocketbook).

ENGLANDER, WILLIAM H.

Bill

818 Ritter Pl., Bronx, N. Y.

Dramatic Club, 1932.

Our little director straight from Hollywood. Ask him about scenery and you'll "set" him off for an unlimited time.

FITZGERALD, MAE E.

Mae

51 Sigourney St., Hartford, Conn.

Glee Club, 1929.

Mae is just a little New England girl making her way in the big town. Good natured, quiet, a steady worker and inclined to giggling.

GRENIER, MARIE L.

Weezie

295 Hawthorne St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1929; Librarian, 1930; President, 1931.

A serious lady in her work yet possesses a rare humor. Marie is our costume designer par excellence when it comes to skirts, cows and plumbing.

GRIFFITHS, DOROTHY ELVA

Elva

369 Millburn Ave., Millburn, N. J.

We find her quite calm at times shattered by a charming indignation—a most pleasingly balanced and refreshing combination.

GUTBERLET, KARL AREN

Karl

1078 Townsend Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Artsmen Representative, 1931-32; Artsmen Swimming, 1931-32.

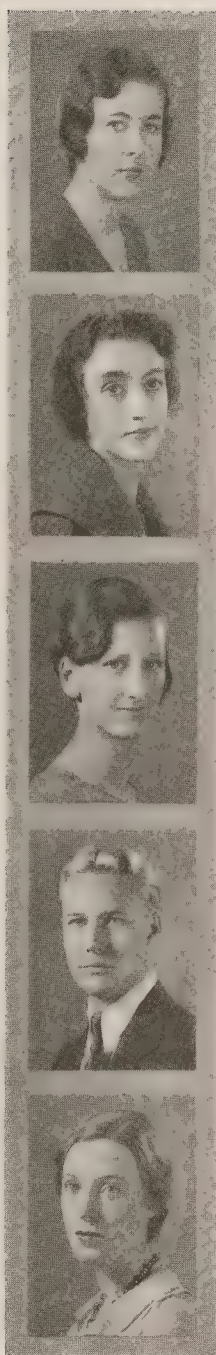

The class swimmer and water colorist. The boy with the silver voice. He has that true northern temperament and does he like the women! Uh.

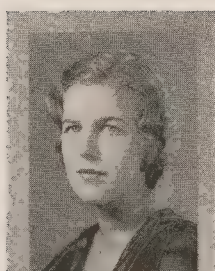

HALSTED, CONSTANCE L.

Connie

42 Hamilton Ave., Arlington, N. J.

She follows the usual red head traditions of sunny disposition and a hot temper. "Connie" intends to put the Navajos out of business with her pottery.

HAVECKER, WINIFRED

Winnie

8777-168th St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1930.

Dusky skin and gleaming teeth characterize our "Winnie." She takes an active interest in "Normal" graduates—one in particular! May all your troubles be little ones!

HAY, HELEN VIRGINIA

Ginya

10 Red Rd., Chatham, N. J.

Marionette Club, 1932.

When "Ginya" says, "I have a friend who—" we eagerly lend our ears to hear something quite out of the ordinary. Her individuality marks her as one apart.

HOPP, SVEA

Sve

104-37 193rd St., Hollis, L. I., N. Y.

Basketball, 1929; Volley Ball, 1930; Paletteer Representative, 1932; Prattonia Representative, 1931.

Our little Swedish sweetheart who does most 'serious school work. A sculptress in the making. She's particularly interested in architecture. Her rating is 100% in everything.

JAGOW, WILMA M.

Willie

542 Goodyear Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1930.

Beautiful slender Wilma with a genuine artistic temperament. Our contribution of beauty to the world. An expert technician and a good egg!

JOHNSTON, ELSTON E.

Professor

250 Warwick St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President, 1930; Student Council, 1930.

Smiling, jovial, "Johnny," the friend of all. Though he rides in Austins he nevertheless has an eye for the girls and a hand for pastels.

KEHRER, MARJORIEMarge*436 Park Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1932; Baseball, 1932; Senior Dance Committee, 1932.

Life is just one big party to her. "Joyous Marge" from the hills of Syracuse, a peppy girl we all enjoy and appreciate.

KUTKA, HELENBabe*35 Cedar Pl., Yonkers, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1932.

"Our lil' Czech," a true artist, our child genius, with a glorious sense of humor and a dynamic personality. She is bound to get her man!

LAMSON, HELEN ALDRICHHelen*Charleston, W. Va.

Marionette Club, 1932.

She absorbs her lessons, "Page after Page". You can see her change her mind by the change in her expression.

LIDDELL, ELIZABETH M.Betty*Morea, Pa.

"Betty" is a hard worker. Her frank expression of opinion has always been refreshing. Bud you'd better stick to teaching and forget engineering until June.

MALONE, JOHN F.Whataman*364-56th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President, 1932; Class Secretary-Treasurer, 1931.

Class burglar-buster and woman-hater? "Whataman" has that real Irish sense of humor and determination which makes everything he tackles a huge success. Have you seen his diary?

McEWEN, GRACE A.

Gracie

132 East 237th St., New York, N. Y.

Women's Club Representative, 1930-31.

We often wonder what "Gracie" is thinking about as she gazes absently at her still life. A strong personality and a horror of checking in.

MILNOR, JAMES WILSON

Mangler

374 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our class ideal, a true artist and clever craftsman. A real friend and our leader. If hard work and ability mean success, "Mangler" has nothing to fear.

MISHKIN, SILVIA MARIA

Sil

82 Clara St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hockey, 1931.

Sweet little "Sil" whose sunny disposition and constant smile has been a bright spot during our sojourn at Pratt. She is most business-like and efficient.

MOLNAR, PAUL PETER

Paul

135-50 Kew Gardens Rd., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

The sculptor from Richmond Hill, whose specialty is horses. Paul also has a pen and ink bug. He is his own severist critic, with a modesty which surpasses all measure.

NIELSON, ANN

Ann

55 Home Ave., Middletown, Conn.

Class President, 1931; Student Council, 1931.

Our fair Danish maiden. To see her is to love her and to know her is to love her more.

ORR, KENNETH

Kayo

10 Draper St., Oneonta, N. Y.

Varsity Basketball, 1932.

Famous for his athletic prowess and we must not forget that beautiful blush. Do we think he is the berries? Nay, the whole bush.

OSCHMANN, DOROTHY E.

Dot

482 Seventh St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1929; Captain, 1930; Hockey 1931-32; Paletteer Representative, 1931; Class Secretary, 1932.

An athlete commendable, a water colorist superb; what a wonderful combination to use in conquering the world. An attractive girl but her career is her chief concern.

SCHATTSCHEIDER, META

Schattsie

105 Tuscan Rd., Maplewood, N. J.

Paletteers, 1931.

Fairies are such nice little folk—they bring you such brilliant ideas! She has already hitched her wagon to a star and is trailing close behind.

SCHLOTHEUBER, ALMA M.

Alma

176-03 Croydon Rd., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

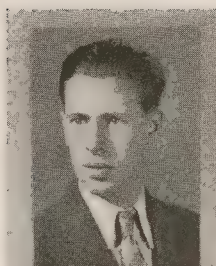

Flaxen hair, blue eyes, a few giggles and you have Alma. Extremely interested in the current affairs of Washington, D. C., but we wonder if they are of a political nature.

SHAW, ROYAL L.

Bud

467 New York Ave., Huntington, N. Y.

A right royal fellow—nonchalant without his Murad. Will she still be worrying about where to meet you after these days of toil are over?

SHELLEY, EVELYN

Evie

174 West 81st St., New York, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1931; Paletteer Representative, 1932; Volley Ball, 1932.

She has eyes of blue, blond hair, pretty, pert and peppy. A true example of athlete and scholar combined.

SIRCHIA, JOSEPHINE

Jerry

1065 71st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Jo Jo," sweet and obliging but always following her own convictions. Who can say "nay" to this energetic and spontaneous classmate? If she starts a thing it is bound to follow thru!

STAIR, HARRIET W.

Harriet

1169 Stratford Rd., Schenectady, N. Y.

"Who said jelly doughnuts?" Her droll wit is her outstanding quality; but we have learned that no generally means no.

STATLER, FRANCES

Fran

25 Stratford Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This smoldering fire, fed by individuality and dashing determination will some day burst into a flame the whole world will see.

STONE, DOROTHY CHRISTINE

Dot

Sheffield, Mass.

"As I live and breathe, it is only a drawing"—one of "Dot's" figures! How does she find time for both week-ending and drawing?

STORY, MARGARET ANTOINETTEMargot*535 Norwood Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

Marionette Club, 1931-32; Buffalo Club, 1930-31-32; Buffalo Club, Vice-President, 1932.

The girl who pulls the strings. We mean marionette strings. You could never call her a "story without words."

THOMAS, MARION LAURAMary Anne*68 Benson St., Glen Ridge, N. J.

Glee Club, 1930-31-32; Secretary, 1931; Volley Ball, 1930; Hockey, 1930.

A little shy and reserved but not without a few heart affairs. Attractive with a few freckles and a red gleam in her hair.

TRACY, DOROTHY V.Bunny*Route 6, Box 130, Jacksonville, Fla.

Basketball, 1930-31; Swimming, 1930-31-32; Hockey, 1930; Glee Club, 1930-31-32.

"Yas suh," "Bunny" is a breezy southwind, impetuous, generous, and gay. Talented not only in art but in aesthetic dancing as well.

UPSHAW, LOUISELouie*Dawson, Ga.

Baseball, 1931.

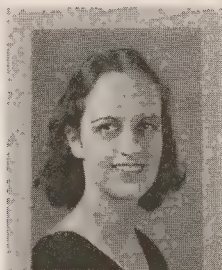

A wealth of merriment is hidden beneath her soft speech and underneath them both lies a certain romance we like to connect with the South.

VEDDER, DOROTHY M.Dot*46 Odegaarde Ave., Staten Island, N. Y.

Class Secretary-Treasurer, 1931.

She scintillates! She vibrates! Favorite indoor sport, —watching the corners of "Dottie's" mouth turn up or down.

WILSON, KAY

Kay

345 Mechanic St., Fitchburg, Mass.

Personality Plus! She is small in stature but more than full grown in brain power. A very busy girl—on Saturday nights.

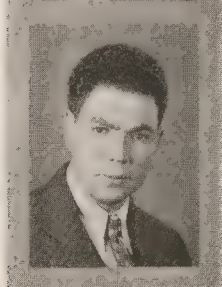

WOLFE, THELMA JEAN

Tell-me

626 Stinard Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

Marionette Club, 1930-31-32; Buffalo Club, 1932.
One reason why gentlemen don't prefer blondes.
A charming combination of ability and determination.
"Jeanie" possesses that unknown something that eludes us all.

WOLFE, WILLIAM

Bill

36 Derby St., Worcester, Mass.

Glee Club, 1932; Dramatic Club, 1932.
"Of science and logic he chatters
As fine and as fast as he can,
And tho' I'm no judge of such matters
I'm sure he's a talented man."

TEACHER TRAINING A — 1933

THERE we were assembled, hesitantly, on the crest of the second year wave—some of us old—some of us new. Those of us who were new, were soon to discover the phantom that had led the old ones on to such great achievements—Pratt spirit. We were to find it was a phantom character that hovered anywhere within the walls of Pratt. We found it in the instructors, who were always willing to lend us a helping hand. We found it in the maids, though having the most strenuous work of all, were forever ready to greet us with a happy "good morning". We found it in that amazingly popular young man who controlled the elevator. And last of all we found it in ourselves—in our willingness to work and to reach for the highest of goals.

How comforting it was to return to old friends, and to argue over who wrote the last letter, to return to Jimmie's favorite "fo'", and to become thoroughly acquainted with Miss Casey's thirty-page assignments in Psychology.

Around the early part of the year, some of us entered in the mornings, with long faces, usually signifying that we hadn't completed the day's assignments. Whether we meant to remain gloomy about it, is still a puzzle; but how could we when that famous smile of our class president flashed before our eyes. As we learned to expect it, and to be cheerful in advance, we sometimes wondered what miracle could have kept the spirit of our class from snapping had it not been for "Herb's" smile.

We were a happy and industrious group, even though, occasionally, some of our instructors were inclined to believe the opposite. They soon had to admit, however, that we really were good, after we displayed some of our great talent.

It has been another year, but in that year, innumerable friendships have grown and many happy thoughts of the good times had were filed in that little compartment in the rear of our brains, especially adapted to inclose the pleasant memories of Pratt, forever!

THE NEW JOKE

I invent a brand-new joke,
Try it first on pa;
See him laugh until he cries,

Ha! Ha! Ha!

Try it next on Uncle Ned;
Dislocates his jaw,
Busts the buttons off his vest,

Haw! Haw! Haw!

Spring it then on sister Nell;
Claps her hands with glee,
Giggles till her face is red,

Te! he! he!

Send it to the editor
That arch-villain, who Stamps it "99 B. C.,"

Boo! hoo! hoo!

F. T. EASTON

TEACHER TRAINING B-1934

ANTICIPATION, realization, memory. Man has differed throughout the centuries as to which is the greatest of these three states of mind. There is no doubt in the minds of the second year Teacher Training students, for each of these three degrees of attainment are equally fruitful and worthwhile to us.

Every Freshman desires the station which is his when he becomes a Junior. We all have an earnest purpose in life and hope to use our influence for good in this world. The class has made a particular effort to derive benefit from every contact and opportunity that we have had, so as to strengthen our characters and personality, and to attain that which will not only make us successful in the professional world as teachers, but make us worthy of the honor which is ours when we go forth as graduate students of Pratt Institute.

There has been marked improvement in the class work and we have progressed with much enthusiasm and zeal. Our instructors are as fine as are obtainable and we have benefited greatly from our contact with learned people.

There is no doubt as to our leadership in many of the school activities. Our class is well represented in athletics and several of our members are outstanding stars particularly in basketball, swimming and fencing.

From our store of memories we can recall the friendships, defeats, victories, the fall dance, the trip to West Point, the Christmas party and celebration, and many other occasions both pleasant and unpleasant.

Through fellowship and cooperation we are sure that, within the minds of every student of the Teacher Training class of 1933, there will live forever the keen enjoyment of a task well done.

SCHOOL OF HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE AND ARTS

THE founder, Charles Pratt, specified in the charter of the Institute that the work of the School of Household Science and Arts should center around food, clothing and homemaking. He knew full well the necessity at all times of a thorough understanding of the fundamentals of living. Whereas the approach, technique and processes might and would differ as the years went by, yet the fundamentals would always remain. His vision was prophetic, for the School of Household Science and Arts is functioning today along these same lines; and the need of this work is far greater today than when the Institute was founded, for during this time the whole economic, social and political status of women has changed.

While it is true that the approach, technique, and processes have changed with the years, we find the emphasis today is for specific training along the definite lines of dietitians, cafeteria and tea room managers, costume designers and dressmakers, as well as along the general lines of homemaking. Through all the years, the function of this School has been to present a balanced, intensive program of head, heart and hand—a plan which differentiates Pratt Institute from all other institutions—whereby the students absorb the ideals that should make all education worth while. By means of the intensive courses a thorough, practical training is obtained in half the time of the usual college course, and the earning power is equally enhanced.

COSTUME DESIGN—1932

TWO years have passed since first we came,
An eager group new to the game.
The climb up the hill was made with a will.
And we still struggle on with our hopes for fame.

Our Junior year was an industrious one,
But in spite of this we had moments of fun.
For our fashion show we did sew and sew
And had time for a dance when this was done.

The Senior year was busier still,
Since for more fashion shows we used our skill.
Extra duties we plied with Miss Bouslogue as guide,

As we were rigidly trained good positions to fill.

All social activities we enjoyed to the utmost.
The Artisans Club to good times was a host.
Our athletic ability was not a futility;
In fact there is much of which we could boast.

As we look back at our work year by year
We see the wise course our superiors 'did steer:
They'd lend a helping hand whene'er we'd demand
And for all this kind interest our thanks are sincere.

CASSARO, IDA J.

Ida

893-5 Pavonia Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Second of the "famous four,"
Ida Cassaro, a girl who'll score.
Her eyes, snapping and black will take you aback
Making you wish to see her some more.

COONEY, MARION R.

Marion

Maple Ave., West Stockbridge, Mass.

Class Treasurer, 1931.
If you want to fool and pun
Go to Marion and have some fun.
A wonderful sport but don't get caught
For she's a clever kidder, if there's one.

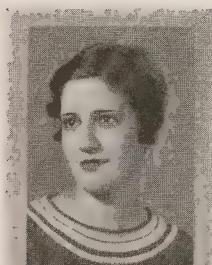

FINKELSTEIN, MARIAN

Marian

31 Kipling St., Providence, R. I.

Miss Marian Finkelstein sews and sews.
When she eats lunch no one ever knows.
She works every noon with Matilda, and soon
Her pieces of jersey are beautiful clothes.

FISCHETTI, ANNE

Anne

Box 64, Highland, N. J.

Volley Ball, 1931.

Of the "famous four" is stunning Anne,
Who won first prize when the contest ran
Snappy clothes from head to toes,
Surpass her in style, if you can.

FRINSTEIN, MATILDA

Frinny

1814 East 17th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Another girl who loves to sew,
A friend of Miss Finkelstein, (Marian you know).
Her drawings are keen and talent is seen
When she's draping the best lines to show.

GEE, MARION E.

Marion

92 Sea Cliff Ave., Sea Cliff, L. I., N. Y.

Class President, 1931-32.

And here is Madame President
Of Sea Cliff a resident.
She's capable and smart; works with all her heart.
That she'll be a success is evident.

GERSCH, ELSA

Elsa

South Swansea, Mass.

Class Treasurer, 1932; Hockey, 1931; Puppet Club, 1932.

Elsa's the girl who takes our money,
We have so little, it isn't funny.
Despite this fact we don't have to act
When we tell you Elsa's really a honey.

GOLDSTEIN, JANE

Janie

1679 Eastburn Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

Patient, thoughtful, helpful, true,
A friend to me, a friend to you.
She wields a racket—the ball—can she whack it!
She has a sense of humor, too.

GRILL, VIRGINIA M.

Gin

1922 East 24th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

President Home Economics Club, 1932.
Here's our favorite brand of "Gin"
With dark bobbed hair and lovely skin.
She's always joking and laughter provoking
When deploring her sketches which she thinks are a sin.

GUARNERI, ANNA R.

Ann

8515 Bay 16th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hockey, 1931; Artisans Treasurer, 1932.
Anna's the last of the "famous four"
Her laugh we'll remember evermore.
She likes to make candy which may come in handy
When someone knocks upon her door.

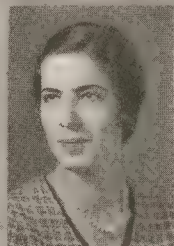

HAYES, PHYLLIS J.

Phyl

1640 Penn Ave., Scranton, Pa.

Class Secretary, 1931-32; Baseball, 1931; Glee Club, 1931.

Regard our friend "Phyl" Hayes
Who's learned how fine work pays.
She's seen at most dances, to ballgames she prances.
For her we've nothing but praise.

HILLEGAS, CATHARINE

Cay

209 Williams St., Ithaca, N. Y.

Here is a newcomer to our fold
Late comers lag as a rule, we're told
But "Cay" is speedy, by no means weedy.
Her future shines brighter than gold.

HLADKY, LUBA

Lu

92 Clendenny Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Artisans Publicity Chairman, 1932.
Luba excels in most of her classes,
With peasant cross stitch, her spare time passes.
Her needlework's fine, her voice divine.
Oh, Luba, you're the envy of masses.

JOHNSON, INEZ M.

Nez

62 I St. N. E., Washington, D. C.

Baseball, 1931; Volley Ball, 1931.

"Wait a minute," she says with a grin,

"Why hurry through life? Going slow is not a sin."

"Nezzy" thought that before entering Pratt.

Success is hers and always has been.

LA ROCCA, JULIA

Judy

109 Main St., Millburn, N. J.

Athletic Representative, 1932; Glee Club, 1930-31; Captain Hockey, 1930; Artisans Social Committee, 1932.

Look at that baseball sail away!

"Judy" musta' hit it, that's all I can say.

Represents us in sports, a winner on courts.

How she makes her opponents pray!

MAIFARTH, HELEN R.

Helen

20 Offord St., Passaic, N. J.

Secretary Home Economics Club, 1932.

Look at those devilish blue gray eyes.

Yes, you are right to surmise

She's an awful tease. But like her, please,

For she's cute and snappy and very wise.

MATHERON, ALMA M.

Alma

Centennial Ave., Baldwin, L. I., N. Y.

Hockey, 1930.

"Little George Washington" named by Miss Zick,

That quaint appellation gave us a kick.

Important to us, for with little fuss

She gives us needles—adorable chick.

MILLER, RUTH E.

Ruth

102 Park Ave., Madison, N. J.

A buddy to Alma is amiable Ruth,

A buddy to all to tell the truth.

Ready to help without a yelp,

Good natured, popular—would say any sooth.

MURPHY, KATHARINE

Kay

2308 19th St., Washington, D. C.

Artisans Vice-President, 1931; President, 1932.
Introducing sophisticated "Kay,"
A tall brunette with a witty way.
The class she amuses, with a laughter infuses
By her antics when simplest things she does say.

NICOLSON, ELEANOR B.

Nic

410 Riverside Ave., Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Who's this girl popping in our room,
Gazing through the window, face all abloom?
It's "Nic," not a hick.
Shes' looking at someone. Didst hear her heart boom?

PROSSER, JULIA

Judy

1286 N. Bever St., Wooster, Ohio

Glee Club, 1931.
Here's a girl who runs things well
Dandy sport and always looks swell,
Sings in class and when slams pass
Sings louder and funnier than tongue can tell.

SCHEER, REBECCA

Rebecca

4502 Maine Ave., Baltimore, Md.

Rebecca Scheer raves and raves
Of Russian jewelry which she craves.
A conscientious worker, she's never a shirker
The road to success now at Pratt she paves.

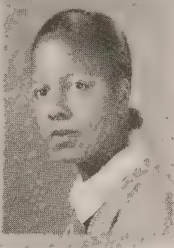

SMITH, DOROTHY F.

Dot

R. D. 2, Box 42, Marshall, Va.

Nice looking, stylish in every way,
Helpful and goodnatured every day.
We all think she's nice, with nary a vice
Hard working, ambitious—what more's there to say?

STEVENS, ELIZABETH M.

Betty

45 Temple St., Avon, N. Y.

Representative Home Economics Club, 1932; Glee Club, 1932.

"Betty" Stevens walks in the park
Ev'ry noon and just before dark.
Likes basketball games and toward the pool aims
Because, as a swimmer she's a reg'lar shark.

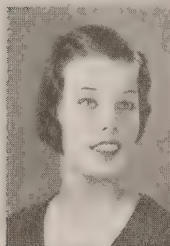

TURNER, ELLEN M.

EI

R. R. 5, Box 9, Xenia, Ohio

Baseball, 1931; Volley Ball, 1931.

Ellen, to her work is true
Always helps us when she's through.
A fine example, of Pratt's best sample.
She's fond of sewing and drawing, too.

VAN HOUTEN, MARY LOU

Lou

692 Prospect St., Maplewood, N. J.

Class Vice-President, 1932.

Popular with all is Mary Lou
Clever girl, elocutionist, too.
Loves to recite and her pieces are bright.
They're cute and clever and very new.

ZARRO, JOSEPHINE A.

Jo

2735 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's Club Representative, 1931-32; Glee Club, 1932.

Raven haired, likeable "Jo"
Contagious laughter oft' does flow.
"You goofs," she cries as her hand toward us flies
A characteristic gesture, we've learned to know.

COSTUME DESIGN—1933

THE co-operative spirit of the members of our class in putting the social activities of our junior year across, in spite of the seemingly unsurmountable obstacles, clearly shows how we were able to turn what appeared to be, at the beginning of the year, a great class failure into a success. It would be difficult to record accurately all the events of this year; but possibly some of the suggestions that appear here may recall and establish more firmly in our minds, in years to come, the memories of our life at Pratt Institute.

On September 14th, 1931, we began our career as Juniors. Probably the most eventful part of our Junior year was that first day of school. The memories of that day are still fresh in our minds. It marked the beginning of a new era in our lives—a complete breaking away from anything we had hitherto been accustomed. The class was organized early in the year, and class elections were held.

Together with the Dressmakers, our class gave a dance on November 21st. The decorations were in accordance with the Thanksgiving holiday spirit, and it was considered a huge success.

A great amount of interest in athletic activities was shown by many members of the class.

Some of our girls assisted the seniors at the Abraham-Strauss Fashion show by acting as mannequins. We know that many of our class will enter the Wanamaker Fashion show. In past years it has been a great success, and we hope to fulfill the traditions.

DRESSMAKING — 1932

When the mists of time begin
To veil the class of '32,
This little book may then begin to dispel
The shadow with its glowing hue.

When the encroaching years have come
To dim our one time joys with care,
This little book may build again
Our pleasant castles in the air.

Even those, who are constantly sighing for the good old days, must admit that the clothes of today are those of beauty and practicality, a distinct improvement upon those worn in the last century.

With great expectations we began our course. We had the best of instructors, and couldn't help but appreciate the interest they have shown and the efforts they made to develop us, not only into professionals, but into interesting and cultured people. Now we can go out into the world with a feeling of certainty and equality.

Then the club—it's like having another home of your own, you simply walk in, act and feel as you please. You may drop in after class for tea and really have a jolly time.

Toward the end of our school year, our classes always join in the Fashion Show. Everybody is kept in suspense, not knowing which one will be the winner. The results are always most gratifying.

As the years go by, we shall sit by the fireside, look into the fire and dream of the days gone by—the days at Pratt.

The mists perhaps have lifted now
The shadows covered with the dew.
We hope this little book has now
Unveiled the class of '32.

Thrust back the crowding years
Back to the time there was no care.
We hope this little book has helped
To build again our castles in the air.

CLASS OFFICERS

IRENE B. NAMMACK, President

HARRIET E. PORTER, Secretary

MURIEL R. CANTWELL, Vice-President

BETTY FEDAK, Treasurer

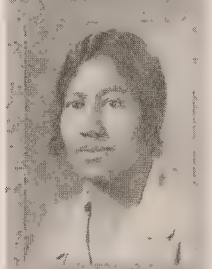

BEEBE, IVA W.

Ima Boobie

Cutchogue, L. I., N. Y.

One of those very unique mortals who absolutely refuses to put off for tomorrow what can be done today. Take a lesson from "Ima Boobie" on how it's done.

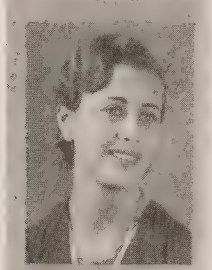

BRIMMER, KATHRYN E.

Kitty

112-22 Euclid St., Forest Hills, L. I., N. Y.

A quiet and reserved little girl with a disposition that is a rarity. She's always in good spirits, always ready with a friendly smile. "Kitty" is considered to be one of our foremost students.

BRINKLEY, NAOMI C.

Naomi

219 Monatana St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Naomi is known to us as a most obliging, quiet person with an unassuming air. Her many good friends are an assurance of her qualities of faithfulness and friendly spirit.

CANTWELL, MURIEL R.

Moo

2318 Newkirk Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1932.

She lives up to her convictions and we admire her for it, but we like her for herself. She's a person who hides an understanding nature and a golden heart under a temperamental exterior.

CLARK, ESTHER E.

Essie

5560 Ludlow St., W. Philadelphia, Pa.

This is little Esther Clark,
Who keeps a certain corner in our room
Quite alive, like a talking lark
Who never knows the meaning of gloom.

COLEGROVE, HARRIET J.

Harriet

Diamond Field Park, Cos Cob, Conn.

Harriet is one of the kind of people who is very systematic and her work shows it. In spite of her perfection, she's a real good sport.

DARE, LYDIA H.

Lyd

1583 West 4th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Representative Woman's Club, 1932.

Here's to a great friend and pal. She's good natured and willing to do things to make matters easier and under her pen ordinary words take an added significance and blaze forth in glory.

DAVIS, DEBORAH O.

Deb

1254 27th St., Newport News, Va.

A generous disposition envied by all. Whooping-ly inconsistent, she is with us. There is thought, wit, and human kindness here.

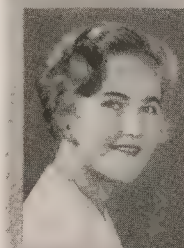

DeROY, ELEANOR G.

Derry

90-60 179th Place, Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Eleanor is truly the "lady" of the class. We often wonder what she says to herself every time she has to rip out some seams?

EVERETT, VIRGINIA H.

Ginny

34 South St., Ridgefield Park, N. J.

"Ginny", with a little imp of mischief lurking in each eye, is always ready for whatever may turn up. She's a likely girl, full of fun, enjoys good company—especially one.

FEDAK, ELIZABETH

Betty

336 Prescott St., Yonkers, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1932.

Success seems inevitable for this popular young lady. "Betty" will develop into one of those sophisticates, carrying off the latest style in clothes to a "T".

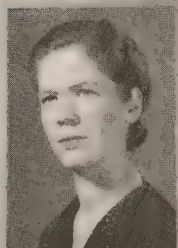

FIORINO, JENNIE J.

Jo

182 Stockton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A real sport, jolly, full of fun, ready at any time for a chance to laugh. Beneath that happy-go-lucky demeanor, lies a determination to succeed.

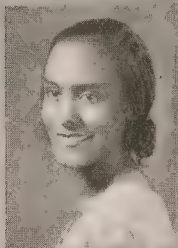

FOOTE, FRANCES K.

Frances

Hobart, N. Y.

A charming personality, a warm smile for everyone, has that happy and carefree way about her. She hails from Hobart and often counts the days until she can go back.

FRANKLIN, MARJORIE H.

Marj

370 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Her great interest is always displayed
And her gallant spirit is never frayed,
Her disposition bright as the sun
Radiates to everyone.

GALLO, LUCY R.

Lulu

1137 Blake Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A disposition sweet and kind—from her we always borrow
And if things don't go so smooth today, there's always a tomorrow.
We predict that this classmate will go far in her
dressmaking.

GALLO, MARY G.

Mary

837 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mary, Mary quite contrary
Oh how your dresses do grow
With needle, thread and scissors
You're a dressmaker, everyone must know.

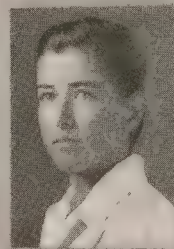

GORHAM, GRACE

Grec

Hamilton, Bermuda

Athletic Representative, 1932.

Grace is our representative from Bermuda. Her sweet accent makes us all very willing to listen to her continuous prattle. Don't forget your classmates of Pratt when you go back.

HAAS, MARY T.

Blondie

41 Broad St., Perth Amboy, N. J.

Mary is one of the quiet kind, but between snatches we've learned something about a mysterious boyfriend—the evident reason for the lapses into dreamland.

HARGROVE, EMMA V.

Em

Henderson, N. C.

Better known as "Em".

Quiet, patient, refined, and cultured are the words describing Emma. She works with a will that sends a thrill to one who watches.

HARPER, MAMIE V.

Mamie

5 West 132nd St., New York, N. Y.

H stands for a heart of pure gold
A stands for a definite aim
R stands for rules which are obeyed
P stands for pursuit
E stands for endurance to the end
R stands for right and right she is.

HERMANN, MIRIAM F.

Mickie

249 East 37th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

She possesses that individual sophistication and independent spirit. We all sincerely hope that "Mickie" will saunter through life, and its problems, as smoothly and successfully as she did at Pratt.

HOBAN, GLADYS B.

Gladys

76 Halladay Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Personality plus, a cheerful smile, a pair of bright eyes and fully "57 Varieties" of clothes, makes Gladys' sum total:—Liked by everybody, from Jimmie "up".

JAROS, BABETTE

Betty

179 Linden Blvd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

When that daily letter from Ohio doesn't show up, "Betty" thinks that Uncle Sam has stopped the mail service. Looks as if Walter will have his socks, etc., mended.

KEMLER, GERTRUDE

Gert

654 George St., New Haven, Conn.

The personification of pep, vim and vigor; Determination plus. She has that "Pepsodent Smile" and "School Girl Complexion". Misfortune may come but "Gert" smiles just the same.

MASTRANGELO, AMELIA D.

Millie

6920 Ft. Hamilton Pkwy., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Just a little bundle of fun and happiness. What would we do without her optimistic and merry laugh. Seems to be continually flitting here and there, yet she accomplishes so much. What a lucky girl to have such fine qualities.

MULLEN, MARGARET M.

Peggie

369 Lenox Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

What is that buzz over at the corner of the fitting room? Why that's only our "Peggie" and her pals having a so-called tea party. "Peggie's" a fine friend.

NAMMACK, IRENE B.

Rene

1153 51st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President, 1932.

Irene is so necessary to us. She's a true blue friend with an irresistible personality, counterbalanced with a bountiful supply of capability and intelligence.

PAGAN, CARMEN M.

Carmen

111 East 96th St., New York, N. Y.

Carmen is one of our quiet, conscientious classmates, but we must recall that old maxim about silence being golden. We know she'll succeed in whatever she attempts.

PIERCE, MARIE E.

Piercy

924 Post Rd., Scarsdale, N. Y.

An unusual girl, temperamental, artistic and a possessor of a keen sense of humor. Marie is said to be fond of walking, but we don't know whether it's alone or with someone.

PORTER, HARRIET E.

Patsy

R. D. 1, Liberty, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1932.

A giggle here and a giggle there, pray, who is raising all this commotion? Why, of course, it's no one else but "Patsy", telling us about "Bows and Beaux".

PUSEY, MARGARET E.

Peg

R. D. 1, Kennett Square, Pa.

Oh, what a giggle! "Peg" can hit every note in the scale with it, and by the time she reaches high "C", everyone else has joined with her.

QUINTIERE, MAFALDA

Muffet

32 Passaic St., Patterson, N. J.

Little dabs of powder
Little dabs of paint
Make this little lady
Look like what she "ain't".

RADTKE, BLANCHE I.

Sugar

64 S. Prospect Ave., Hackensack, N. J.

A tall sprightly damsel, with an unlimitable supply of pep, attractiveness, and ability, noted for her sparkling eyes and curly hair. Perfect picture?

ROST, MARGARET C.

Margaret

14 Cottage Ave., Milltown, N. J.

"For a sunny disposition
And a warm heart, beating true
For a smile that's ever ready
Or a cheering word or two."
The above verse gives everything in a nutshell.

RUTHIG, EVELYN B.

Ruthie

9410 85th Ave., Woodhaven, N. Y.

When they bawl her out for cutting, "Ruthie" wants to know how they get that way. She claims that "Johnny on the job" is her middle "moniker".

SAMPLE, GERTRUDE H.

Girdie

Potter Ave., Long Branch, N. J.

The best of goods comes in samples and the same may be said of "Girdie", who works with a right good will.

SEKULA, AGNES

Agnes

290 Paxton St., Paterson, N. J.

A constantly worried person. No one knows why. She is always working and fretting over something. Some day we may get the inside story.

SILVER, ROSALYNE H.

Rozzie

25 Hotchkiss St., New Haven, Conn.

Another one of our "gigglers"! Her unfailing sense of humor could brighten even Friday the 13th. And those boyfriends—but she doesn't care about any of them,—oh me!

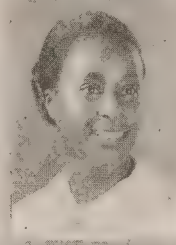

SMITH, BERNICE

Smiles

6118 Aberdeen St., Chicago, Ill.

She slept and dreamed that life was beauty but when she awoke she found that life was duty. Wherever you find Bernice, you will find great merriment.

SORENSEN, MARGRETE E.

Margrete

111-34 125th St., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

Many a time we wished we knew what Margrete was saying to Martine in Swedish. I'll bet they've talked us all over. Margrete is a good worker and deserves the best success.

SORENSEN, MARTINE A.

Martine

111-34 125th St., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

Martine is a quiet, congenial, unassuming and serious minded type of dressmaker of strong character. The fine samples of her work here spell an inevitable success for her future.

SPURGA, GENEVIEVE E.

Gen

Port Jefferson, L. I., N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1932.

S is for the good sport that "Gen" always is

P is for her patience that is never amiss

U is for the unique charm that captures us all

R is for the readiness that saved us many a fall

G is for the graciousness she always imparts

A is for the athlete she is at heart.

TOMPKINS, FLORA M.

Flip-Flop

86 Prospect Park W., Brooklyn, N. Y.

When in doubt ask Flora. Her numerous scrap books are a never ending source of interest to us all. We have no doubt but that Flora will become one of the famous Mme. X dressmakers.

TRUSTY, IRENE R.

Rebecca

933 West 3rd St., Plainfield, N. J.

"Rebecca" is quiet and unassuming, but so is a stick of dynamite. However, "Rebecca's" silence is cast aside at times when she is with her intimates. Her hard work spells success.

UNDERHILL, HELEN L.

Sue

179 Ledgeside Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

Helen has an advantage over most of her classmates because the stars have told her what's in store for her—a private dressmaker in a home built for two.

WALKER, ELEANOR H.

Eleanor

R. D. 1, Bolling Green Rd., Richmond, Va.

This little lady coming from Richmond, has that captivating southern drawl and languid manner, yet she is very speedy in her class work. A gentle disposition and friendliness, make her well liked by her classmates and instructors.

WEST, MARY O.

Mary

Middle Rd., Bayport, N. Y.

Representative Home Economics Club, 1932.

Mary is one of Pratt's hardest working girls. She's always willing to lend a hand. Her disposition is so cheerful that hard knocks mean nothing to her.

WILSON, GLADYS C.

Gladys

11 West 117th St., New York, N. Y.

Stitch, stitch, stitch! Even on old and gray material she makes beautiful things which are then sold, to not only the old, but also to the young.

WOOD, MARJORIE L.

Margie

147 Littleworth Lane, Sea Cliff, L. I., N. Y.

Little "Margie" Wood, never understood.
When she left Sea Cliff she was shy,
But alas! and alack
When she left Pratt
She had a wicked little twinkle in her eye.

IT WAS

He seized her in the dark and kissed her,
And for a moment bliss was his;
"Oh, my! I thought it was my sister!"
He cried. She laughed and said, "It is."

YALE RECORD

HOMEMAKING — 1932

HOMEMAKING being a one-year course, our history dates back only to the Fall of 1931 and, because of the limited period of our existence, we had less opportunity to make history than did some of the other classes.

Inasmuch as we are Homemakers, frivolities has no place in our career. Domestically inclined, our class activities naturally were along practical rather than social lines.

As a part of our course we made group excursions to many places of interest, including Metropolitan Museum of Art, Herald-Tribune Institute, New York Edison Company, Brooklyn Museum, New Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and Whitney Studio Galleries. These trips were not only instructive but enjoyable as well.

Despite the fact that our daily school sessions were limited, the members of the Homemaking class were thrown together sufficiently to form many valued friendships. Some of the friendships are destined to continue, as certain members of the class have registered for other courses at Pratt next year.

CLASS OFFICERS

DORIS LEE, President

RUTH LUNNING, Vice-President

HELEN SMITH, Secretary

ALICE FARLEY, Treasurer

ANDREW, ISABEL WALLACE

Isabel

163 Hancock St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Never idle a minute."

Her cheery chatter is heard in every nook and corner but her work is never neglected. She is always as busy as the proverbial bee.

ANDREW, MARY MARSHALL

Mary

163 Hancock St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Cute and little—mostly both."

She may be the tiniest member of the class, but her stature does not measure her sweetness or her smile, which is as broad as her circle of friends.

BATCHIS, MARION

Marion

2215 Newkirk Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President, 1931.

"No matter what she does, she does well."

Marion's pleasing personality insured her election as Class President and she upheld the honor of the office with dignity and efficiency.

CLARK, RUTH WHITNEY

Buddy

571A 16th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Mild, sweet and quiet."

Another proof that silence is golden. When she speaks it is with words of wisdom and not idle chatter. Would that we could have more of Ruth.

DAY, MARY LOU

Mary Lou

153 Cambridge Ave., Englewood, N. J.

Prattonia Representative, 1932.

"Blest with a temper whose unclouded ray can make tomorrow cheerful as today."

Mary Lou is quiet but her presence is felt and were her absence long 'twould be felt keenly by all and especially one.

EAKINS, JANET

Jan

666 E. 19th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Home Economics Club Representative, 1932.

"Known by all and liked."

Janet is the tallest in the class and there is wit and humor in every inch of her height. We all look up to Janet.

FARLEY, ALICE P.

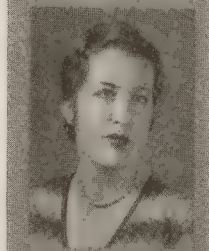

Al

1377 Carroll St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1932.

"She's got a pair of eyes 'n everything."

The great pyscho-analyst of the class. She reads your thoughts and tells you what she thinks. Let the chips fall where they may.

FYFE, JANE F.

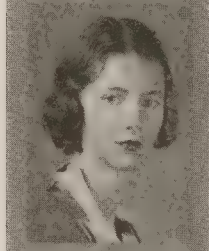

Janie

548 4th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1931.

"She enters into all things with zeal and zest."

Can be serious when occasion demands. Has a smile that would win the right of way for that green roadster in any situation.

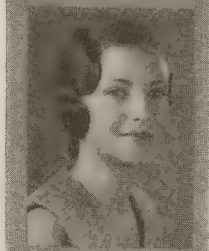

HALLAM, MURIEL GRACE

Muriel

1296 Pacific St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"She's neither shy nor bold, she's just a girl as good as gold."

Industrious in the extreme. Does her work thoroughly and quickly. Her laughter is infectious and echoes through the halls of Pratt.

HART, ETHEL MARIE

Billy

2511 Newkirk Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The joy of youth and health her eyes displayed."

One of our prospective brides and the lucky man is to be congratulated because who gets her, gets a peach.

LEE, DORIS CAROL

Doris

246 Rugby Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1931; Class President, 1932.
"A right merry maid, sincerely true, and a good sport withal."

Doris can be serious or otherwise as the occasion may require. Whatever the mood, she enters its spirit heartily.

LUNNING, RUTH HEDEVING J.

Ruthie

137 Riverside Dr., New York, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1932.

"A friendly heart with many friends."

A good wholesome personality. Denmark's loss was America's gain. Her natural wit and humor has made for her a host of friends.

MATSUMAGA, FUMIKO

Fumy

North Branch, N. J.

"The better you know her the better you will like her."

A sunny disposition and everything that goes with it. "Fumy" is very popular with everyone.

OLMSTEAD, ELIZABETH ALDEN

Betty

1844 Main St., East Hartford, Conn.

"Those of few words are the best."

Her heart and soul are in her work and she is one of the most diligent members of the class.

SCHELLING, ELIZABETH E.

Elsie

Pequeannock, N. J.

Woman's Club Representative, 1932.

"A smile for all, a greeting glad, an amiable jolly way she has."

Has a weakness for visiting museums and browsing among books. However she is not "bookish" but a jolly good fellow.

SMITH, HELEN RUTH

Babe

178 Liberty Rd., Englewood, N. J.

Class Secretary, 1932.

"A sight to delight in."

Her size is small but not her ability to do things.
She performs every task promptly and neatly, and with energy to spare.

THE BRAWNY S&T MAN. JUST A GREAT BIG JOLLY PLAY-BOY. CHEWS PLUG-CUT AND RIPS OUT SUCH EPITHETS AS "GOSH-DARN" AND "GEE-WHIZ". EATS ARTSMEN AND IS 100% HARD! NOTE THE KNOT HE'S TIED IN THE LAMPOST.

TYPICAL

THE AMBITIOUS H.S.&A. STUDENT. BELIEVES THAT MEN PREFER THE SENSIBLE TYPE. WILL ENCOURAGE A RESPECTFUL ADVANCE PROVIDING HE LOOKS RESPECTABLE AND HAS NICE WHITE TEETH. NEVER LOSES HOPE UNTIL GRADUATION DAY.

THE BEAUTIFUL ART CO-ED. SUBTLY ALLURING AND AN ADEPT AT GAY DEPARTÉE. AT THE FIRST SIGN OF A BROKEN HEART WILL WHISPER THAT SHE'LL ALWAYS BE A SISTER TO YOU. KEEPS A SECRET DIARY THAT SHE'LL SHOW TO HER GRANDCHILDREN.

YPES

THE BLASE ARTSMAN. HAS EXPERIENCED LIVES THRILLS AND IS BORED NO END. LIVES FOR HIS IDEALS AND IS QUIETLY WAITING FOR THE HOUR WHEN THIS MODERN STUFF GOES BY THE BOARD AND THE WORLD OF ART CALLS FOR A NEW LEADER!

INSTITUTIONAL MANAGEMENT — 1932

○ N September the fourteenth, nineteen hundred and thirty-one, we entered Pratt to have nothing less than an arithmetic exam thrust upon us. After that we had just time enough to catch our breath, when we were hurried into room twenty, where Miss Condit explained to us the art of taking an Intelligence Test. Much to our amazement we all came through with flying colors.

Soon we found ourselves in all sorts of amazing classes such as Laundry and Serving. We were not exactly sure whether we would have to stand over wash tubs or not, but fortunately Mrs. Arundel relieved us of any suspicions we might have had. One section of our class entered the cafeteria immediately and they described their experiences in terms that make the labyrinth seem like Main Street.

The faculty was a great help in overcoming that strange feeling one has upon entering a new school. They made us most welcome and succeeded in giving us a feeling of importance which, at a time like that, is most helpful. Next in our social schedule came the many dinners which we were privileged to cook and serve for various classes and Prattonia representatives. At times these dinners seemed rather hard, particularly after a long day of lectures and "lab" work but, when we stopped to consider it from a purely selfish standpoint, we were all willing to chalk them up as just some more of those wide experiences one goes through so that we are better fitted for those positions, which we are all hoping to obtain.

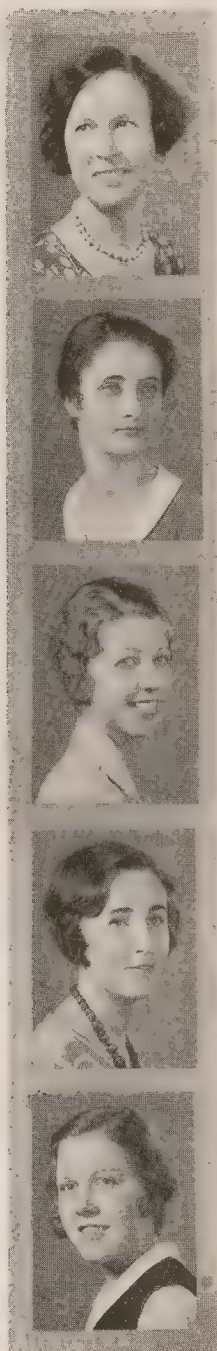

On the other hand we have been most enthusiastic about Basketball and been fortunate enough to have several good players in our class. There is not a doubt but we would have played a great many more games if it had not been for the very discouraging fact that we did not have time.

We are also patting ourselves on the back because we have succeeded in establishing a regular Institutional Management pin which each girl may have upon being graduated. Twenty of us are looking forward to receiving these in February when we will leave Pratt to seek our fortunes as managers. The rest of us are waiting for the day when we too shall go out into the world where we will try to make good, in order to repay Pratt for all it has done for us.

CLASS OFFICERS

MARGARET R. RUCKER, President
PAULINE H. NELSON, Vice-Pres.

RUTH A. SHARP, Secretary
ELSIE M. RAMSEY, Treasurer

ALLEN, IVA P.

Iva

62 New York Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Always agreeable with an almost unbelievable good disposition. She is always willing to lend a helping hand and you know what that means, particularly in the Tea Room.

ANDREWS, ELLA

Lee

507-6th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Home Economics Club Representative, 1932; Basketball, 1932.

What would we do without "Andy" to make all our baskets? She is some "forward" and has a grand disposition to boot.

BARTHOLOMEW, ELIZABETH A.

Betty

35 Clark St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1932; Basketball, 1932.

"Betty" is one of the most popular members of our class. Her keen sense of value and balance plus her cheerful disposition will always be an asset to her in the business or social world.

BENSON, MARY W.

Mary

23 Fairview Ter., White River Junction, Vt.

She would do anything to help anyone and we certainly love her for it. But Mary, why don't you like to dance?

BIGGS, NELLIE N.

Nellie

746 Main St., Stroudsburg, Pa.

A jolly competent sidekick, always to be counted on when in a tight place. We hope that grand tea room is a success, but we have a feeling that Mr. D. is going to have something to say about it.

BRANTLEY, EVA K.

Eva

206 North 19th St., East Orange, N. J.

Class Treasurer, 1932.

A general all around girl. Earnest in purpose, clever and competent. You will reach the top, Eva.

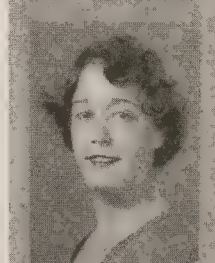

CAMPBELL, EVELYN E.

Evelyn

1205A Bergen St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Pep, vim and vigor personified. "Campy" will be a success anywhere. And when it comes to having your picture taken Greta G. has nothing on you.

CENARRO, MRS. MARIE

Weezy

35-55 88th St., Jackson Heights, N. Y.

We wonder why "Weezy" is so keen about Bermuda. We like her almost as much as certain people in Reading do.

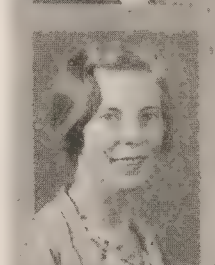

DALTON, CATHERINE R.

Catherine

3820 Clarendon Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Vivacious and fair with an 8:55 A. M. complex. "Girls, I lost my keys! Oh! here they are." One of the gang and a good pal.

DAVY, PORTIA N.

Portia

211 Harrison St., Frenchtown, N. J.

Perfect control. Well "Knowledge is Power" except to Juniors in tea room service. A helpmate we all appreciate. And the envy of all in Chemistry class.

ELLIS, ERNA W.

Erna

72 Locust St., Floral Park, L. I., N. Y.

Smoothly efficient at all times with a thought for the other "fellow". A commuter par excellence with no alibi for delay. "There ain't none." We wish you success.

FALLON, DOROTHY S.

Dorothy

41 S. Oraton Parkway, East Orange, N. J.

A charming smile and a pair of dimples that spell "good nature". Speed too when homeward bound, but that is part of a commuter's life.

FREED, EDNA R.

Boots

Water St., Rock Creek, Ohio

A student who is capable not only in her school work but in her ability to fill a position while in school. You deserve success.

GREEN, MILDRED N.

Mid

281 W. Columbus St., Cohoes, N. Y.

Basketball, 1932.

Personality Plus, and do the males fall for this charm? As for basketball, she's a greyhound.

HILLER, HELEN P.

Hilly Bell

37 Main St., Fairhaven, Mass.

We understand Helen P. likes the atmosphere of West Point. Blondes would! Some call her "Hilly Bell".

HORN, LOIS

Lois

109 W. Main St., Port Jervis, N. Y.

Short and sweet like her name. Send us some more from Port Jervis.

HOWARD, CARRIE

Carrie

2054 East 21st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Carrie is so in-fat-uated with her nutrition that she talks fatty acids in her sleep. And it's not Caroline, just plain Carrie.

HULL, SARAH LOUISE

Sally

1862 Norwich Ave., Columbus, O.

"Sally's" stay with us is only a stopover between her freshman and sophomore years at Adrian College, Mich. She is as pretty as her name, and a good basketball shot too.

KAY, ESTHER

Esther

367 Monroe St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A delightfully energetic student of unusually even temperament, but with a weakness for salt. We wish you luck.

KLINE, EDNA M.

Ed

901 E. King St., Lancaster, Pa.

Quiet and timid but because of her perfect control she will be a success. We count her as a real friend.

LAWLESS, JULIA W.

Mamma

3340 Silsby Rd., Cleveland Heights, Ohio

Cigarette provider and first-class smiler, also our leading coloratura. When she sings she does not speak easy.

LEAHY, HELEN G.

Helen

333 East 80th St., New York, N. Y.

Bright and cheerful and as witty as her name implies. Helen is a real addition to any class and just what we need.

L'HOLLIER, MRS. NANA

Mrs. L'Hollier

3315 167th St., Flushing, L. I., N. Y.

Here is a lady who has an inborn aptness for culinary art. Her mark must be perfect or not at all.

LODER, ELIZABETH

Betty

271 Prospect St., East Stroudsburg, Pa.

"Betty" is a conscientious hard working girl and it won't be long before that Tearoom will cease to be a dream, unless sending a certain individual to South American interrupts her career but not her happiness.

McKAY, MILDRED

Mac

89 Bedford St., New York, N. Y.

A wide and varied intellect together with an earnest enjoyment of her work gives "Mac" a delightful combination. She will teach anyone the art of peeling potatoes with green gloves.

MacKERSIE, JEAN S.

Jean

710 Colonial Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In this hurried worried world a disposition like Jean's is like sunshine on a foggy day. How is the Chemistry coming along, Jean?

MARTIN, FLORENCE N.

Florence

1718 East 24th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Endearing herself to everyone, always ready to do her share and then help others. A real woman.

MONAGHAN, ELGA C.

Elga

630 N. Cascade Ave., Colorado Springs, Col.

Straight from the West with an insatiable desire to see New York. A good pal anywhere, any time.

MUDGE, HOPE R.

Hope

68 Pembroke St., Newton, Mass.

A real pal and a friend indeed. Be careful or she will be having you walking to Florida.

NELSON, PAULINE H.

Polly

309 East 17th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1932.

"Polly's" ability to cope with any situation, plus her charm and personality gives her an outstanding character.

PARRY, RUTH

Ruth

Jarrettown, Pa.

Ruth's dashing here and there makes us wonder what it is all about, but we understand Ruth knows. May Dame Fortune ever smile on her.

PHIPPS, EVELYN S.

Evelyn

28 Hill St., Morristown, N. J.

A conscientious worker. Always busy helping others. It's her pluck and not her luck that accounts for her good work.

PUTNAM, BARBARA

Bobbie

40 Cortland St., Springfield, Mass.

Women's Club Representative, 1932.

Full of fun, with a pleasing personality. Knows her way perfectly in a "frat" house.

RAMSEY, ELSIE M.

Elsie

320 W. First St., Oklahoma City, Okla.

A girl everyone of us admire and love. Knowing her is experiencing one of the finest friendships that exists.

RICHARDSON, MYRTICE E.

Sunny

78 Malvern St., Melrose, Mass.

Glee Club, 1932.

"Sunny" is her name, sunny is her disposition, what more need we say, except that she loves to sing.

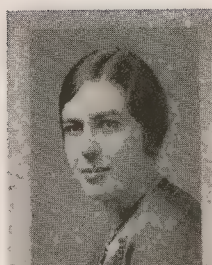

RUCKER, MARGARET R.

Peg

Delphane, Va.

Class President, 1932; Basketball, 1932.

A true friend and pal. We don't see her much, she's so busy arranging things. Keep up the good work, "Peg".

RUSSETT, GRACE

Grace

400 East 67th St., New York, N. Y.

Grace has the distinction of being the youngest member of our class. She is a good worker and is bound to be successful.

SCHWARTZ, MRS. ROSE G.

Rose

35 Chatham St., Hartford, Conn.

If in doubt as to cookery questions, ask Mrs. Schwartz. She will even give the number of the page. She's a pal with a grand sense of humor.

SHALLUE, IRENE M.

Irene

166 Morningside Dr., Bridgeport, Conn.

When blue or discontent, drop in at "220" and be happy again. Irene's inexhaustible wit and good nature is so contagious.

SHARP, RUTH A.

Sharpy

728 9th Ave., Mobre, Pa.

Class Secretary, 1932.

The nickname is used from affection as she leads easily in lovable characteristics and personality among her comrades.

SHAW, HILDA I.

Hilda

1358 East 9th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The class comedienne. Hilda is at it again. Oh well, some one has to show a little spunk.

SHEA, CAROLINE M.

Caroline

180 Clinton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

She accomplishes what she sets out to do and that is a big step toward success. We wish you the best of luck and happiness.

SHERIDAN, LILLIAN O.

Lillian

1132 Park Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Lillian likes the cafeteria, we wonder why. She's a great sport and always ready to cheer you up.

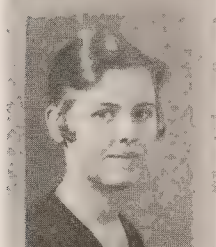

SMITH, LEONE B.

Leone

4340 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

She hails from Missouri and she has to be shown, but in her quiet way she wins our affection.

SMITH, VIRGINIA W.

Jinny

55 Crane St., Caldwell, N. J.

If you want some pep call on "Jinny". Where she gets it, we do not know. Blessing and blessed wherever she goes, forever talking, she knows no woes.

SOUTHER, SUSAN I.

Sue

21 Goss Ave., Melrose, Mass.

Athletic Representative, 1932; Glee Club, 1932.

Do you know her? Noted for her keen sense of wit, her lovable nature and then that good New England "red flannel hash".

STEINBURG, RUDOLPH

Ruddy

1709 Boston Rd., New York, N. Y.

The only gentleman in our class, but a real one. We know you will be a success and a fine manager. But we wonder what you will do without our feminine support.

WATT, JULIA B.

Judy

532 N. Chestnut St., Barnesville, Ohio.

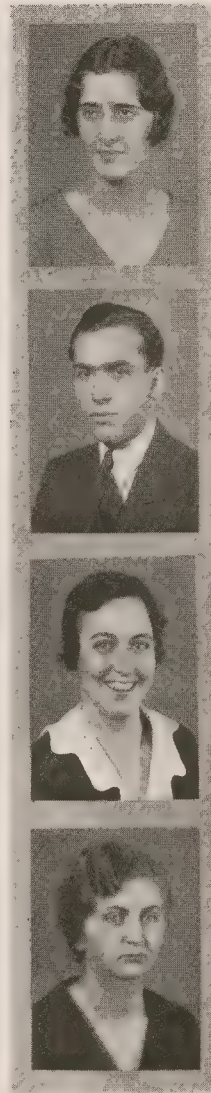

A keen sense of humor, ability to see things as they really exist, and a lovable personality which she will never outgrow, tend to give "Judy" the best in the world.

WILKINS, FRANCES E.

Frances

Kingston, Md.

"Silence is Golden." Behind Frances' demureness one finds a real friend. She is always ready to do her share and more too.

HYMNS ANCIENT AND MODERN

Ancient

Complexion like the winter snow,
Just tinted by the sunset glow,
Throat white as alabaster,
Teeth of pearl, and hair of gold
And figure—sure in Venus' mould
The immortal gods have cast her.
And I am proud her slave to be,
And deem it high felicity
To die, if she should will it so.
Ye fates! tonight propitious be,
For I approach divinity:
My life depends on "Yes" or "No."

Modern

Stunning girl,
Out of sight.
Guess I'll pop
Tuesday night.
Bully shape,
Pretty eyes;
Papa's rich,
Quite a prize.
Sure to love me,
Can't say no;
Lots of rocks—
It's a go.

R. L. RAYMOND

D I E T E T I C S — 1 9 3 2

EARLY in the month of September, in the year '30, wandered a tribe of maidens fair, seeking shelter and abode. On they wandered 'till finally there rose before them, a great brown tepee wherein dwelt the tribes of Pratt. They desired to be one of its great tribes and live and prosper under its mighty roof. A great chief, "Pennell", was chosen to counsel them.

Through many moons this tribe that wandered no more, prospered, and grew in wealth and knowledge. Many times were they put to great tests, those surviving, remained humble and obedient, drinking in all the wise words that chanced to fall from their mighty superiors.

War dances and demonstrations were given by this rising tribe. When sufficiently versed in lore they set forth, each by herself to gain more knowledge and courage for the great tests to come.

Three moons waxed and waned and as the fourth appeared, this tribe, which had grown in wisdom and instrength, assembled and made final and elaborate preparations for that last great hunt. Leaders were to be chosen for this trip and once more "Pennell" was chosen great chief, for staunch was she known to be. Day by day they labored on, greatly taxing their brains, and thus the time passed until the day came when they must face toward the great final goal.

In the spring of the year '32, they laid aside their senior grandeur, and were children once more making merry at a festival in their honor. These were the days of great excitement for the tribe would soon drift apart, and each member was planning for her future.

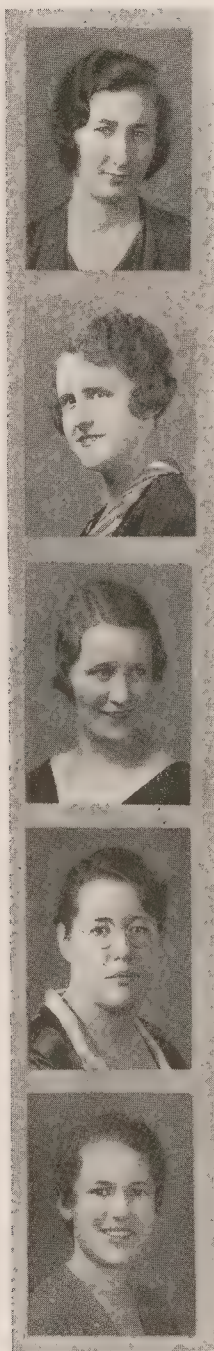

Then came the day when many who had helped and guided, were bidden as the tribe's guests, to see each member of the surviving band of stalwart youths receive the hoped for Parchment, which was the reward of work well done.

Thus, they were speeded up the greatest trail of all called, "Life". And as they set forth from the shelter of the tepee of "Pratt", the lengthy legend of the "tribe of '32" is ended.

CLASS OFFICERS

ABIGAIL PENNELL, President
JANET FISH, Vice-President

VERNA BURR, Secretary
MARY LEYDEN, Treasurer

ABRAHAM, BERNICE E.

Bernie

2116 Morris Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

"Bernie" is always smiling, happy and gay. We know that with these fine qualities she can't help being successful in all her work.

AITKEN, EDNA E.

Ed

Scudder Ave., Northport, N. Y.

Home Economics Club Representative, 1931-32;
Baseball, 1931.

Of "Ed" we've been quite proud,
Our praise of her is always loud,
She's made us happy these two years,
She gave us smiles instead of tears.

ANDERSON, RUTH E.

Andy

235 Edgewood Ave., New Haven, Conn.

"Andy", an inmate of "288", is very quiet, but we are assured that "still waters run deep". The class wishes you success.

ASHMEAD, ANITA HELEN

Ann

46 Pierce St., Kingston, Pa.

"Ann", a hard worker and a good student. She came from another class to finish with us and she is always ready to lend a helping hand.

BACHLI, ALICE

Al

218 Weston Ave., Dalton, Mass.

Alice is one of the most ambitious persons in our class. Whatever she undertakes is well done and we all admire her ability.

BECKWITH, LOUISE G.

Lou

South Sudbury, Mass.

Class Vice-President, 1930-31; Hockey, 1930-31; Baseball, 1931.

"Lou" came to us with a "Yankee Twang". Try as we might, we haven't been able to change it—all the more credit to you "Lou".

BLACKMAN, ELIZABETH H.

Betty

75 Prospect St., East Orange, N. J.

Treasurer Home Economics Club, 1931-32; Swimming, 1930-31.

"Betty" is undecided as to what she will do. However with all her charms we know she will be most successful in whatever she does.

BODEK, STELLA

Stell

86 South 9th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Swimming, 1931; Volley Ball, 1930.

Quiet, but not ambitionless, is this demure lady of our acquaintance for didn't she come back this fall with her long raven locks shorn.

BOVE, ADELAIDE C.

Addie

560 Chapel St., New Haven, Conn.

Volley Ball, 1930.

Those who know "Addie" know she is not as serious as she appears to be. Her sincerity and good nature will help her on to big success.

BOWMAN, A. ELIZABETH

Betty

245 Beverly Rd., Douglaston, L. I., N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1930.

When you feel unusually imaginative, try to imagine "Betty" noisy and uninterested in her recitations. She is the answer to our instructors' prayers.

BROWN, MARGARET E.

Billie

214 West 92nd St., New York, N. Y.

"Billie" hasn't much time to spare for Pratt activities. Fordham holds a lot of her interest even yet. What would "Billie" do without cosmetics?

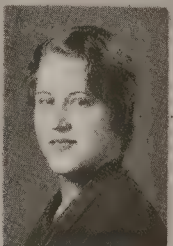

BUCHANAN, VIOLET M.

Vi

336 Columbia St., Cohoes, N. Y.

Violet's hair is certainly her "crowning glory". The intensity in its color might mislead you as to her disposition; but don't let it, for she is as demure as can be.

BURR, E. VERNA

Verna

Moriches Rd., St. James, L. I., N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1930-31-32.

Verna gets along with everyone. She's a hard worker, a fine friend, and she has been a very competent and successful secretary for our two years.

CALLAGHAN, MARJORIE P.

Margie

3003 Avenue I, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Marjorie is our beam of sunshine. With her lively walk and sweet smile, she is one of our favorites. Remember her in nutrition class—"Good morning children, our lesson today—."

CASPERSON, HARRIET L.

Caspie

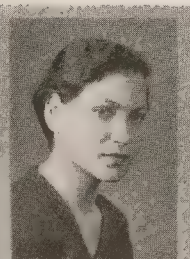

3 Village St., S. Manchester, Conn.

Volley Ball, 1931.

"Caspie" is a conscientious sort of person, and is always ready to help any of us out of a "jam" whether it be Chemistry or Nutrition.

CASSEL, BELLABella*21 Spencer Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

Bella, and her everlasting questions help us out of many uncertainties. She is one of those girls who prefer New York to her home town. We wonder why?

CHUDNOVSKY, FRANCES L.*Chud*115 School St., Taunton, Mass.

Never worrying and never in a hurry, "Chud" seems to get her work done just the same. Her hair is her crowning glory.

CLARK, EDNA V.*Eddie*8425 Ackroyd Ave., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

Approximately five feet of shy sweet girlishness. Edna thinks there's nothing quite as refreshing as sleeping without incumbrance of an alarm clock.

CLAYTON, ERNA L.*Clayt*31 Rockridge Rd., Waltham, Mass.

Prattonia Representative, 1930-31.

Erna our philosopher—others get her goat so often, she hardly recognizes it as her own. That is only on this subject, however, otherwise she's "true blue".

CLOTHIER, ELIZABETH G.*Betty*698 Forrest Ave., West Brighton, S. I., N. Y.

Perhaps the keynote to "Betty's" character is sincerity, and consequent loyalty to whatever cause she undertakes. Her versatility of ability and geniality of temperament make her a true pal.

COHEN, EDYTHE

Ed.

188 Church St., Sault Sainte Marie, Ont., Can.

The girl from across the border who doesn't believe in doing today what can be done tomorrow. There must be a good reason for that far away gaze.

CONNOLLY, MARY E.

Mary

95-29 Brisbin St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

One cannot remain downhearted long in Mary's company for she has a way of banishing the "blues" with her keen appreciation of humorous situations.

CREEM, GERALDINE F.

Gerry

203 Argyle Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Captain Volley Ball, 1931.

"Gerry" is one of our most cheerful optimistic persons. The work-a-day world may find its problems burdensome, but not "Gerry". To her life is an adventure both bright and beautiful.

DAGGETT, MRS. ELIZABETH McALLISTER

Betty

51 The Enclosure, Nutley, N. J.

If you chance to see a stately brunette you have met our "Betty". She could write a book, "How to Get Away with It". We'd all prize it.

DEXTER, DOROTHEA

Dot

280 Main St., Northport, L. I., N. Y.

Athletic Representative, 1931-32; Baseball, 1931; Swimming, 1930.

"Dot" is the live wire of our class—for isn't she our athletic representative and doesn't she make a dash to catch her train.

DOOLEY, AGNES C.

Ag

Ramsey, N. J.

Agnes is one of those shy, retiring girls that no one knows much about—but she's sure to surprise us one of these days, and we'll all sit up and take notice.

EGAN, MARION L.

Whosey

Valatie, N. Y.

It is a puzzle to us just why Marion left her "estate" in Valatie to share an apartment here. Is it the estate she dreams of as she gazes into space—or—?

ELY, CATHERINE L.

Catherine

303 Mortimer Ave., Rutherford, N. J.

One of our new members. A quiet industrious student who is forever plugging along. Best of luck, Catherine, success is yours.

FAHEY, MARGARET A.

Margie

415 North 5th St., Harrison, N. J.

Long hair is an awful bother but "Margie" has conquered this difficulty with her persistent "stick-to-it-tiveness". "Margie's" enthusiasm has inspired us all.

FERRARO, CARMELIA F.

Millie

105 Christman Ave., Washington, Pa.

How can we say something about one who makes so little noise? "Still water runs deep"—so we're sure you'll get there "Millie".

FISH, JANET

Jan

265 N. Oxford St., Hartford, Conn.

Class Vice-President, 1931-32; Vice-President Home Economics Club, 1931-32; Hockey, 1930; Baseball, 1931.

Her liveness and untiring activity in everything she undertakes, together with her cheery disposition and understanding personality have won many friends for "Jan".

FROHLIN, EDNA

Ed

100 Humphrey Ave., Bayonne, N. J.

"Ed" comes daily from Bayonne to the big city. We think it has rather frightened her, she seems so quiet and girlish.

GARROD, MARGARET R.

Maggie

1456 Castleton Ave., Port Richmond, S.I., N.Y.

Volley Ball, 1931; Swimming, 1930.

A titter, a giggle and we know "Maggie" is on the spot. The laughing member of our class who is serious only just before a "quizz".

GIBSON, MAULINE

Molly

6020 Louisiana Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Without Mauline and her slow drawl the senior dieticians would have missed many a hearty laugh. Was the cause of Mary Handy's absence always unknown???

GRAHAM, EVELYN, CATHERINE

Evelyn

2268 Prospect Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

Swimming, 1930.

Beside being a good companion you can always depend on Evelyn for being alert in class and asking questions when you happen to be asleep.

GRISWOLD, LILLIAN D.

Lillie

Livingston, Wis.

With eyes as black as coal and piercing into your soul, we will always remember the girl from far away Wisconsin.

GROW, LORETTA G.

Lorry

321 Hollywood Ave., Douglaston, L. I., N. Y.

They say "tall, dark and handsome" usually referring to a boy but why can't this apply to a girl as well, although "Lorry" is blonde the idea holds.

GUTHRIE, ALICE M.

Lee

41 Orchard Ave., Port Chester, N. Y.

Well poised, well versed, a deep thinker—that's "Al". With such qualities success is a sure thing. Long words and geniality seem to be her "long suits".

HANDY, MARY

Mary

577 Classon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Little Mary" we call her and it fits as far as stature is concerned but it doesn't fit for her good nature as it is one of the best.

HARRISON, HENRIETTA M.

Hank

614 Laurel Ave., West Allenhurst, N. J.

Women's Club Representative, 1930-31; Hockey, 1931.

Not knowing "Henri", one might think her rather quiet and demure but—! When she smiles she wins the hearts of all around her.

HAUBERT, MILDRED M.

Mil

720 Park Ave., Elizabeth, N. J.

A new member in our ranks this year, one we were glad to accept as a fellow co-worker. Good-natured, clever and willing to work.

HAWLEY, MARJORIE L.

Marge

705 Irving Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1931.

We have a future "Dr. Rose" in our midst. It's nice to think that someone in our class will be famous "Marge" is all wrapped up in Dietetics.

HELBERG, MARION M.

Marion

38 Heights Rd., Clifton, N. J.

Volley Ball, 1930.

Marion our happy go-lucky one

Who always makes great shares of fun.

Laughing at trouble, however she fares;

She's taught us to laugh at the worst of our cares.

HENRIQUES, ELAINE A.

Elaine

1793 West 9th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Swimming, 1930.

Elaine is one good scout and we all admire her for her ambition. She's one of our best chemists and some day she'll show us how to eat soup with a fork.

HIGGINS, MARION J.

Marion

253 Front St., Winchendon, Mass.

Did Marion put the calm in calmness? We all wonder, especially when she gives a disease outline. Marion is a true New-Englander, poised, well-mannered and well-liked.

HOLTEN, EVELYN A.

Lyn

7 Gramercy Park W., New York, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1931-32; Volley Ball, 1930; Swimming, 1930.

Evelyn's bright witty sallies, merry smile, amiable disposition and gift of conversation have made her a popular girl and a great asset to the class of '32.

INSCHO, WINIFRED L.

Winnie

471 Riverside Ave., Elmira, N. Y.

"Winnie's" infectious giggle is so infectious that we all join in. Never mind "Winnie" someday you can laugh at us instead of with us—when you are a head dietician somewhere.

JONES, ELIZABETH V.

Betty

60 Hillside Ave., Nutley, N. J.

"Betty's" failing is laughing—if that is a failing?? It may be a great advantage. When you're out in the field "Betty" we hope you have your "rose-colored glasses" with you.

KECK, HELEN E.

Kecky

252 Argyle Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hockey, 1930-31; Baseball, 1931.

During her two lengthy years at Pratt, Helen has appeared very much "Petered". In spite of this her sweet smile and infectious laugh bobs up among us now and then.

KOLESAR, HELEN E.

Helen

24A West 40th St., Bayonne, N. J.

Volley Ball, 1931.

A pleasant face, a happy soul, a docile disposition—such a combination do we remember in all our work and play. "Say, "Dot", do you know where Holten is?"

KOSMAN, DOROTHY M.

Dot

72 Decker Ave., Port Richmond, S. I., N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1931.

Behold a face so fair with so sweet a look and so soft an air. We shall always remember words which helped adore her floating gracefulness. "Duck soup—There's nothing to it."

LAWTON, PATRICIA D.

Pat

130 Gorden St., Perth Amboy, N. J.

Nice to look at, nice to see is this true type of school girl, "Pat". Thoughtful, well-dressed and industrious.

LEYDEN, MARY L.

May

86 Mapledell St., Springfield, Mass.

Class Treasurer, 1931-32; Associate Editor Prattonia, 1931-32; Volley Ball, 1930; Baseball, 1931.

Always cheerful, always gay,
"May" will go a long, long way,
A hard worker for the class
And a friend to the very last.

LUPIN, DOROTHEA A.

Dot

1689 Wyoming Ave., Forty-Fort, Pa.

A very sweet and amiable girl, who is always ready to help us, is no other than "Dot". She is the type we always hope to have around us.

LUTHMAN, HULDA A.

Hulda

727 Richmond St., Plainfield, N. J.

Although Hulda may think it would be grand to be tall and stately, we feel sure that good things come in small packages—as she has proved so many times.

MACOMSON, MARGARET

Mac

Spartanburg, S. C.

Volley Ball, 1931.

The cheerfulness which is found in "Mac" is full of significance. It suggests good health, a clear conscience and a soul at peace with all nature.

MARSHALL, ELLEN T.

Ellen

175 Main St., Rockport, Mass.

A new-comer to our class but not new to Pratt. Ellen has fallen right in line with us and made us another good pal.

MEYER, GLADYS M.

Gladys

855 East 10th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Secretary Prattonia, 1931-32.

Friendly and candid—Gladys is an earnest worker. She is working hard at both N. Y. U. and Pratt, an example for us all to follow.

MINARD, EDITH C.

Ede

76 Floyd St., Belleville, N. J.

"Ede" is the "Floyd Gibbons" of Pratt, always passing the latest bit of news around. She is one of the most popular and best liked girls in the class.

MONTALVO, MRS. ALICE M.

Alice

1117 Coney Island Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Conscientious and independent, placid, good humor, a bit of seriousness and great generosity characterize Alice. She has been a good student and a fine pal.

MONTELL, HELENA R.

Monty

34 E. Washington Ave., Washington, N. J.

Sophisticated?—Not a bit,
High-Hat?—Wouldn't think of it,
Pretty?—In a brunette way,
Likeable?—Well, I should say,
Who?—Why, our "Monty".

NEMPLICH, VIVIENNE R.

Vivienne

23 Prospect Pl., Hempstead, L. I., N. Y.

No one takes the interest in their work that Vivienne does. Her enthusiasm is infectious and bodes for nothing but success and well-merited achievement.

NEWTON, ANNETTA E.

Newtie

Royalston, Mass.

One of the very hard working, conscientious members of our class. We wish her much success because it will be well merited.

PENNELL, ABIGAIL J.

Gail

549 Riverside Dr., New York, N. Y.

Class President, 1930-31-32; Swimming, 1930-31.
An ideal class leader for our two years at Pratt, admired and respected by all. Good luck! "Gail", may you continue along these same lines.

PERKINS, GERTRUDE E.

Perky

88 Elm St., Morristown, N. J.

Volley Ball, 1931.
"Perky"—quiet? Oh, yes—but don't forget "still-water runs deep". Dignified and cheerful? Yes and remember these two items lead to success.

PORTER, MRS. SONIA

Sonia

Stelton, N. J.

If earnest endeavor and enthusiasm bring success, Mrs. Porter should be most successful for she is our most zealous classmate.

REDFERN, MARGARET M.

Margaret

424 Bergen Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Swimming, 1931.

A little nonsense mixed with a vein of seriousness is combined in Margaret to make a "real" girl. Here's hoping life will not alter the combination.

RICE, ADELAIDE

Ricey

2911 Meadowbrook Blvd., Cleveland Heights, Ohio

Knowing "Ricey" has been one of our greatest joys. She is one of those carefree individuals whose captivating smile and friendly disposition have won her widespread popularity.

RITCHIE, MARY M.

Mary

9 Peters St., St. John, New Brunswick, Canada

Mary comes to us from Canada where television is now in use, where one will not only hear her pleasing voice, but also see that alluring smile.

RUSSETT, VERA B.

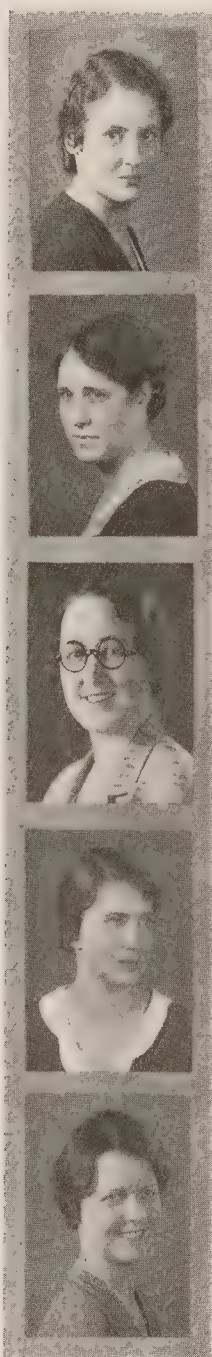

Rusty

400 East 67th St., New York, N. Y.

Hockey, 1930-31.

Perhaps we could sum Vera up in "sugar and spice and everything nice". Just imagine a young woman, straightforward, absolutely without pretense, and you have an accurate picture of our Vera.

SAGER, MILDRED F.

Mil

189-11 Mangin Ave., St. Albans, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1931.

Mildred is always distinguished by her unique coiffure. The silent member of our class and a diligent worker.

SCOTT, MARION H.

Scotty

34 Dolge Ave., Dolgeville, N. Y.

She is so sweet, shy and quiet that we really think she must take a lot of earnest stock in the express "Silence is Golden". A true good pal to us.

SEHLMAYER, FRANCES C.

Fran

1528 Commonwealth Ave., New York, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1930.

"Fran's" always good natured and smiling,
She's thoughtful, considerate and sweet,
And though she is not at all prudish
She's always quite quiet and neat.

SELIS, ESTHER E.

Esther

5709 Ethelbert Ave., Baltimore, Md.

Baseball, 1931.

Sweetness personified, a diligent worker with "be prepared" for her motto. Esther is all wrapped up in Girl Scouts.

STRAUSS, RUTH E.

Ruth

Litchfield, Conn.

Success follows earnest endeavor and effort. Ruth, if you follow this policy all through life you're bound to reach the top—so carry on.

TANOFSKY, NETTIENettie*292 Pennsylvania Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"All good things come in small packages". Nettie is studious, hard-working, honest in her opinions and frank in her expression of them.

TRANTUM, ELIZABETH*Betty*384 East 17th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1930-31.

"Betty" is the "Mutt" of the Trantum-Tanofsky "Mutt and Jeff" combination. She is persistent, quiet and serious. Success is surely destined to be hers.

VAN DUSEN, K. PHYLLIS*Phyll*121 South 11th St., Newark, N. J.

Home Economics Club Representative, 1930-31.

"Phyll" gets her daily exercise fighting with hydrocarbons, halogen derivatives and alcohols and rests herself by taking gym. Here's to a good sport.

WALKLEY, JOSEPHINE V.*Jo*373-92nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1931.

When "Jo" goes out into the field we feel sure that she will be a success. She is one of those quiet people who do a great deal without any noise.

WATKINS, VICTORIA M.*Vic*31 Woodlawn Ave., Collingswood, N. J.

Tra la la—Yes it's "Vic", here she comes whistling and skipping along and sometimes (??) stopping to talk.

WENDELL, BERTHA A.

Bert

1421-159th St., Beechurst, N. Y.

Swimming, 1931.
 Never a worry, never a care,
 Happy-go-lucky everywhere,
 That's a good rule to follow "Bert"
 There's plenty of time ahead for the serious work.

WHITAKER, BARBARA E.

Barb

33 College St., Binghamton, N. Y.

Women's Club Representative, 1931-32; Hockey, 1930-31.

In Barbara's friendship we find nothing false or insincere. Everything is straightforward and springs from the heart. The power of gentleness is irresistible.

WILLIAMS, NATALIE E.

Nat

111-12 106th St., Ozone Park, N. Y.

"Nat" came to us from the institutional class. A flash of red, a cheery smile—and Natalie is on the spot.

WORTMAN, MARION O.

Mar

271 DeWitt Ave., Belleville, N. J.

Swimming, 1931; Volley Ball, 1930.
 Expert commuter from Belleville. What's the big attraction "Mar"? She'd make a fine ad for Palm-olive soap. "Keep that schoolgirl complexion."

D I E T E T I C S—1 9 3 3

OUR plane took off rather hesitantly on September 15, 1933. Changing pilots, it circled around as if in doubt as to its destination. The plane soon found itself among other craft which were in the same predicament, and among some that seemed a little more certain of their course. Our craft followed the latter. But before doing so, someone had to be placed in charge at the controls. A conference of all passengers was called during the early part of the trip, resulting in the election of Miss Annabelle Weston, pilot; Miss Lillian Andersen, keeper of the log; and Miss Catherine Cummings, paymaster. The financial backers of the trip included all on board.

The plane soon righted itself and the passengers felt that no matter how many tail spins or barrel rolls it might go into the officers at the controls would keep it in the air.

The passengers were feeling like lone eagles, until the guardian plane radioed a message to us to be at the flying field to meet the passengers of their and other planes lodged in our hangar. After the gathering the conditions seemed more promising. Soon our sister ship drew up and signalled us to follow it to the landing field to be entertained there by her passengers.

Thus began our series of relations with other ships. Air Meets, gatherings and races followed, each leaving its steadying influence behind. Between working and playing everyone on board managed to keep quite busy. A little after New Year's we received several distress signals from planes demanding food, and we answered the call to the best of our ability.

We are flying along serenely now, and are thankful because no matter how much motor trouble we may encounter, we know that our guardian plane will always be circling around eager to render aid.

We shall soon be landing. Our passengers will be going out to learn more about aeronautics, so that they may come back more capable of flying the plane and with knowledge to benefit mankind.

THE LIBRARY AND SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

THE unpretentious, but worthy building, over the way, set in a charming environment of formal park to the south and informal green to the north, surrounded by an architectural fencing which does not conceal but invites to the privileges within, approached from the Main building by stately gates for the thronging students—the Library building houses the fourth principal element of Pratt Institute.

As a free library, its work relates to all the people of Brooklyn for whom the first free circulating and reference library was provided when the Institute opened. As the library of Pratt Institute, it functions to meet all of the special interests of the three schools across the street, which it serves with increasing activity and zeal from year to year. As the home of the Library School, it becomes the laboratory for the classes training for librarianship as a profession. It is the aim of its administration to preserve a careful balance of these three objectives, so that the work shall operate as one harmonious whole.

To the students of Pratt Institute the Library aims to be a vital element in their study and experience, with facilities and resources devoted to the special concerns of each of the four schools, equally served and equally welcomed.

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE—1932

HOW like the pages of a book have experiences during the past year been disclosed. In the first place, we have been especially proud of our association with Miss Josephine Adams Rathbone, vice-director of the library school, and this year's president of the American Library Association. We have been grateful, too, for the patience and friendliness of a faculty and staff which has shown an interest in each one of us as individuals.

Succeeding pages have unfolded events at which our spirits were refreshed by enjoyable contacts with graduates, faculty, staff and classmates. The informal gatherings at tea time or eventide will always be memorable, also the reception given in the fall by the Graduate Association, and the luncheon at the Hotel McAlpin in the second term. And how stimulating were the personalities of various leaders in the library profession with whom we had tea on Tuesday afternoons.

Finally, as we have drawn near to the close of the book, we have appreciated the excellent organization of the course, and the value of combining theory with practice. Practical work has accompanied the lectures and has been assigned in the library. Trips to printing establishments, publishing houses, and libraries have been arranged. The spring trip to various libraries opened our eyes once more to the many possibilities in the library field. How could we have wished for a more complete professional preparation?

Now that we have passed the climax,—commencement, we are prepared to enjoy the result of a happy combination of theory, practice, new friendships, new contacts and a helpful faculty. The year leaves in our hearts happy memories of the past year and a joyous anticipation of the future.

CLASS OFFICERS

SALLIE E. DEATHERAGE, President OLIVIA JOHNSON, Secretary
RICE S. ESTES, Treasurer

BROWN, ERNESTINE

Brownie

Corinth, Miss.

First in our alphabet and first in the affection of many. She delights us with her spontaneous humor, and her quaintly transposed Mississippi vowels.

BROWN, HELEN H. B.

Helen

1 Peel St., St. Mary's, Ontario, Canada

The French authority of the class—no less! A genius for keeping her good nature and helping others to keep theirs,—she is, indeed, a Good Companion.

BUSS, LOA FRANCES

Loa

134 S. Cedar St., Glendale, Calif.

Prattonia Representative, 1932.

Only with a disposition reflecting the unceasing sunshine of her state, could she handle so pleasantly and efficiently the added duties of Prattonia representative to routine demands. And then—there are her eye-brows!

CLARKE, ELIZABETH

Betty

315 West 106th St., New York, N. Y.

Blonde and lovely—like the beautiful Guinevere, but very much alive is "Betty." She is full of vivacity, charm, and a great deal of real efficiency.

COALTER, ELIZABETH FRANCES

Elizabeth

1515 West Ave., Richmond, Va.

Where is your coach and six, little Virginia lady? It is pleasing to think of you in sweeping trains and stately company. And can you really peep into the future?

COKER, ELIZABETHCookie*17 Dearborn St., Salem, Mass.

Though the stars may wobble in their courses, the charming urbanity of Elizabeth remains fixed and unchangeable. Moreover, she is the great Mogul of the filing class.

DEATHERAGE, SALLIE ELAINE*Zia*229 Ward Parkway, Kansas City, Mo.

Class President, 1932.

Take a gracious mien, a winning smile, a fund of delightful conversation, plus a lot of capability and you have Sallie—our president!

ESTES, RICE SMITH*Chirp*108 Foote St., Chester, S. C.

Class Treasurer, 1932.

Who, but a perfect southern gentleman could forfeit typewriters and books to twenty-five ladies every day with grace, and seek dues from this same group with such a pleasant smile that they are eagerly given?

FLANAGAN, GLADYS MARY*Flip*16 New York Ave. N. E., Washington, D. C.

A marked resemblance to Mona Lisa and a certain cosmopolitan air of the nation's capital, combine surprisingly with eyes as blue and candid as Killarney Lakes.

HODKINSON, CATHERINE BAILEY*Catty*452 Berkeley Ave., Orange, N. J.

Our admiration of Catherine's earnestness and application is companioned by our appreciation of her unfailing good nature and our delight in her quiet smile.

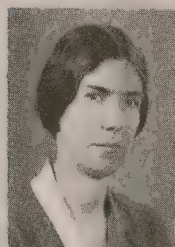

HOLT, GRACE FRANCES

Frances

19 Elm St., East Haven, Conn.

Grace, though our outstanding classical student, is yet thoroughly human. Her love for sweets and cats is irresistible.

JOHNSON, OLIVIA

Jeems

22 Glenbrook Rd., Stamford, Conn.

Class Secretary, 1932.

The calmness and culture of New England, united with a lively appreciation of everyday life, claim Olivia. And she is a firm believer in roof sessions between classes.

KENNY, ANNE MARGARET

Gabrielle

222 Monroe St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

With a decisive fling of her head Ann plunges into everything she takes up—be it adventurous or otherwise. Her one great passion, however, is boats,—speeding them, meeting them, or crossing over on them, for at least half her heart is in England.

LA FORGE, LILLIAN ESTELLE

Lillian

170 Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Not only does Lillian pursue her busy way in class, but she loves to explore,—and what fascinating places she knows!

LANG, MARION

Marion

427 East 89th St., New York, N. Y.

Here we have a very small person with an amazing and important store of useful knowledge which comes in handy for all of us, and of which she is very kind in sharing.

LOWNDES, ELIZABETH GAILLARD

Libby

11 Meeting St., Charleston, S. C.

Our cameo lady is amazingly practical, and while the white lights of Manhattan burn more alluringly than her student lamp, she yet contrives to get everything done.

NIEWIADOMSKY, NICHOLAS E.

Nicholas

Petrograd, Russia

An oracle with a touch of the eternal boy, and a keen perception of life's little innuendoes. Such is the happy combination of traits in one of our most congenial members.

O'CONNOR, MARGARET HELEN

Marg

193 Earl St., Kingston, Ontario, Canada

What an independent and capable little person! And with the inimitable zest which she puts into living, Margaret adds greatly to the good fellowship of our class.

OSBORNE, MARTHA REBECCA

Martha

Greenville, S. C.

South Carolina—and proud of it! What genuine willingness to lend a hand is expressed by Martha's southern drawl and her smile for everyone.

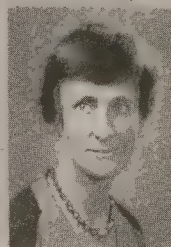

PETERS, ELLEN

Nan

442 5th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

She knows places, plays, and pictures as well as books. Her comments on people and things are spicy with an original and telling humor.

REID, THELMA ELIZABETH

Thelma

211 Henry St., Cambridge, Md.

In spite of her reserved manner, her sincerity and friendliness endear her to us all. What a cosmopolitan lass, by the way!

ROSENFELDT, ELEANOR

Ellie

New Haven, Conn.

With a Vogueish air, and a nonchalance backed by Marlboros instead of Murads, Eleanor effortlessly accomplishes her work and wins the friendship of all the class.

SPANGLER, MILDRED

Mildred

133 E. Main St., Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Our social calendar this year has been a very complete and interesting one. Our dances which were held in the Recreation Hall and after Basketball games were a great success and an enjoyable time was had by all who attended. The response and whole-hearted cooperation of all the schools had made this year one of outstanding success.

September 22—The Design II and Interior Decoration II Classes started the season with their afternoon dance and reception. Being the first dance, we all had the opportunity of renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. A large crowd gathered to spend an enjoyable afternoon.

October 16—The Boilermaker's Hop with its good music and novel decorations, was as usual, a howling success. The evening is long to be remembered by all who attended.

October 30—A Halloween Dance, with its proper setting of black cats, broomsticks, Jack o'Lanterns and ghosts, was given by I. E. E. I. We all had an unusually good time and were looking forward to more Pratt Dances.

November 21—The Junior Costume Design and Dressmakers started their social whirl by giving a formal dance in the Recreation Hall. There was a large attendance and all agreed it was a tremendous success.

December 5—The Architects, as usual, kept up their reputation by having one of the outstanding social events of the year, their Fall Dance. The novel manner in which the orchestra was concealed was unique, while a special feature of dancing 'til one was a delight to all of us.

January 9—A Barn Dance with its proper setting of cows and such, was given by the Senior Teachers Training. With the added feature of real good entertainment, we all agreed that the evening was most successful and enjoyable.

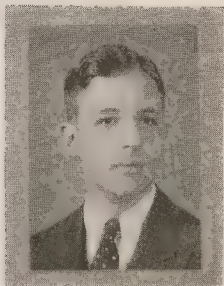

April 8—The Artsmen again fulfilled our expectations of an interesting and great social event. Their Prehistoric Dance with its primitive decorations and amusing happenings during the evening were a source of wonder and surprise to all.

We are looking forward to the Senior Prom to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Roof Garden on May 27. Last year's Senior Prom, the second combined dance of all senior classes was an overwhelming success. We are sure this year's will prove its equal, everyone is enthusiastic and we are looking forward to a tremendous success.

STUDENT COUNCIL—1932

STUDENT COUNCIL—1932

THE purpose of the Student Council is to promote and encourage all student activities connected with the school, and to develop and maintain the interest of the students in these activities.

The Class Presidents during 1931-32 have upheld this purpose by informing the entire student body of various school activities arousing enthusiasm and creating Pratt Spirit throughout the school.

The Council started the year with an Informal Social at the Women's Club. The purpose of this gathering was to enable all members of the Council to become acquainted on a social basis which insures better co-operation in the Council throughout its year's work.

The social activities of the Council started with an afternoon dance early in the school year which served to bring the students of the different schools together. A very successful All Pratt evening dance was given later on in the year by the Council.

The Glee Club which the Council aided in organizing two years ago is now on a firm footing. It needed no assistance this year from the Council due to the enthusiasm of the Glee Club members under the able leadership of Mr. Tebbs.

A Pep rally sponsored by the Student Council was held at the beginning of the basketball season, filling Memorial Hall with hearty cheers.

The Council this year as in the past few years took over the entire responsibility of the Senior Prom. The Prom is looked forward to throughout the school year by the Senior students of Pratt and now holds an important and fixed part in the graduation program of the Institute.

There has been great improvement during the last few years in attendance at all School functions and we feel that this has been largely due to the efforts of this representative body.

The Council of '32 takes off its yoke of combined burdens and pleasures and passes it on to the new council of '33 and wishes them much success.

PRATT INSTITUTE BRANCH OF THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

IN 1901 the electrical classes of Pratt Institute formed the Electrical Association. Through the efforts of Mr. A. L. Cook the association became affiliated with the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and became a branch in 1930.

The student branch which is conducted solely by the student members, offers an opportunity to the students to present papers before an audience and discuss the many phases of engineering.

The councillor and officers wish to thank the student body for its support. They also wish the greatest success to the men in their own work, and in carrying on the Student Branch.

THE WOHLER CHEMICAL SOCIETY

THE Wohler Society opened the year's activities with a smoker to welcome the new Chemistry students. Informal meetings held throughout the year, brought the two classes together for enjoyable evenings and interesting talks by men in the Chemical industries. The Wohler Society's traditional formal dance was held in April. A Farewell banquet in May brought to a close another successful year.

The officers and members of the Society extend to the new men their best wishes for a successful program next year.

STUDENT BRANCH OF THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

THE Pratt Institute student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers has completed another successful year. The organization affords the student engineer unlimited opportunity to acquaint himself with the many phases of his prospective profession.

The interesting talks given both by the student members and guest speakers were exceptionally well attended throughout the year.

An Aeronautical section was organized this year by members especially interested in that field of engineering.

There have been many first year men attending the meetings. This assures us that the class of '33 will continue to hold the high standard that the Pratt Institute student branches set up.

PRATT Women's Club—a place no one forgets who has ever made its acquaintance. How quickly all cares and troubles are dispelled in its delightful atmosphere with Mrs. Taylor as hostess.

One of its Aces is a series of Get-Together Parties. With Ruth Parsons, Irene Shallue and Helen Bigoney as officers, arranging interesting programs, and Helen Robertson as chief-chef, who doesn't want to come!

This year it has proven especially popular for those whose delight it is to entertain, as well as for those who enjoy the many other privileges it affords.

We know that this, its eighteenth year of service, has been a most enjoyable and successful one for all.

THE Men's Club under the direction of the Executive Committee has aimed to place the facilities of the Club at all times at the disposal of the students and to make these facilities as attractive as possible.

The Club has been during the past year a rendezvous where many students gather in a social way at the noon hour and after school. Bowling and pool have been popular recreation and tournaments in these sports have been conducted. An employment bureau has been maintained and in spite of the scarcity of work available many students have been helped into positions of one kind or another.

The Men's Club is one of the oldest buildings connected with the Institute. We are looking forward to what we hope will not be a distant day when the Club will have bigger and better quarters with which to carry on its activities and serve its members.

THE Architects is a body composed of the three classes of Architectural study at the Institute. Its purpose is to provide educational, social and athletic programs for its advancement.

This year the organization had a very enjoyable social program provided by Mr. Isaac Glauber, social chairman. As educational chairman, Mr. Robert Cueman also presented a group of inspiring speakers throughout the year.

Through Mr. Frank O. Price, the Architects faculty advisor, a better conception of our future connection with the Pratt Architectural Club was gotten besides acting in his official capacity as advisor.

Summing up our activities, it may be said that the past scholastic year has produced another page of excellent history for the organization's good.

CHALLENGED by the attainments of the Paletteers of '31 and encouraged by their best wishes we feel that we have had a splendid year.

Among the artists who have spoken have been the well-known illustrators, Tony Sarg, Eric Pape, Rudolph, Belarski and John Vassos.

Our social year has been a triumph. The Artsmen-Paletteer Dance started things off with a bang and there have been interesting doings ever since. At one afternoon dance the whole school had a grand old time. The girls have spent many enjoyable afternoons and evenings at Paletteers teas and dinners in the Women's Club. Our excursion to Indian Point on Saturday May 21st has brought the year to a very happy conclusion.

All this has been made possible through the fine cooperation of our many capable committees.

Best wishes to you—Paletteers of '33!!

THIS year marks the Tenth Anniversary of the Artsmen. We have finished our first decade of promoting interest in the general field of art and in supporting school activities, the purpose for which the organization was founded.

The purpose of the first officers to have prominent artists lecture informally has been carried on with increasing interest and benefit. Many of them have loaned us their work for exhibitions.

We feel that we have done all in our power to carry out the original ideals during the past year. And in leaving we extend a hearty welcome to the new officers.

AT the beginning of the year the Club gave a tea for the High School Home Economics Clubs of Greater New York. Speakers were Miss Edith Barber, President of Greater New York Home Economics Association, Mrs. Hay, Chairman of the Student Home Economics Club of Greater New York, Miss Catherine Haggery, Dietetics, 1931.

The New York State Convention was held on March 28 and 29 in New York City. Pratt was well represented by students attending the morning meeting, at which Miss Jessie A. Long was the principal speaker, and the student luncheon at noon.

We had the pleasure of hearing Miss Barber speak again on the subject of "Home Economics goes Versatile".

The National Convention is being held at Atlanta, Georgia, from June 20 to the 25. We are in hopes of sending a representative.

THE MARIONETTE CLUB

WITH but a few interested individuals to carry on, the new-born Marionette Club held its first meeting of the new school year. But when the ideas of those few became known, many more members were attracted.

So, in March 1932, the Marionette Club came into its own when it successfully performed "Uncle Tom's Cabin". Each of the three audiences were inspiringly appreciative. So well was the show received, that we were invited to give the show outside of school for charity purposes.

The success cannot be attributed to the work of one or two ambitious persons but to the untiring efforts of all the members. The responsibility was assumed by a director, an art director, a technician and a publicity manager, and guided so kindly by enthused instructors.

The purpose of the originators was to establish the club permanently. We think that aim is being fulfilled.

AFTER a very successful season in 1931 the Glee Clubs started the new year with a large enrollment.

On January 23rd we gave a concert followed by dancing in Recreation Hall. In April following the concert we gave the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "The Pirates of Penzance."

The success of the Glee Clubs has been due in a large measure to the competent leadership of Mr. Leroy Tebbs. Those of us who are leaving Pratt this year want to extend their good wishes to Mr. Tebbs and the clubs for a profitable and enjoyable season in the coming year.

THE chief function of Athletics at Pratt Institute both 'varsity and interclass is not to advertise Pratt Institute, nor is it to provide entertainment to a number of spectators, nor is it as it seems to be in many colleges for the purpose of maintaining an athletic prestige. While these objectives may be worth while incidentally, the primary function of all our athletics is to benefit the participants who engage in them. This goal is secured by developing physique, by inculcating precepts of sportsmanship which make for manliness and integrity of character, and by providing opportunity for natural and healthful recreation which is always to be found in the playing of athletic games.

This policy of accepting such extra curricular activities as an integral part of the education available to a Pratt man is fully in accord with the belief that it is not the exclusive aim of the Institute to turn out specialists in Arts and Science but at the same time wherever possible to afford opportunity for the development of high standards of character and citizenship.

The program of Athletics at Pratt varies little from year to year. This is due to the fact that the sports which we conduct are well established, maintain continued interest, and give opportunity for athletic competition to a maximum number of students under existing conditions.

This last year the interest in our sports program seems to have been on a par with that of previous years. Interclass soccer in the Fall has perhaps more than any other class sport developed in interest on the part of players and spectators alike. Our two 'varsity sports Baseball and Basketball have each concluded unusually successful seasons both from the standpoint of victories and in the manifest good spirit and team work shown by both squads.

The following pages give a more detailed account of the records and achievements in interclass and 'varsity athletics.

FOR the past decade the Athletic Council has consistently carried out its intended objectives. The Council is made up of representatives from each class in the Institute. It has fostered greater interest in inter class athletics, besides tendering awards to Pratt athletes. It has handled an extensive business program throughout the year.

The services of Mr. Ajootian, Mr. Wright, and Mr. Hostetter as faculty advisors greatly aided this body in solving some of its perplexing problems. It is our sincerest hope that in the future this Council will carry on and improve inter class athletic conditions even more than it has in the past.

It was thought that Coach McKillop and his basketeers would remain as Pa Knickerbocker's only undefeated quintet. Although we did not reach our goal, every game was well attended and the spectators throughout the season sat almost pop-eyed, and sometimes hysterical, as Pratt displayed its furious battling power. It was the Blue Devils of Long Island University who handed us the first taste of defeat, of the four games lost, out of the thirteen played.

The outlook from the beginning of the season showed us that we had such stars as Karwoski, Otis, Neilson, Orr, Boemerman, Anderson and Harper. This versatile group was backed up with two players who are in the "six-foot class," Godbee and Bassett.

It is all fitting and deserving that we should pause a moment and offer our thanks to manager "Bob" Seiter for his handling of the business side of the game. Then too, Coach McKillop should be congratulated for his completion of another successful season.

The following is a brief resume of the games:

Cooper Union—17

Pratt—36

In the initial game of the season with Cooper Union, Pratt showed the visitors a fast and aggressive type of play with Otis and Orr leading the attack offensively. Pratt was too strong in all departments of the game for her opponent

Dickinson—25

Pratt—29

Battling furiously into two extra periods, Pratt barely stopped a last minute rally that was staged in the second half in repelling the opponents. At the close of the second session the score was 21 all. In the first extra period, close guarding prevented any tallying, but in the second extra period Pratt scored eight points to clinch a victory.

University of Delaware—19

Pratt—25

Delaware took a 12 to 10 lead at half time, all of Pratt's ten points being scored in this half by Ken Orr. In the second half the invaders from Wilmington fell down on the offense and Pratt came back fast to hand the losers their first setback in four starts.

VARSITY BASKETBALL SQUAD, 1932

V A R S I T Y B A S K E T B A L L

Muhlenberg—15

Pratt—22

This game marked Pratt's fourth consecutive victory in subduing a plucky Muhlenberg five, in a game which bristled with action. Otis, Pratt centre, tallied two field goals and three fouls to snare the high scoring honors with seven points.

Brooklyn Poly—23

Pratt—28

With an overflow crowd in attendance Pratt turned back a fighting Poly five. The victory was marked by hard playing to hold the slim advantage in this game of the series which dates back to 1905. After Pratt had to come from behind to turn the trick for a win.

Long Island University—33

Pratt—25

The greater experience of the Pearl Street contingent paved the way for Pratt's first defeat of the season. The floormanship and passwork of the Long Island University basketeers far surpassed that of Pratt and it is a tribute to the black and gold that they succeeded in making it a real battle.

Providence University—37

Pratt—19

The Providence University basketball squad which boasts of seven players in the "six-foot" class employed two teams in making an impressive victory. The dependable work of the Pratt five formed a good bulwark temporarily, but their efforts proved to be of no avail against the taller, heavier and more experienced five.

Northeastern—31

Pratt—32

In a fast and scrappy contest the Pratt five proved their worth by resuming their winning stride in brilliant fashion. The defeat received by Pratt last season was thus evened up. Pratt's defense clicked perfectly in this game since it was practically impenetrable by the foe.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology—23

Pratt—27

It required an extra session in this game to vanquish the foe. The visitors set the pace throughout the game, Pratt finished strong in the last half to tie the score 21 to 21 with six minutes of play remaining. Both teams failed to score during this time because of close guarding and the game went into a decision period with Pratt emerging the winner after Neilson sunk the winning basket.

V A R S I T Y B A S K E T B A L L

U. S. Coast Guard Academy—36

Pratt—32

This contest was marked by an unusual number of fouls since the type of play employed by the winners is somewhat different than Pratt experienced in the Metropolitan area. It was these foul shots that caused Pratt's defeat after out-scoring their opponents in field baskets and general basketball knowledge.

Trinity College—27

Pratt—28

This was one of the most extraordinary road games of the season and it kept partisan fans of both sides in an uproar all during the second half. They had plenty to cheer about in the first half, all but suffered nervous prostration in the second and ultimately left the gym talking gleefully of one of the most pulse-stirring games of the year.

Brooklyn Poly—22

Pratt—21

Playing on Poly's court the Pratt cagers went down in defeat after "Tech" had proven their ability on the offense. This game attracted a large number of fans as did the preceding get-together thereby giving evidence that Pratt-Poly games are still marked with a zealously for keen rivalry.

Alumni—20

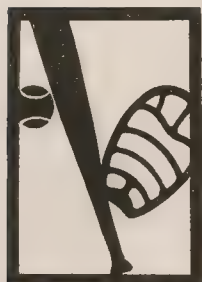

Pratt—37

This game marked the close of a successful basketball season. The Alumni offered little competition as the varsity was able to score at will many times. Karwoski, Neilson, Otis, Orr, Boerman, Harper and Anderson played their last game for their Alma Mater.

VARSITY BASEBALL SQUAD, 1932

V A R S I T Y B A S E B A L L

AN early call for varsity baseball candidates was made, and consequently all the try-outs carried on their spring training in the gym. This gave Coach McKillop an opportunity to pick some lively rookies to supplant his varsity material from last season.

The opening of the schedule, indicates that with "Frankie" Boerman on the mound and a continuance of good stick work, we will see Pratt well on the way to baseball honors.

Pratt was to have opened up the season with St. Stephen's but inclement weather prevented the contest.

City College of New York was Pratt's first victim after coming from behind to deadlock the score at four all in the seventh inning and then to win the game in the eighth by the score of four to five. Pratt sure did some hard hitting.

The black and gold renewed old relations by defeating Stevens, six to two. The large crowd in attendance was given an opportunity to see some good pitching by Boerman who was in top-notch form. Poor fielding by Stevens also gave Pratt the important breaks.

Although Pratt went down in defeat before Providence College, by the score of seven to one, Boerman the strong right handed hurler fanned fourteen men and knocked a home run to give Pratt the only score.

Manager Scofield has arranged the following schedule for the season:

April 9—St. Stephen's College
April 16—Steven's College
April 22—Providence College
April 29—Massachusetts State
May 7—Upsala
May 14—Muhlenberg
May 21—Alumni
May 28—Arnold

THE call was issued for cheer-leading candidates in the early part of November by Varsity cheer-leader Gordon Arnold, and after a very extensive period of training it was decided by a committee that "Vic" Azzam, "Bud" Fahy, "Al" Foster and "Walt" Rau were to be assistant cheer-leaders for the coming season. Through pep meetings, and the willingness of the students to respond, the boys felt at home immediately and gave their best all year coupled at times with some amusing incidents.

The custom of singing the Alma Mater between halves of the games was continued. From all indications this has caused good spirit to be added to the game and warrants the boys of next year, carrying on this representation of school spirit. Thanks are extended to the students for the support displayed during the past basketball season.

THE Chemists turned in a brilliant display of bowling ability during the past season by winning the interclass big pin bowling championship. Incidentally, this is the first time this group has won the crown since 1923. Mixing chemicals seems to be only a side issue with the test tube slingers, since they also captured duck pin laurels to further substantiate their ability.

The victors were in no way hampered by competition because they went through the whole schedule without losing any game of any match.

The team was composed of Fairbanks, Taylor, Dade, and Peters with Kabelka protecting their business interests as manager.

D U C K P I N S

THE habit of the Mechanicals winning duck pin honors was broken this year by the Chemists who were last year's runners up. The old game of ten pins was thoroughly hypnotized by the Chemists superb talent.

In the duck pin tournament, the team won every match, losing two games throughout the entire schedule.

The roster of the team was composed of: Fairbanks, Taylor, Dade, Peters, and Kabelka, manager.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

AN unusually fine series of interclass basketball games were played this season, providing plenty of thrills and excitement for both the players and the spectators.

After a few games had been played, three teams stood out as the most likely contenders for the championship; the second year Boilermakers under the leadership of Captain Swanson proved to be far the best team and came through without a single defeat.

The Artsmen and Chemists were tied for second place; each having won four and lost two games. The Architects' undaunted spirit was a very admirable note of a team out to make good and their prospectus for next year is worthy of attention.

An interesting highlight is the fact that the yearling quintet of last year's victory, this year's senior Electrical team, were not nearly so effective as their predecessors. This resulted in another class winning the laurels. The same circumstances are similar this year, and judging from this season's results it is safe to predict that there will be plenty of competition and perhaps upsets in bidding for the crown next year.

I N T E R C L A S S S O C C E R

N OT in recent years has more enthusiasm been shown for this sport. An exceptionally large number of candidates turned out at the first call. This resulted in several good teams, and due to the profusion of first year men in the lineup, anybody's guess could be considered as to which team would win the coveted championship.

However, from the start the senior boiler makers were considered as the favorites. This was largely due to the reputation they gained last season, as serious contenders for the title, and they did not disappoint their boosters. After a setback in their third game, they put on full steam, and made a clean sweep of the remaining games. Not quite so decisively as their predecessors did they emerge victorious, but with enough stamina and excellent teamwork to outpoint their dangerous opponents the Artsmen.

The latter team was one of the best that has represented the Art School in recent years, and were never out of the race until the very last game.

INTERCLASS SWIMMING

THE Artsmen Tidal Wave, led by Captain Karl Gutberlet, submerged all opposition for their fourth consecutive interclass swimming title. In the keen competition, the leaders were pressed to several pool records.

Captain Gutberlet, Fowler, Paul, Friedman, Lysak, Tompkins, Alt, Boynton, Burwinkle, Yuill, Reilly and Mazula were the twelve cylinders in the Artsmen engine which ran on water instead of gas.

The team was managed by Goldman and coached by Al Krikorian. Good fellowship and sportsmanlike attitudes were strongly in evidence on all teams.

B O X I N G

THIS year the boxing class has carried on the manly art of self-defense under the tutelage of Coach "Ed" Zawacki. Although the season was started rather late, the meetings that were held each week were well attended and enjoyed. "Jo" Wincz seems to be the most promising contender for the student instructorship next year.

The Pratt boxing class, although not entering any competition aside from that received in class, produced some excellent talent. We might name such candidates as Porter, Gregory and Shortell, who are leaving school this year through graduation, as having received a good knowledge of boxing and sportsmanship.

F E N C I N G

THE fencing club, with a large enrollment of enthusiasts, has been getting a season's good practice under the able tutelage of Miss Wenzel, who is coach at the Y.W.C.A. The members of the club look forward to a season of interscholastic matches in the coming year. With the cooperation of the women students fencing has been given a good start; as a sport it is now sponsored by the Women's Department of Physical Education which provides all necessary equipment. It is an accomplishment admirably adapted to correlate the training of an artist and by reason of the interest shown we expect the club to carry on to a fine development.

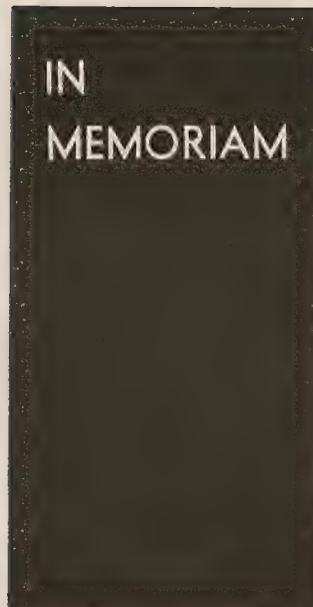

T H E R E S T H O U S E

THE Rest House can well be praised for its good administering to its slightly ill and dejected personages who have been its patrons. In those months in the middle of the scholastic year when the Institute reeks with over-worked minds and sore throats, the rendering of services by Miss Hale and Mrs. Hatch can well be considered motherly. This is not all we must consider when we speak of the Rest House since it also carries on a large business in the ordinary required first aid hurts.

The new students who come to the Institute and have fallen a victim of some ill and need attention often shirk their duty by not seeking out this health centre at 244 Vanderbilt Avenue. But once they become customers it is often hard to keep them away from a place that makes mother nature return to neutral zones in the way of physical perfectibility.

C. FRANKLIN EDMINSTER

C. Franklin Edminster, Supervisor of the Department of Architecture since its beginning and senior member of the Pratt Faculty, passed away on January 25, 1932.

To thousands of students, graduates and associates he has always been affectionately known as "Eddie". He has gone, but his paternal understanding, the gentleness and friendliness of his nature, the warmth of his handshake and the sincerity of his smile, will all live in the depths of memory.

Mr. Edminster came to Pratt in 1888, scarcely a year after the founding of the Institute. Later, upon the establishment of a course in architecture, he became supervisor of this work and carried on in this capacity until his death. As an educator his attainments have been definite and far-reaching. His ability to lead and to surround himself with men prominent in the various phases of the architectural and building world, has been largely instrumental in developing one of the most unique and outstanding architectural schools in this country.

We shall all miss him. No one can take his place; but so well did he lay the foundations that, to those of us to whom the task is left to carry on, the way into the future seems quite clear.

MISS JUSTINE E. DAY

Miss Justine E. Day, for twenty-five years Secretary to the Library School, died February 9, 1932, after a week's illness. In completing a quarter century of continuous service Miss Day was looking forward to appropriate recognition, involving a prolonged season of rest and recreation. It was tragic that her going should have coincided with the time of her celebration.

Miss Day, in her intimate contacts with the students of successive classes of the Library School, had endeared herself to a host of graduates, to whom she had been a mentor and a friend in school days. She had just been in attendance upon a reunion of the Graduates Association, at which her anniversary was observed by her election to honorary membership in the Association, a distinction accorded to few.

As sole Secretary to the School, Miss Day was the constant reliance of the Vice-Director, by whom her loss is most severely felt. Miss Day's contribution of twenty-five years of devoted service was an enrichment to the history and worth of what Pratt Institute represents.
